MRS. GUY POST SHOT TO DEATH WITH RICH GIRL

Bodies Are Discovered by Maid in Home of Mrs. Palmer.

HAD DIVORCED ACTOR ON DESERTION COUNT

Former Adele Ritchie Once Gained Fame on Stage.

EVENTS NOT KNOWN PRECEDING TRAGEDY

California Resort Officials Launch Investigation Into Dual Slaying.

Laguna Beach, Calif., April 24 (A. P.).—Mrs. Guy Bates Post and Mrs. Doris Murray Palmer, former resident of Chicago, were found shot to death in the fashionable bungalow of Mrs. Palmer here late today. Mrs. Post recently received a divorce from the noted actor.

The discovery was made by a maid in the Palmer home, who stumbled across teh bodies while returning from a market errand.

Mrs. Post, who, in her hey-day as an actress, was known as Adele Ritchie, was shot through the mouth. Mrs. Palmer was shot through the back. The wounds were made by a shotgun, but the weapon could not be found in a quick search of the home. The events immediately preceding the slaying were not known.

Lived in Luxurious Home.

Mrs. Post, who was about 50 years old, came here several months ago from Hollywood to live with her mother in their luxurious home on Sunset Hills, fashionable colony of the resort city. Mrs. Palmer, who was about 32 years old, came here about two and a half years ago from Chicago. She apparently was very wealthy.

Guy Bates Post recently has been playing before Los Angeles audiences in the production "Masquerader."

Mrs. Post, before her marriage some years ago to the actor, appeared in several plays with the late Lillian Russell.

The sheriff's office at Santa Ana received a report of the killing and sent deputies to Lagune Beach. The Santa Ana authorities said circumstances indicated the women must have been shot by a third person.

Divorced in 1929.

Mrs. Post obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce from the actor December 14, 1929. She charged desertion. Mr. Post did not contest the action. They were married in Toronto Canada November 3, 1916, and separated in California October 1, 1926.

For several years she has been in charge of the Laguna Beach Playhouse, sponsored by Harold McCormick, son of the late Cyrus McCormick, harvester magnate, of Chicago.

Mr. Post sailed from San Pedro, Calif., March 22 for Honolulu, where he was under contract to appear as a guest star of a stock company.

The bodies were found in the living room of the Palmer home. The shot had mutilated Mrs. Post's head.

Women Called Good Friends.

Mrs. Palmer and Mrs. Post were known in society circles here as "very good friends." Mrs. Palmer was divorced several years ago.

The murders apparently occurred sometime in the afternoon. While the tragedy was not discovered until the maid arrived at the house, it was

Grant Considered For Cincinnati Post

Col. C. W. Kutz and Capital Official Mentioned for City Managership.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cincinnati, Ohio, April 24.—One Washingtonian and a former Capital official are under consideration by the City Council here as possible successors to Col. C. O. Sherrill, city manager, who resigned a few days ago to become general manager of the Kroger Grocery & Baking Co.

Col. C. W. Kutz, former engineer commissioner of the District of Columbia, is here at the invitation of friends who are backing him for the post. He is well known in Cincinnati, where he lived for seven years prior to 1928 as district engineer in charge of Ohio River improvements.

No aciton will be taken by the council, however, pending the return of Mayor Russell Wilson and Col. Sherrill from Washington, where they will go to interview Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of public grounds and buildings, who, it is understood, may have the job as city manager if he cares to leave Washington. Col. Sherrill formerly held the Government position now filled by Col. Grant.

Suzanne Pollard Given Ovation as Diadem Is Placed

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., April 24.—Miss Suzanne Pollard, daughter of Gov. John Garland Pollard of Virginia, and mistress of the executive mansion at Richmond, became "Queen Shenandoah VII" of the annual Shenandoah Apple Blossom Festival here this afternoon. Gov. L. G. Hardman of Georgia placed on her brow a platinum crown studded with diamonds and handed her the golden scepter of authority, thus to reign over the apple realm until the celebration closes tomorrow night. The coronation was held at Handley High School Stadium.

A mighty shout of cheers went up from 50,000 throats as the first lady of the Old Dominion rose from the silken cushion on which she had knelt to receive the queenly honors, and was escorted to the golden throne chair nearby to view a colorful pageant of "The Buds and the Bloom," presented by 500 Handley High School

70,000 SLASH MADE IN EUROPEAN QUOTA

National Origin Proponents Strike Out Provision of Senate Measure.

MEXICAN CUT PLANNED

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The Senate went on its determined way of doing something about immigration yesterday, though just what it will do is yet to be determined.

National origin proponents rallied their forces during the day and struck out of the Harris bill, designed to restrict Mexican immigration, the amendment which Senator Norbeck had previously inserted repealing the national origins clause of the present immigration act.

In doing this, however, it left enough language of the Norbeck amendment to cut down the European quota of immigrants from 150,000 to 80,000. This matter will have to be straightened out, and whether the 80,000 figure will be retained remains to be seen.

Senator Norbeck, in offering his amendment to repeal national origins the other day, also proposed that the European quota should be 1½ per cent of the European nationals in this country in 1890. The existing national origins quota is arbitrarily fixed at 150,000. Senator Norbeck's proposal would have cut it down to 120,000, this reduction

HOOVER AND LEADERS REVIEW TARIFF BILL

Procedure on Measure Is Discussed at Breakfast in White House.

DEBENTURE MAIN ISSUE

(Associated Press.)

Republican leaders of the Senate and House carried their troubles over procedure with the tariff bill to the White House yesterday and after a discussion over the breakfast table with President Hoover, came away agreed that the House act first on the conference report and take a direct vote on the export debenture provision.

This is not in accordance with custom, but Senator Watson, of Indiana, Republican pilot, insisted that the House go on record on the debenture farm relief amendment and the President, after listening to both sides, approved this plan.

Although disposed to follow the usual practice and have the Senate consider the report first, House leaders accepted the decision and agreed to take up the report, including the eight major points of difference between the two branches, next Thursday. It was thought that action could be completed in that branch in two or three days.

Reluctant to put the debenture to a direct vote before another test in the Senate, House leaders now are

Convicted Slayer Chooses Gas Death to Life in Prison

Gambler Will Be Third to Be Executed in Lethal Chamber at Nevada Penitentiary; Refuses to Allow Plea for Commutation.

Reno, Nev., April 24 (A.P.).—R. H. White, 42, a gambler, today told his attorneys he would "rather take the gas," in the new lethal chamber at the Nevada Penitentiary in Carson City than spend the rest of his life in prison and instructed them not to ask the State board of pardons for a commutation of the death sentence.

Judge L. O. Hawkins, of Winnemucca, within a few days will set the date for the execution and county authorities said the gambler probably would be executed next month.

White, who was convicted of the murder of Louis Lavell, another gambler, at Elko last year, will be the third man to enter the lethal chamber at the penitentiary to pay the extreme penalty for murder. The Nevada Supreme Court yesterday refused a request for a rehearing of his appeal.

"Let's get it over with and the sooner the better," White told his attorneys as he sat in his cell.

The "gas house," which was completed recently, is a square building about twenty feet in dimension and ten feet high. It is built of square blocks of stone taken from the prison

MARY BAKER'S FRIENDS DENY SHE WAS WED

Rumors Army Sergeant Was Introduced as Her Husband Scouted.

WAITRESS QUIZZED ABOUT INFORMATION

Kelly to Run Down Lead Furnished by Girl at Lunchroom.

RICHMOND SUSPECT ABSOLVED IN KILLING

Inmate of Staunton Asylum Also Is Eliminated in Hunt for Slayer.

Friends of Mary Baker last night vehemently denied that the murdered girl had ever been married to or consorted with an Army sergeant. This denial followed the publication of reports that a Sergt. Baker was known as the husband of the girl.

Miss Inez Eyre, confidential friend of the slain girl, last night told inquirers that the reports of Mary Baker's marriage to an Army man were absolute falsehoods. "I knew Mary Baker as well as any one," she said, "and the statement that she was married is an absolute lie."

The story of the marriage emanated from a lunchroom near the Highway Bridge. A waitress there is alleged to have told investigators that the murdered girl had introduced an Army sergeant as her husband. Lieut. Edward J. Kelly late yesterday went to interview Kitty Spaulding, the waitress, who volunteered the information.

Will Run Down Lead.

Lieut. Kelly after his return announced that he would run down the lead. Miss Spaulding told him that she did not know where "Sergeant Baker" was stationed. All the information she could offer was that he was of medium build, weighed about 145 pounds and drove an automobile. She denied that she had ever heard the man threaten the girl.

Miss Baker and the man had never been in the restaurant together, she said. Miss Spaulding had met Miss Baker at the Calvary Baptist Church more than a year ago. She said that Miss Baker had told her on many occasions that she was married. Miss Baker is also said to have expressed fear to her friends that the Army sergeant was very jealous of her familiarity with other men. All these assertions are denied by the intimates of the slain girl.

Two colored men, Frank Smith and James Vollin, have not yet been eliminated from suspicion. While their alibis advanced as an explanation for their activities on the day following the murder have been accepted by police, the authorities are less inclined to believe their stories of the night of the murder.

Inspector Is Unconvinced.

Inspector William S. Shelby yesterday said that he is not yet convinced that the men did not take the coat, hat and other articles from the mur-

HOUSE PASSES HUGE INCREASE FOR VETERANS

Bill for Compensation Is Approved as Tumult Holds Sway.

VETO BY PRESIDENT FREELY PREDICTED

Measure Given Sanction in Face of His Plea for Economy.

NUMEROUS CHANGES CAUSE NAME SWITCH

Johnson Gains Consent to Have Rankin Listed as Act's Sponsor.

(Associated Press.)

Sweeping increases in the Government's compensation policy for World War veterans were voted yesterday by the House after more than a week of debate, climaxed by a tumultuous eight-hour session in which predictions were freely made that President Hoover would veto the measure.

In the face of protests by Chairman Wood, of the appropriations committee, that such legislation should not be enacted in view of the President's request last Monday that expenditures be curtailed, a bill to provide compensation for every disability incurred up to January 1, 1930, was approved, 324 to 49, and sent to the Senate.

Originally sponsored by Chairman Johnson, of the World War veterans' committee, the measure was so greatly altered by amendment that its author, after failing in an effort to have it sent back to his committee, obtained unanimous consent to change its name to the "Rankin bill."

Time Limit Advanced.

Representative Rankin (Democrat), Mississippi, was responsible for many of the changes in the measure. Among others was an amendment proposed by Representative Connery (Democrat), Massachusetts, advancing the time limit of the presumptive clause from January 1, 1925, as carried in the original bill, to January 1, 1930.

On the final vote, 47 Republicans and two Democrats combined in opposition to the bill, after 87 Republicans had joined the Democrats in blocking recommittment, 228 to 146. Only two of the minority voted to send the bill back to committee.

Moving toward completion of the measure under an agreement to remain in session until it was disposed of, the House at times was a virtual bedlam as amendment after amendment was proposed. The chair frequently had difficulty in maintaining order as the debate grew heated, with several members attempting to gain the floor at once.

Disallowance Clause Stricken.

Representative Wood gained approval of his amendment to strike from the measure a clause to prohibit the Comptroller General from disallowing compensation payments approved by the Veterans' Bureau.

16,000 Quarts of Rum Found in Freight Cars

$150,000 Liquor Cargo, Camouflaged as Scratch Feed, Seized by Federal Agents in Potomac Yards; Called Record Capture.

In a liquor seizure characterized as the largest in the history of Washington and this region, two special Federal agents seized two freight cars containing 16,000 quarts of assorted liquors, valued at an aggregate of $150,000, in the Potomac Yards in nearby Virginia yesterday afternoon.

The two freight cars, one owned by the Seaboard Air Line and the other owned by the Western Maryland Railroad, were consigned, respectively, to the B. Simonds Scratch Feed Co. at Jersey City, N. J., and to the W. B. Curry Feed Co. in Newark, N. J.

Acting on a tip from Charleston, S. C., where the liquor was reported to have been transferred from ships to the cars on their departure Monday, Special Agent Warren A. Heddens and another special agent working from the offices of Prohibition Commissioner James Doran seized the cars a short while after they were parked in the Potomac Yards on a Seaboard Air Line Railroad train. They were scheduled to remain in the yards overnight preparatory to hook-up with a Pennsylvania Railroad train northbound this morning.

Consigned as scratch feed, the shipments in each car were composed of gunnysack "hama" containing six quarts each. Both cars were reported filled to capacity. Alongside the doors in both cars were strewn scratch feed, evidently as camouflage, while 24 bags of scratch feed were found with the liquor bundles in the cars.

Special Agent Heddens declared that several "hams" were opened to reveal various kinds of liquor. Belief was expressed that the consignments included quantities of rye, Scotch, rum, gin and possibly champagne, among more expensive liquors.

Overnight the two cars were guarded by a detail of Federal agents, headed by Charles T. Goods, preparatory to removal of the bottled goods to trucks this morning for transfer to the Federal warehouse at 322 Thirteen-and-a-half street northwest.

Liege, Belgium, April 24 (A.P.).—Five workmen were killed and 75 injured in an explosion today of a tank of gaseous ammonia at the Ougree Marihaye Steel Works near here.

Several nearby houses were demolished and villagers fled for their lives as poisonous gas poured into their homes. Many were taken to hospitals, where most of them were expected to recover.

Mrs. R. Q. Lee Seeks Late Husband's Post

Texas Woman Will Run Against Blanton for Seat in House.

Cisco, Tex., April 24 (A.P.).—Acquiescing to the persuasion of friends, Mrs. Robert Quincy Lee, 47 years old, today became a candidate for representative from the Seventeenth Texas District in Congress to fill the unexpired term of her late husband.

A personal campaign will not be made by Mrs. Lee, who said pressing engagements made it necessary for her to return to Washington. Her campaign, she explained, will be left in the hands of friends. She will have at least one opponent, former Representative Thomas L. Blanton, of Abilene, also having announced. Representative Lee succeeded Representative Blanton, two years ago when the latter was a candidate for a seat in the Senate instead of running for reelection to the House of Representatives.

RECTOR CONVICTED OF DEFAMING BISHOP

WILL RECEIVE WARNING

Lexington, Ky., April 24 (A.P.).—The Rev. Julius Arnold Velasco, 31-year-old rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, at Dayton, Ky., on trial before an ecclesiastical court here for two days on chargees growing out of his marriage to a Catholic, was found guilty tonight of one charge, the verdict recommending that he be admonished only.

The rector was convicted of the charge of having used "defaming and disrespectful language concerning his bishop," but was acquitted of two other charges. The court deliberated two hours and ten minutes.

The charges of which he was acquitted were that he violated a written pledge not to marry a Catholic, given when he was ordained last year, and that he violated his word to Bishop H. P. Almon Abbott.

The young rector was married January 25 to Catherine Rogers, of Baltimore, at Ellicott City, Md., the ceremony being performed by a Catholic priest.

Dr. Velasco conducted his own defense and delivered the only argument in his own behalf this afternoon. The prosecution's argument was by former State Senator A. E. Stricklett, of the prosecution counsel.

Although unschooled in legal procedure and opposing a prosecution staff composed of practicing attorneys, Dr. Velasco handled his case expertly, drawing from witnesses the entire story of his quarrel with authorities of Lexington diocese.

He called to the stand the Venerable James D. Gibson, archdeacon of the Ohio Valley and chairman of the standing diocesan committee which preferred the charges, who testified that Dr. Velasco was asked to sign the agreement because authorities felt that he could better serve his parish if he were not married to a Catholic. Archdeacon Gibson admitted that there was no canon of the Episcopal Church preventing marriage to a Catholic, or by a Catholic priest.

COMMITTEE INQUIRY ON RUM LAWS ENDS

Coach Roper and Sir Henry Drayton Testify for Wets Before House Group.

CANADA SYSTEM CITED

(Associated Press.)

The antiprohibition forces yesterday concluded their attack on the eighteenth amendment before the House judiciary committee with an effort to prove the success of the Canadian liquor control system and also to establish that athletic directors of big universities were divided over the effect of the dry law on American youth.

As soon as they finished, Chairman Graham announced the protracted public hearings closed. He said probably at a later date the committee would take under consideration the vast amount of testimony obtained and might act on one of the many bills introduced asking repeal of the eighteenth amendment or modification of the Volstead act.

As the committee membership has a preponderance of drys the wets do not expect any of the repeal or modification measures to receive a favorable report.

Opponents of prohibition were the first heard by the committee when the sessions started some time ago. After they had painted a picture of drinking among youth, crowded jails and increase in crime, the drys were heard. They attributed to prohibition increased savings deposits, industrial expansion, happier homes, and better living conditions generally.

Yesterday's session wound up a two-day rebuttal period given the wets. They called upon Sir Henry Drayton, chairman of the Ontario Liquor Control Board, to tell how one of America's neighboring nations endeavors to control liquor traffic. He defended the system, saying it had proved a more effective step toward temperance than ha prohibition.

The wets also summoned W. W Roper, head football coach at Princeton, whose name is known to the youth of all American colleges. Himself a teetotaler, Mr. Roper said he had found that many young men drank and that, even more alarming, young women were drinking. As a

Gill of Alleged Rum Stirs Battle With Three Agents

Charge of Possession Faced by Lone Defender, Who Suffers Injuries Requiring Ten Stitches After Fight With Revenue Men.

A raid yielding only a gill of alleged liquor landed its alleged coowner in Emergency Hospital with painful injuries necessitating ten stitches yesterday afternoon after a tussle with Federal Revenue Agents Harry L. Doyle, M. B. Thompson and J. Weigel.

Bernard Clark, 31 years old, of Twenty-second street near M street northwest, required six stitches in the scalp, three over the right eye and one over the left eye. Charges of possession of the one gill were booked at the Third Precinct Station against him and against George Allen, 32 years old, of Eleventh street near R street northwest. Clark was released on $1,100 bond.

The three Federal agents reported that the raid was staged on a first-floor apartment on M street near Nineteenth street northwest, and that when Clark resisted arrest they were forced to fight to subdue him. Clark declared that the altercation took place in the hall outside his rooms and that he fought the three men, ignorant that they were officers.

The agents also booked as United States witnesses both R. B. McLendon, 31 years old, of H street near Twenty-first street northwest, and B. L. Chambliss, 33 years old, of Kilbourne place near Eighteenth street northwest.

Convicts Return to Cell Blocks Peacefully After Meal.

PRISONERS DEMAND WARDEN'S REMOVAL

Accusations of Cruelty Are Placed Before Gov. Cooper.

CAPTAIN OF GUARDS BLAMED FOR DEATHS

Mass Funeral Services for Unclaimed Bodies to Be Held Today.

Columbus, Ohio, April 24 (A.P.).—After a day of threatened violence by several thousand convicts in Ohio State Penitentiary, scene of the tragic fire which cost 318 lives, the situation quieted tonight. At the regular meal time the men in the idle house, where most of today's trouble occurred, were led out in companies to the dining halls. No untoward incident occurred while the men were eating.

When the convicts returned to their cell blocks they seemed more peaceful than at any time in 48 hours. They were not in their cells, but were out in the cages talking in quiet voices. It was not known if any effort would be made to put the prisoners in the cells, the locks of which had been broken and rendered useless.

National Guard Patrols.

Many of the convicts went into their cells, and with the doors ajar, entertained themselves by playing cards and checkers and listening to radios. There was much movement from cell to cell but no disorders. The regular guards were on duty in the block.

In the guard room, in addition to the usual force, ten Ohio National Guardsmen with rifles and bayonets were quartered. Outside the walls guardsmen patrolled the four sides of the prison, while in a warehouse across the street 800 were ready to answer any emergency call.

In the meantime, a proposal to suspend the warden temporarily was placed before Gov. Myers Y. Cooper. Prisoners testified in Gov. Cooper's investigation that Warden Thomas ruled the convicts with cruelty and that the prisoners were organized to continue resistance until the warden is removed.

Guard Captain Blamed.

The convict witnesses blamed Guard Capt. John Hall, aged 72 years, for the great loss of life, saying he had failed to order release of the trapped men.

In the meantime, relatives of the prison dead continued to remove the bodies from the temporary morgue at the State Fair Grounds. Several unclaimed bodies were to be buried here tomorrow at mass funeral services. Only about half the bodies were claimed. The unidentified dead were to be held for several days.

At the prison early this morning a revolt of several convicts was quieted, but soon thereafter the convicts in the idle house, where practically all cell door locks had been broken, demanded release into the yard. Seven hundred gallons of hot coffee were served and for a short time the men quieted.

Troops Are Recalled.

At dawn plans were made to release some of the soldiers on duty outside, but the orders were quickly rescinded and additional troops called when the unruly leaders in the idle house, other cell blocks and the yard urged the prisoners to "Take a chance" on a break. For a time rioting was feared. Even the calm voices of ministers and of the more cool-headed prisoners failed to prevail.

Not until Deputy Warden J. C. Woodward spoke to the men did they calm down and announce there would be no violence but that they would resist the warden's rule passively.

NEWS of SUBURBAN Washington and the Surrounding States

Appears on Pages 5 and 20 Today

Gov. Cooper late today said he would take no action on the proposal to suspend the warden until after the investigation.

All prisoners who testified declared that more than half an hour elapsed before the discovery of the fire and the time doors of the cells were unlocked.

Albert Farr, of Hamilton County, a fire survivor, testified that the unrest among the prizoners was the culmination of things that had been brewing for years. He said an organized appeal had been sent out to all convicts asking them to refuse to work until Warden Thomas is removed.

Brutality Is Charged.

Committees have been appointed in each cell block to maintain order, Farr declared, but the effect will be conditional upon the ousting of the warden.

Farr blamed Thomas for what he termed numerous instances of brutality. He declared a Negro prisoner on one occasion had been slain by a guard while he was running across the penitentiary yard. The guard pleaded self-defense and nothing ever was done about it, Farr said.

Nearly all the convicts were suffocated and burned because they were the last to be reached by the rescuers. The prisoners said the fire was discovered about 5:20 p. m. It was 6 o'clock or later before the guards began unlocking the cell doors, they testified, although a constant howl for release came from cells on every range. All declared that Capt. Hall issued orders "not to unlock the cells, but to open the windows instead, because all these men need is air."

Draft Is Created.

The windows were opened and the air rushing in created a draft that forced the smoke upward where the imprisoned men already were dying from heat and fumes, the witnesses testified. The prisoners contradicted the stories told by night guards, Thomas Little and W. C. Baldwin, that they rushed to the burning cell blocks with keys on the orders of Warden Thomas as soon as the fire was discovered.

Going into a night session to continue efforts to learn the cause of the fire, the State's investigators heard further testimony concerning the possibility that short-circuited wires might have been the cause.

F. L. Pike, chief engineer at the prison, who supervised the electrical work in the temporary blocks, said that the lights went out when a wire was cut accidentally by a piece of iron. Repairs were made, he added, several hours before the fire was discovered. The lights were suspended from beams above the cell houses. After splicing the broken wire, Pike said, workmen replaced all fuses.

Theory Is Doubted.

Pike doubted the theory that a short circuit could start a fire, pointing out that such a condition would blow all the fuses and thus cut off the power. He said all lights were supposed to be out at night, but that he was not certain whether they were out Monday evening.

Decision to hold the night session was announced by Attorney General Gilbert Bettman after a conference late today with Gov. Cooper and members of the board of inquiry. Bettman also announced that the investigators' report would be placed before the governor Saturday.

Mrs. Belmont Hits Male Supremacy

Tells Women to Continue Fight on Code Adopted at The Hague.

Paris, April 24 (A.P.).—Declaring that the time was past when men could govern women, Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont told a group of American feminists today that the refusal of the United States to sign the nationality convention drafted at the recent Hague conference proved just that.

She said that men of Europe had lost their dominion over the working classes, had lost their slaves and their serfs, but still dominated their women, whereas the women of the United States had nothing in common with their sisters in Europe. She called upon them to continue to oppose the nationality code adopted at The Hague.

Doris Stevens and other conspicuous leaders of the feminist movement were present. The women fought the nationality code on the ground that it was discriminatory. They hold that a married woman's nationality should not be determined by that of her husband.

New Project Launched On Memorial Highway

Another step forward in the construction of the Mount Vernon Memorial Highway was taken yesterday when the corporation to whom the contracts for bridge structures have been awarded, began excavating for the bridge which is to carry the R., F. & P Railroad over the Memorial highway. For the past week a dredge has been at work on the foundations for a bridge across Little Hunting Creek.

The pumping of hydraulic fills is about one half completed. The dredge Talcott has been moved down stream and is now pumping sand and gravel for the fill across Roaches Run. The underpass south of the railroad bridge will have a double-arch span, add the one across Little Hunting Creek a single span, both of reinforced concrete faced with native stone laid in random bond.

LINDBERGH, FLYING SOUTH, STOPS HERE

Aviator's Mother Changes Plans, Hastening Back to New York.

BOTH GREETED BY ENVOY

Flying down from Roosevelt Field with his mother, Col. Charles A. Lindberg spent last night in this city before a scheduled departure about 9 o'clock this morning from Bolling Field on another leg of a round-trip flight to the Canal Zone in the inaugural of a new South American air mail route.

Col. Lindbergh had a brief conversation with Harry F. Guggenheim, Ambassador to Cuba, and with Clarence D. Young, Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Aeronautics, at whose home he spent the night. His mother, Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, changed her plans and took a night train back to New York.

They landed at Bolling Field at 5:47 o'clock in the afternoon after an uneventful journey. He planned to reach Miami tonight for an overnight stay before reaching Havana tomorrow in a Pan-American Airways plane with the first seven-day batch of airmail for Buenos Aires.

Will Fly Across Carribean.

The following day he will hop off on a proposed dawn-to-duck flight acorss the Caribbean Sea to Cristobal, Canal Zone. There he will await the return of a mail plane from Buenos Aires before starting back.

Col. Lindbergh talked briefly with newspapermen at the field, and blushed when the talk turned to the action of his wife in entering a New York hospital. He refused to comment, except to say that she was "getting along fine" and that he would hurry back as quickly as possible.

The Lockheed low-wing monoplane which he was flying when he arrived in Washington sailed over the field several times before landing, finally coming to a halt immediately in front of the visitors' hangar. The plane was pulled into the hangar before his mother alighted.

200 Witness Perfect Landing.

The colonel was in the front cockpit, dressed in a flying suit and a parachute. His mother was in the rear cockpit, similarly dressed. A crowd of about 200 persons witnessed the landing, which, as usual, was perfect.

The reception committee which met Col. Lindbergh included Capt. Earnest Clark, commander of Bolling Field; Lieut. C. H. Welch, officer of the day, and P. E. D. Negle, Washington representative of the Pan-American Airways.

Deputy Is Killed Serving Warrant

Farmer Shoots Officer After Quarrel With Party of Surveyors.

Port Payne, Ala., April 24 (A.P.).—Deputy Sheriff Owen Webster, 26 years old, was shot to death by William Colter, 70, and the latter was wounded, perhaps fatally, by officers accompanying Webster, in a gun battle arising from a dispute over a land survey on Colter's farm near here today. Sheriff Luther Campbell said Colter had threatened a party of surveyors who attempted to cross his land. They secured a peace warrant and Webster and two other officers went to serve it.

The sheriff said Colter began firing with a revolver as the officers approached him and Webster was killed instantly.

The other officers returned the fire and Colter fell with bullets in his abdomen. At a hospital here, where he was brought for treatment, it was said he probably would die. Webster was to have been married next week.

Army Airships Repulse "Red" Navy Battleships

San Francisco, Calif., April 24 (A. P.).—Flying out over Golden Gate, a large air fleet from Mather Field, Sacramento, today repulsed a "red" naval fleet steaming toward San Francisco to wipe out the "blue" navy bottled up in the bay. Theoretically, the sky armada crushed the enemy ships.

The sham battle today marked the end of the "war" which has kept the United States Army Air Corps first provisional wing busy throughout northern California for the past four weeks.

Woman Is Grilled In Family Deaths

Admissions Held Obtained on Sending of Candy; Three Are Dead.

Long Beach, Calif., April 24 (A.P.).—Detectives said today they obtained "suspicious admissions" from Mrs. Mary Hartman during questioning about the deaths of three members of her family within the last three years.

Mrs. Hartman, the detectives said, admitted sending boxes of candy, flowers and letters to her daughter. Notes in the packages and the letters were signed with a question mark. The detectives said Mrs. Hartman did not appear rational.

Investigation of the deaths was caused by the findings of physicians yesterday that a daughter, Ruth Hartman, 14, who died ten days ago, was poisoned. It was recalled then by police that a son, Henry, 22, died a year ago, supposedly from ptomaine poisoning, and that the father and husband, Oluff, 47, died in 1927 presumably from a blow struck by a burglar.

POLICE HOLD MAN IN LYNCHING CASE

Alleged Member of Mob Is Jailed by Officers in South Carolina.

GOVERNOR ORDERS QUIZ

Walhalla, S. C., April 24 (A.P.).—The lynching of Allen Green, 50-year-old Negro, early today by a mob which clubbed and severely injured Sheriff John Thomas in taking the prisoner from him, was followed shortly before noon by the arrest of John Sanders, of Walhalla, said to have been recognized by Sheriff Thomas and his son Eugene as a member of the mob.

Sanders' arrest was the first move in the investigation launched by J. R. Pea, coroner of Oconee County, where the lynching occurred.

Officers said Sanders, when arrested, donned a coat on which blood spots could be plainly seen.

He was taken to a jail in another county.

Sheriff Undergoes Operation.

Sheriff Thomas, who is in Anderson County Hospital with a fractured skull this morning, underwent an operation in an effort to save his life.

A reporter of the Greenville (S.C.) Piedmont, who interviewed Sanders after his arrest, said the man denied he was in the mob.

Sanders was quoted as saying he was asleep at home at the time the jail was raided. He said he saw the mob form, about 150 persons occupying automobiles, but did not go with them, remaining at home and going to bed.

Columbia, S. C., April 24 (A.P.)—Gov. John G. Richards today said he "greatly deplored" the Walhalla lynching and that he would do all in his power to arrest the guilty persons.

Governor Orders Investigation.

"I have ordered a thorough investigation and propose to bring to justice, if it is possible, those responsible," he said.

"I have asked Solicitor Leon Harris, of Anderson, to proceed to Walhalla to take charge and have ordered a dozen members of my detective force there to aid local authorities."

The governor said he also had asked sheriffs of Greenville and Pickens Counties, adjoining Oconee County, where the lynching occurred, to aid in the investigation.

He said if he had known of the Negro's arrest and had he been informed there was any fear of trouble he would have taken necessary precautions to prevent the lynching.

Archduke Leopold Answers Warrant

Arraigned in Connection With Sale of $400,000 Napoleon Gems.

New York, April 24 (A.P.).—A member of the ancient line of Hapsburgs, one-time rulers of most of Europe, was fingerprinted and "mugged" by the police today and then arraigned in general sessions court on two indictments charging him with first-degree grand larceny in connection with the sale of the $400,000 Napoleon necklace.

Carrying a leather coat on his arm, Archduke Leopold of Austria stood in silence while his lawyer, Ferdinand Pecora, entered a plea of not guilty for him, obtained an adjournment until May 2 and arranged for $7,500 bail. Bench warrants also were issued for Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Townsend, who were indicted with the archduke and who are understood to have left the country.

Leopold was alleged to have received a commission on the sale of the necklace—the property of his aunt, the Archduchess Maria Theresa of Austria—to a Fifth avenue jeweler by Townsend for $600,000.

Kidnapers of American In China Get Life Terms

Tientsin, China, April 24 (A.P.).—Four Russians convicted of kidnaping Aaron Brenner, New York fur dealer, last November, were sentenced to life imprisonment today by a Chinese judge. A fifth prisoner was sentenced to five years.

Mr. Brenner was kidnaped early in November and was held for a ransom of $500,000. After being held nearly a week he was released, the police being close on the trail of the kidnapers. On November 15 seven men were arrested on suspicion of belonging to the gang.

Six Aliens in Taxicab Flee Toward New York

Wilmington, N. C., April 24 (A.P.).—Six aliens who escaped from the Czechoslovakian steamer Aleksandar I were believed today to be on their way to New York City in a taxicab. A taxi company here was offered a considerable sum to take the men to New York yesterday but refused. However, another company furnished them transportation to Wilson, and at Wilson it was learned they hired another cab to take them.

They escaped from the ship after two private guards and a member of the crew had been placed to guard them.

U. S. MISSIONARIES BARE RED HORRORS

Refugees From China City Say Bounties Are Placed on Foreigners' Heads.

STATE HUNDREDS SLAIN

Canton, China, April 24 (A.P.).—Two American missionaries who fled here today from Sinfeng, Kiangsi Province, reported that "Red" bandit leaders were offering a reward of $200 for every foreigner captured, saying that "all foreigners would be killed."

Sixty thousand peasants, the missionaries said, had enlisted recently in the Communist army which has been despoiling the province for many months. Soviet propaganda, they asserted, was making great headway among the masses, who were paid in Russian currency.

The missionaries, Father McLaughlin and Father Moehringer, of Brooklyn, N. Y., said that sixteen American Catholic missionaries at Kanchow were in danger of capture by "Red" troops and possible execution, as the city was near surrender after a siege since early last month.

200 Alleged Murdered.

Reports at Sinfeng when the priests left there April 10, said that Chinese troops were about to evacuate Kanchow. At that time the fate of foreigners at Kanchow was not known at Sinfeng, 53 miles south.

Hundreds of the besieging Communist troops were killed by Kanchow defenders between March 15 and 21 with rifle and machine gun fire as they attempted to scale the city walls with ladders, McLaughlin and Moehringer said.

Fearing they would be killed when Sinfeng was captured, McLaughlin and Moehringer fled from the city April 10. Two days later, they said, the "Reds" poured into Sinfeng and "cut open alive" all city officials they could find. They murdered 200 of the leading inhabitants.

Fate of Many Unknown.

In addition to themselves, said the priests, several other missionaries escaped from Sinfeng and vicinity. Others were unable to leave the district and their fate was unknown.

A letter from a missionary in the besieged City of Kanchow dated April 4, received in Shanghai, said that while the walls still barred Communists from Kanchow, the "Reds" had notified officials they considered that foreigners were responsible for their failure to capture the city. The "Reds" were quoted as saying:

"When the city falls, our first act will be to execute foreigners, as it was the necessity for protecting them that held troops within the city, robbing us of our prize."

The letter expressed the opinion, however, that the city was not in danger of capture. The "Reds" had a strong force about Kanchow, it said, but had withdrawn others.

Bomb Blast Hurts Woman in Florida

Victim of Explosion Is Not Expected to Live; Home Partially Wrecked.

Plant City, Fla., April 24 (A.P.).—Mrs. J. L. Waller, 55, was injured perhaps fatally by the explosion of a bomb that partially wrecked her home here early today. A short while before a neighbor, H B Williaford, awoke to find what he described to police as "four infernal machines" under his house and barn.

The bomb at the Waller home exploded about daylight as she opened a back door. The explosive had been placed in a tin bucket, police said, and connected with the door knob by a string in such a manner that a jerk on the twine set off the bomb.

The blast destroyed the porch and wrecked the kitchen. Mrs. Waller's husband and several children, still in bed, were uninjured.

Neither Mrs. Waller, Willaford nor police could offer a theory as to why the bombs were placed.

Man Is Shot Dead By Woman at Party

Intruder Is Killed as He Tries to Force Way Into Home.

Atlanta, Ga., April 24 (A.P.).—John G. Williamson, 29, was shot to death early today in the home of Harry Bell, a theater musician. Bell's wife told police she opened fire as Williamson tried to enter the house through a window while her husband was away.

Bell and his wife entertained a group of friends last night. During the party a guest was said to have seen the face of a man pressed against a window pane. Bell told police he chased the man with a gun but failed to overtake him.

He took a number of his guests to their homes after midnight. While he was away, Mrs. Bell said she heard the noise of a window being raised and saw the form of a man. She fired with a shotgun.

Williamson was wounded in the chest and died instantly.

NINE HELD IN PLOT TO KILL PERU HEAD

Conspiracy Bared as Chamber of Deputies Approves Protest Resolution.

BOMB FACTORY IS FOUND

Lima, Peru, April 24 (A.P.).—Details of an extensive plot against the life of President Leguia of Peru were revealed today with news of the arrest of nine men alleged to have participated in the conspiracy.

For the last two weeks there have been rumors that an attempt against the president's life had been discovered and frustrated, but it was not until the Chamber of Deputies met last night and passed a resolution of protest against the attempt that these reports were confirmed.

This morning the newspapers published a detailed statement from the police authorities describing the alleged plot, the author of which was stated to be Dr. Manuel Jesus Urbina, a former deputy and now a member of the Iquitos Judicial Court. Dr. Urbina was quoted as saying he had trained his servant, Umberto Pena Olivera, 17 years old, in the use of firearms and persuaded him the president's death would be good for the country.

Tried Once Before, Charge.

Dr. Urbina was stated by the police to have originally planned the president's death two years ago. This first plot ended when a man whom he had persuaded to kill the president died. Pena Olivera, according to the police, said he had assassinated Dr. Urbina's cousin, Manuel Enrique Urbina, at his master's orders because the cousin had interfered with their plan.

For several weeks the police watched the two alleged conspirators and then arrested them when on April 14 a bomb and grenade factory was discovered disguised as a mechanical shop. Search of this place revealed several alleged accomplices who were immediately arrested.

Those accused of being conspirators are Victor Flores, Oscar Medelius, a Callao merchant; Lieut. Dario Luna, who was an artillery officer who was supposed to have furnished several empty bombs and grenades; Ignacio Carrilo, and his son, Carlos Carrilo, who delivered the empty bombs to the factory.

Three Attempts Bared.

The police said Pena Olivera had told them he had tried to kill the president three times, but was unable to accomplish his purpose because of different circumstances. They also declared that Dr. Urbina told them he had been helped by former Deputy Celso Abad and Col. Juan Rosa, who also were arrested.

The government has decreed a state of siege in the departments of Lima, Junin and Lambayeque and the province of Callao, but the authorities were empowered to use it at their discretion in Lima and Callao.

According to the decree, the reason for establishing the state of siege was the necessity of taking exceptional steps to prevent a repetition of the plot and to assure punishment of those responsible. President Leguia was elected to his third successive term of five years each last year.

INDIA REVOLT GAINS; RIOTS REACH BORDER

Fifteen Are Reported Slain and Eight Wounded in Frontier Clash.

TRADE AT STANDSTILL

Bombay, April 24 (A.P.).—With riots, demonstrations and arrests steadily increasing in India, the most disturbing feature of the situation tonight was the spread of trouble to Peshawar, key city of the northwest frontier.

Latest reports said that three soldiers were killed and eight wounded in the rioting there yesterday when troops turned machine guns on demonstrators to quell the disturbance. Twelve natives also were killed. Business is at a standstill and the city bears the appearance of an armed camp.

Other less authoritative accounts say trouble is spreading on the frontier itself, with rioting at Kohat and Charsadda. Troops are said to have been moved into the disturbed regions of Risalpur and Nowshera, and the guard has been increased in Kohat Pass, which leads through the mountains to Afghanistan.

No serious trouble was reported from the larger cities today. But tension continued to exist, particularly in Calcutta. There the situation revolves around political prisoners in Alipore jail.

Tense Situation in Calcutta.

Rioting developed there yesterday when rumors spread through the native population that J. M. Sen Gupta was dead following mistreatment by guards after a hunger strike.

A communique issued today stated that Lieut. Col. Denham White, acting chief medical officer, visited the prisoners and reported Sen Gupta to be normal except for high blood pressure, from which he was suffering when admitted to the jail.

Political Prisoner Injured.

The communique added that Subhas Chandra Bose, another political prisoner, who had been reported ill, was normal except that he complained of a headache suffered from a fall in the jail.

A report came from Naysari tonight that Mahatma Gandhi was thinking out a new plan in his campaign for civil disobedience. The nature of the plan has not been disclosed and authorities here are awaiting it with eagerness.

London, April 25 (A.P.) (Friday).—The Lahore, India, correspondent of the aDily Express today reported that the Indian government had clamped down a censorship on news from the Pungab and the northwest frontier province as a result of Wednesday's rioting at Peshawar.

Observatory Plate Blur May Prove to Be Planet

Hitherto Undiscovered Celestial Body Thought to Be Four Trillion Miles From Sun; Not Noticed for Six Years by Astronomers.

Ottawa, Ont., April 24 (A.P.).—A faint blur on an old photographic plate, not noticed for six years, was considered today as a possible indication of another new planet—new, that is, to the knowledge of man.

This planet—if it is a planet—is some 4,000,000,000,000 miles from the sun, more than 40 times farther away than the earth, and its temperature is so cold that no living thing could exist on its surface. It probably is smaller than the earth and receives only one-sixteenth-hundredth as much sunlight.

Dr. Meldrum Stewart, director of the Dominion Observatory here, estimated the temperature would be far below zero there.

That blur on the photographic plate was noticed after the announcement of the discovery of Planet X by Lowell Observatory, Flagstaff, Ariz. Dr. Stewart and his associates began a systematic search of their old plates and on some made in February, 1924, they found a trans-Neptunian object. They plotted its position on two different dates, 22 days apart, and found that it moved. That set it apart from a fixed star and yesterday they announced the discovery as an earlier record of Planet X.

But later information cast doubt on the correctness of this finding. It appears, Dr. Stewart said today, that Planet X would have been slightly farther to the south in 1924 than the celestial object recorded here.

For this reason Dr. Stewart concluded tentatively that it is "another new planet or some similar object." He said he did not believe it is an asteroid because all of the more than 2,000 known asteroids are much closer to the sun.

It was stated that the authorities were considering whether she should be taken back to her shed.

The R-100, which is scheduled to make a flight to Canada next month, was taken from her shed this morning in order to make a test flight preliminary to her Canadian voyage. Plans for a flight today were abandoned.

Four Die in House Destroyed by Fire

Search Is Started for Fifth Victim of Blaze in New York State.

Boonville, N. Y., April 24 (A.P.).—Four persons were burned to death and a fifth was missing in a fire which destroyed the large colonial home of Bert Cronk, coal dealer, here early today. Mr. and Mrs. Cronk and Mrs. Paul Anni and her young daughter were said by firemen to have died in the flames. Anni was missing.

Clifford, young son of the Cronks, leaped from a window to safety. He was suffering from effects of the smoke.

Mr. Cronk was found in the dining room and his wife in a doorway leading from that room. Mrs. Anni and her grandchild were burned to death in their bed. The house was enveloped in flames when firemen arrived.

RIVER BILL PASSAGE PRESAGED FOR TODAY

Opposition of Seven State Groups Grows Against Omnibus Measure.

CANAL PROJECT RAPPED

(Associated Press.)

Confronted by growing opposition to inclusion of the Erie-Oswego Canal project in the measure, proponents of the omnibus rivers and harbors bill, carrying $110,000,000 for waterway and harbor improvement in almost every State, last night laid final plans for its passage today by the House.

Supporters of the measure were confident of quick approval of the various items, but a group of representatives from Vermont and several Middle and Northwestern States went ahead with their plans to have the New York canal project stricken out.

Letters urging support for their attack on the canal project were sent out late yesterday to every member of the House.

Special Meeting Is Held.

Representatives from seven States held an organization meeting early yesterday and after selecting Representative Burtness (Republican), of North Dakota, as their leader, unanimously agreed to carry the fight to the floor of the House and, failing to eliminate the canal item, to endeavor to send the measure back to committee.

The seven States participating in the drive against approval by the House of the project are Wisconsin, Minnesota, Montana, North Dakota, Michigan, Vermont and Nebraska.

Explanation by Members.

In their letters the members explained the contention of the group that acquisition of the New York barge canals as authorized in the omnibus bill would hinder development of a ship channel on the St. Lawrence River in which they are primarily interested.

Signed by Representative Brigham (Republican), Vermont, who was designated as secretary of the group, the letter directed attention to a statement inserted in the House record by Mr. Burtness as showing "not only the utter uselessness of the barge canal but also that the evidence tends to show that the motive behind the present move is to bmmit Congress to a ship canal across the State of New York."

The meeting was followed closely by a statement issued by Representative Cramton (Republican), Michigan, pledging support of the House delegation of thirteen from that State to the anticanal movement, and "publicly commending" Representative Hudson, another Michigan Republican and a member of the rivers and harbors committee, for his efforts to prevent inclusion of the canal item.

Federalization of the Erie and Oswego Canals in New York State, as proposed in the pending Rivers and Harbors Bill, was defended last night in a radio address by Rep. Dempsey, republican, New York, chairman of the committee which drafted the measure.

The plan to take over the canals from the State, sponsored by Mr. Dempsey, already has drawn organized opposition from representatives of the Lake States on the theory that its adoption would spell death or delay to the St. Lawrence waterway. They have promised a fight in the House, while Senators have declared the bill will not pass.

CRASH HALT SHOWN IN RESERVE REPORT

Federal Board Exercised Direct Pressure on Speculators.

(Associated Press.)

The Federal Reserve Board in its annual report to Congress yesterday said the success of the country's banks in meeting the stock market collapse of last fall was attributed to "direct pressure" it exerted to prevent diversion of Federal Reserve credit for speculation during the first nine months of 1929.

The board reviewed its statement of February 7, 1929, in which it warned banks that Federal Reserve credit must not be used for speculation. It said that in such a situation as then existed it was not for the Federal Reserve Board to "estimate the general expediency of the larger public consequences of its intervention by 'direct pressure' in the complex situation existing at the time."

"It may be remarked, however, that the course adopted by the board," said the report, "resulted in a substantial conservation of the credit resources of the banking system of the country and particularly of the Federal Reserve banks for essential needs which arose later in the year."

Brokers' Loans Reviewed.

The board reviewed the increase in brokers' loans in the first nine months of 1929 and said the funds were "supplied almost entirely by nonbanking lenders." The loans, it said, remained at a fairly constant level in April, May and June, but increased by $1,000,000,000 in the following four months.

"It would appear," it said, "that a large part of this increase was supplied by investment trusts and trading companies, which were being organized extensively at that time. The issues of investment securities by investment trusts and similar organizations, were in fact, the principal factor in the growth of security issues in the autumn of 1929 and were an important source of brokers' loans for account of nonbanking lenders. These companies having obtained funds through the sale of their own securities, used portions of these funds in the call loan market."

After reviewing conditions that preceded the stock market collapse the board said that when the abrupt liquidation began the banks were in position to take care of the situation.

Member Banks Decline.

It was apparent, however, the board said in conclusion, that at the close of 1929, the liquidation of security loans, had resulted in an improvement in the credit situation of the United States and had exerted a favorable influence on world credit conditions.

During 1929 the board said the number of member banks in the Federal Reserve System declined by 315 to 8,522, due largely to mergers, suspensions and absorptions by nonmember banks. A total of 642 member and nonmember banks, with aggregate deposits of $235,000,000 suspended during the year was 151 more than suspended the previous year.

The largest number of bank suspensions, the board said were shown in the Atlanta and Kansas City Federal Reserve districts in 1929. The suspensions were listed by the board as: Iowa, 34; North Dakota, 36; Minnesota, 31; South Dakota, 13; Nebraska, 149; Georgia, 32; Texas, 10; Missouri, 23; Oklahoma, 20; South Carolina, 18; Kansas, 12; Montana, 1; Florida, 63; Illinois, 30; North Carolina, 18; Indiana, 24; Arkansas 11; Colorado, 5. All other States, 142.

TARIFF IS REVIEWED BY HOOVER, LEADERS

faced with separate votes also on the Senate provision restoring to Congress the power now exercised by the President under the flexible clause, the Senate's plan to organize the tariff commission, and the five major rates upon which the conferees failed to agree. The rates in dispute cover sugar, cement, lumber, shingles and silver.

The debenture plan and the legislative flexible provision were written into the bill by the Senate coalition of Democrats and Republican independents over the protest of the President, who found ten objections to the former when the farm marketing act was before Congress, and twice while the tariff bill was pending appealed for retention of existing law on the flexible clause.

The House rejected the debenture as part of the farm bill, but it has never gone on record on the flexible provisions. Although overwhelmingly Republican in make-up there is ground for belief that a fair-sized group of Republicans would join the Democrats in voting for the Senate flexible amendment.

Representative Beck (Republican), Pennsylvania, a former solicitor general of the United States, made a vigorous appeal for repeal of the presidential rate-making authority when the tariff bill was before the House last May.

Debenture Is Chief Concern.

However, the chief concern of the leaders appears to be over the debenture. It was indicated by some that the President feels so strongly on this subject that he is preparing to issue another statement opposing it.

Although Mr. Hoover sided with Senate leaders on procedure, it was emphasized at the White House that the legislators requested the conference, and the President was not attempting to dictate to Congress. No rates were discussed, it was said.

Besides Senator Watson, those attending the breakfast were Senators Smoot, Utah, and Shortridge, California, the other two Senate tariff conferee; McNary, Oregon, assistant Republican leader; Speaker Longworth, Representative Tilson, Connecticut, House majority leader; Chairman Snell of the House rules committee; Representatives Hawley, Oregon; Treadway, Massachusetts; Bacharach, New Jersey, the last three the House conferees, and Walter H. Newton, one of the President's secretaries.

Sugar States Members Act.

Immediately upon hearing of the decision, House members from fifteen sugar-producing States began sounding out their forces on varying sugar duties in the Senate and House bills.

No decision was announced after an informal meeting of the group, but Representative Cramton (Republican), Michigan, said they decided to "take steps to protect the domestic sugar interests, both cane and beet."

The House bill provides a duty on Cuban raw sugar of 2.4 cents a pound, as against a Senate rate of 2 cents. The present levy is 1.76 cents.

IL DUCE'S DAUGHTER MARRIED TO COUNT

Parish Wedding Witnessed by Mussolini and Corps of Diplomats.

U. S. ENVOY SEES EVENT

Rome, April 24 (A.P.).—Benito Mussolini, dictator of Italy since 1923, today, like a private Italian citizen, saw his 19-year-old daughter, Edda, become the bride of Count Galeazzo Ciano in a ceremony that, despite all its attendant magnificence, was really but a wedding in a private family.

In Il Duce's parish church, St. Joseph's, on the Via Nomentana, the daughter of the dictator and the son of the Italian minister of communications were married by the parish priest, Mgr. Pascucci.

Their wedding, except for the picturesqueness of Fascist "black shirts" with glittering bayonets, was simple, in accordance with Il Duce's preference for keeping his family life in the background. Had he asked for it the premier could have obtained for the wedding any basilica in Rome, or even St. Peter's itself, with a cardinal instead of a parish priest officiating.

Pope Sends Gift of Rosary.

Pope Pius XI sent the bridal couple a solid gold rosary and his blessing. King Victor Emmanuel, signing himself, "your most affectionate cousin," sent congratulations to the premier from the royal family. King Zog I of Albania wished the newlyweds good fortune and prosperity.

The wedding breakfast at the Villa Torlonia, the duce's residence, was a simple family gathering, attended by the parish priest and the four witnesses. These were, for the bride, Arnaldo Mussolini, the duce's brother, and Prince Don Giovanni Torlonia, and for the groom, Foreign Minister Dino Grandi and Count Devecchi di Valcismon, Italian Ambassador to the Holy See.

What lent a sumptuous appearance to the wedding was the presence of the diplomatic corps, including the United States Ambassador, John W. Garrett, and Mrs. Garrett, hundreds of Fascist militia, a large corps of carabinieri and groups representing fascist organizations of young girls.

Adjoining Houses Guarded.

Several thousand spectators were kept rigorously distant from the church, and as a measure of protection for Il Duce the surrounding houses were well guarded.

Edda Mussolini was a radiant bride in white satin, with a veil of Burano lace, a gift of the Senate, and a long satin train carried by two pages. She entered the church on the arm of her future father-in-law, Count Ciano. The groom followed escorting Donna Rachele Mussolini, the duce walking last of all with the Countess Ciano.

The wedding ceremony, including low mass and an address by the priest, lasted 55 minutes. The nuptial contract was signed in accordance with the terms of the Lateran treaties, under which ecclesiastical marriages have the full force of civil marriages.

On leaving the church, the young Countess Ciano and the count passed under an arch of glittering Fascist bayonets. They posed for photographs and then the bridal party went to St. Peter's Cathedral to worship at the tomb of the first apostle.

STANDARDS BUREAU FILES THREE SUITS

Radio Patents Titles Sought Through Courts From Their Inventor.

RIGHTS ALLEGEDLY SOLD

The Bureau of Standards filed three suits yesterday in District of Columbia Supreme Court seeking to get title in three patents on allegedly valuable radio inventions, said to have bene worked out by Francis W. Dunmore, of 3411 Rodman street northwest, a bureau employe, while working in the bureau radio laboratories.

Dunmore, according to the petitions, was delegated by the bureau to make certain investigations into the problems of developing a loud speaker to operate on alternating house current, a receiving set to operate without the use of batteries, and a "radio relay."

It is alleged further that the inventions were perfected and that letters patent have been obtained on each of the inventions and sold to the Dubilier Condenser Corporation of Delaware. Rights in the "radio relay" also have been sold in so far as they relate to printing telegraph apparatus, to the Morkum Co., of Maine, according to the petitions.

Dunmore is alleged to have perfected the "radio relay" by himself. He obtained letters patent on that invention, it is charged. In the perfection of the other inventions Dunmore is said to have had the aid of Percival D. Lowell, also an employe of the Bureau of Standards.

The Government charges that immense royalties have been received on each of the three inventions, and in addition to asking that the letters patent be invested in the United States Government, requests that each of the men be compelled to transfer the letters patent to the Government and to account for all moneys they are alleged to have received as a result of their inventions.

Inventory of the bank made recently by State bank examiners disclosed shortages amounting to more than $40,000 in Wagner's books, officials announced.

At Marseilles he expected another plane to be waiting to finish the trip.

On the Rules of Traffic

By WILLIAM ULLMAN

The traffic regulation regarding the boulevard "Stop" signs should be one of the easiest to understand. There is only the one word "Stop" to be concerned about.

The code is very specific. It provides that "all vehicles shall come to a complete stop and shall not proceed to cross or enter such boulevard, arterial highway, or street until a crossing or entry can be safely made without interfering with through traffic." This applies even though a driver intends to make a right turn into the boulevard. Not only must he stop but he must wait until a crossing is clear.

Example: A driver approaches upper Fourteenth street northwest. He is in a hurry and, after stopping at the sign, tries to force his way through traffic. Though he has complied with the first part of the regulation by stopping, he has violated the latter part by not waiting.

TANK STEAMER HIT BY BREMEN IN FOG

Woman Injured in Collision Between Steamers Off English Coast.

LINER ESCAPES DAMAGE

Southampton, England, April 24 (A.P.).—The Bremen, one of the Atlantic's largest and swiftest liners, was en route to New York tonight after an alarming collision with the tanker British Grenadier about 5 miles off Dungeness this morning. The collision occurred in a dense fog.

The Bremen, passengers said as the ship anchored off Cowes this evening for an official survey, was proceeding slowly and blowing her siren.

Suddenly the ships struck with a resounding crash. It was seen from the German liner's decks that the tanker was damaged, for life belts were being issued to the crew, but the tanker quickly vanished in the fog. Although the Bremen cruised about for three hours, she was unable again to get in touch with the British Grenadier.

The Bremen then abandoned the search and moved slowly to Southampton, where she anchored off the Cowes entrance. Here an official surveyor boarded the ship and issued a certificate enabling her to proceed.

The British Grenadier, said reports from Deal, was not so lucky. She was severely damaged on the port side, but was able to limp into Downs without assistance. When she anchored oil was pouring from her tanks into the water.

Before arrival the British Grenadier wirelessed for a physician to attend a "supernumerary," who was injured. The "supernumerary" proved to be a woman passenger, a Mrs. Robinson, of Scotland, who was traveling with her two small children. She was cut when bringing the children from the cabin to her deck at the moment of impact. Mrs. Robinson was taken to the shore by a motorboat in care of the physician who went out to the ship.

EUROPEAN QUOTAS SLASHED IN SENATE

being to salve the wounds of the national origins proponents.

Bright and early in the consideration of the bill yesterday Senator Harris, of Georgia, proposed that the 1½ per cent quota should be reduced to 1 per cent, which it was estimated would reduce European immigration to 80,000 annually. The opponents of national origins being in a good mood, this figure was accepted.

Subsequently, however, it developed that the national origins proponents had developed additional strength and when Senator Swanson, of Virginia, moved to strike out the Norbeck amendment it was carried, 37 to 36. Mr. Swanson's motion, however, only called for striking out that portion of Mr. Norbeck's amendment which had repealed national origins.

After the motion had been carried the provision that the European quota be 1 per cent of the nationals in this country in 1890 still remained.

Inasmuch as immigration quotas under national origins are worked out on the basis of the population in 1793 the 1890 basis seems out of place. When attention to this was called to Senator Johnson, of California, and others there was an agreement that it would have to be clarified. Whether the clarification will leave the European annual quota at 150,000 as at present or cut it down to 80,000 or almost in half, will have to be developed.

In view of the fact that the 80,000 quota was carried by a vote of 41 to 31 it would seem that it would be retained, but the senators were voting at the time under the impression that the national origins system of apportioning immigrants was to be done away with.

At any rate, the Southern Democrats who revived this immigration business in an effort to restrict Mexican immigration, breathed a sigh of relief with the national origins provision unchanged.

The idea is to cut down Mexican immigration to 3,000 a year.

The administration is against the bill on the grounds that this Government and the Mexican government have agreed upon a plan between themselves to restrict Mexican immigration and that legislation will only stir up resentment in Latin-American countries. The bill incidentally applies to all Latin-American countries. Mexico is the only one that it would affect.

Because of this opposition of the administration there is a question as to whether it will pass the House. Senator Harris says, however, that he has received assurances from Representative Johnson, author of a similar bill in the House, that he can pass the measure. It is not unlikely that Mr. Johnson is overoptimistic.

Unrealized market appreciation of the holdings of Continental Shares, Inc., an investment trust sponsored by Otis & Co., New York and Cleveland bankers, as of March 31, totaled $29,487,091, a gain of $21,211,069 during the first quarter. Total investments as of March 31 were carried at a cost of $123,867,365. The market value on the same date totaled $153,354,456.

SHIDEHARA PRAISES LONDON NAVAL PACT

Japanese Foreign Minister Says Treaty Puts End to Building Competition.

ADDRESSES NIPPON DIET

(Associated Press.)

The Japanese Embassy last night made public an English translation of the speech delivered yesterday by Baron Shidehara, minister for foreign affairs of Japan, at the special session of the Japanees Diet, in which he said the London naval treaty "should be hailed with satisfaction."

"The London treaty," he said, "puts an end to all competition in naval construction for the duration of its validity. The value of the treaty lies not only in such material advantages as lessening of national burdens, but more especially in the moral influence it is bound to exercise upon international relations."

Baron Shidehara outlined the terms of the treaty concerning battleships and continued: "Regarding auxiliary craft, the total amount of tonnage to be possessed by Japan will be less by approximately 50,000 tons than her existing strength. And yet the strength which we shall actually retain at date of the conference in 1935 does not materially differ from that which we originally proposed, alike in the 8-inch gun cruiser class and in total tonnage of auxiliar craft.

Says Liberty Unrestrained.

"It is true that the tonnage of submarines has been reduced considerably below the figure we proposed for ourselves, but our strength in this category will maintain strict parity with that of the British commonwealth and the United States, both of which have abandoned their original demand for total abolition of submarines.

"These arrangements have now made it possible for us to economize in our naval expenditure, while the safety of our national defense is adequately assured for the duration of the treaty. None but extreme pessimists could possibly contend that the amount of strength to be allotted to Japan during the period ending 1936 will prove fatally short of the needs of our national security."

The foreign minister asserted that world conditions are changing constantly and that it was impossible to predict what future naval needs would be. He said the treaty reserved "perfect liberty" to present to the next conference whatever different claims for armament may appear in the meantime.

Refers to China Pact.

"There is no occasion for apprehension that the Treaty of London is to bind us hand and foot for all time to come," he said. "To show one's self unduly disturbed under the influence of so mistaken an impression would be an attitude little worthy of a self-respecting nation."

Baron Shidehara included in his address a reference to the customs duties treaty between Japan and China, which now is ready for signature. Its main features, he told the Diet, are recognition by Japan of China's tariff autonomy and reciprocal undertakings on various commodity tariffs.

"It can not be necessary," he said, "to reaffirm our known policy of fair and square dealing in China."

YORK CASE PRISONER IS ACCUSER OF KELLY

John Logan Files Charge of Illegal Search Against Policeman.

ESTOPPEL IS SOUGHT

Charging Lieut. Edward J. Kelly, chief of the homicide squad of the Police Department, with unlawful search and seizure, John Logan, colored, one of the three men charged with murder in connection with the slaying April 12 of Lamar W. York, a prohibition agent, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to return an automobile held by the police and certain evidence which the police have gathered to use against him.

Charge is made that on April 12, Lieut. Kelly forcibly broke a lock on a garage in the rear of an address on D street northwest near First street and removed the automobile. The machine is now being held as evidence against him, Logan charges.

Logan asks that the police be prevented from using the automobile as evidence against him and that any photographs of the machine that the police may have had taken not be allowed as evidence against him. Photographs of the vehicle, according to the petition, are now in the hands of Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police.

The court is asked to restrain Maj. Pratt and United States Attorney Leo A. Rover from submitting these photographs to the grand jury. Logan charges that such use of the machine or the photographs against him will be in violation of his constitutional rights.

Coroner Brown, of Santa Ana, arrived at the house and began an investigation.

COURTESY BY POLICE TO BE CROSBY'S AIM

Code Under Preparation to Stress Polite Methods in Enforcement.

CONFERS WITH CAPTAINS

Though making no direct reference to the several warrantless raids made recently by various police officers, Commissioner Herbert B. Crosby, Commissioner in charge of police, yesterday made known that the first principle of a new code he is preparing for the guidance of the police is to be that no law shall be violated in the name of law enforcement.

The importance of courtesy was stressed by Gen. Crosby recently in a brief talk to the police captains who had been assembled by Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, for the new Commissioners to meet them.

A multitude of petty arrests are to be frowned on by the new Commissioner. Gen. Crosby believes that strong-arm or hardboiled police methods does the cause of law enforcement more harm than good through the antagonism it creates among the general public.

May Confer With Vollmer.

Just what will be set forth in his code the Commissioner himself does not yet know. He has been talking with police officials and other persons and has set about acquainting himself with theories of police administration in many places. He has several pamphlets and periodicals on his desk, and yesterday had a conference with public library officials to get additional literature.

It may be that the Commissioner eventually will seek a conference with August Vollmer, who has won a wide reputation because of his ideas of police administration. Gen. Crosby brought back from the library a copy of a periodical in which the leading article was one written by Vollmer entitled the "Scientific Policeman."

Adequate Police Training.

Another factor which interferes with the development of the highest standard of ability and efficiency among the police personnel, Gen. Crosby believes, is the lack of adequate training for new policemen. Maj. Pratt has fought continually in the year he has been chief of police for appropriations and personnel for conduct of an adequate police school, to which would be sent all newly appointed policemen and eventually all of the men in the department. Apparently the police chief is to have the solid backing of Gen. Crosby along that line.

When the new Crosby code is completed and set down on paper the general intends to see to it that every commanding officer is held responsible for its observance by each individual under his command. How soon the code will be completed Gen. Crosby said he did not know. He is searching for the fundamental principles which can be expressed succinctly and clearly for the guidance of the policemen and the private citizen. It is not to be lengthy or complicated and it will not be handed down until the Commissioner is satisfied that he has it properly drawn.

Departments Shifted In City Administration

Transfer of the Health Department to the supervision of Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer and of the corporation counsel's office to the administrative charge of Commissioner Herbert B. Crosby was announced yesterday by the District Commissioners.

The change was made, it was explained, because Gen. Crosby believed that the corporation counsel's office naturally went along with the Police Department in their joint relation to law enforcement.

Commissioner Reichelderfer, a physician, is naturally interested in the Health Department and that municipal activity has a connection with the Public Welfare Department over which the president of the Board of Commissioners will have immediate supervision. He also will have charge of the financial departments of the District. The change has been expected since the new Commissioners took office.

District Planning Library Changes

Washington Heads Inspect System and Get Plans for Improvements.

Sketch plans showing proposed construction for doubling the size of the Public Library and plans of the proposed Northeastern Branch Library to be erected at Seventh street and Maryland avenue northeast at a cost of $150,000 were shown Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, Gen. Herbert B. Crosby and Col. William B. Ladue, the District Commissioners, in an inspection of the Public Library yesterday afternoon.

Dr. George F. Bowerman, public librarian, in company with members of the board of library trustees, conducted the Commissioners on a tour of the building at Mount Vernon place and pointed out overcrowded facilities, stressing also that similar conditions existed in branch libraries here.

Dr. Bowerman also outlined the work of the library and called the attention of the visitors to an exhibit in the technology division, including a collection of books and magazines on various phases of engineering, city planning, finance and accounting, and also works regarding crime and crime detection.

Kiwanis Club Is Host To City Commissioners

District Commissioners Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, Maj. Gen. Herbert L. Crosby and William B. Ladue, and Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of George Washington University, were guests of the Kiwanis Club at the Washington Hotel yesterday. Dr. Reichelderfer, who has been closely associated with various Washington Hospitals, commended the club highly for the work it is doing for crippled and underprivileged children.

Nathaniel Mountford, milliner; R. Bates Warren, builder, and Arthur J. Harnett, manager of the Ambassador Hotel and a former member of the Washington Club, were welcomed as new members by Edwin H. Etz, chairman of the Kiwanis educational committee.

Barnes Tells Publishers That Press Helped to Quiet Recent Hysteria.

FREE PRESS STRESSED

New York, April 24 (A.P.).—Speaking before the annual bureau of advertising dinner of the American Newspaper Publishers Association tonight, Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the National Business Survey Council, said that theh press has played a "very helpful part" in relieving the hysteria that accompanies business depressions in the Nation.

"Actual information, the common possession of all, could be trusted to translate itself into intelligent action in preservation of the business fabric," said Mr. Bares. "Exaggerations and rumors must be stripped of their power to injure or to paralyze individual judgment.

"In this effort the press of America has played a very helpful part. It has understood and interpreted the forces thus set in motion. It has used restraint and judgment and encouragement.

"American journalism," he continued, "safeguarded by national ideals of free speech and free press, has been a great force in guiding and crystallizing public opinion."

Advertising Banquet Is Held.

The advertising banquet marked the close of the second day's program of the A. N. P. A.'s three-day annual convention at the Hotel Pennsylvania.

Through the adoption of a resolution introduced by their paper committee, the publishers approved the plea of newsprint manufacturers that paper prices must be stabilized over a period of years to maintain a competitive market in the industry.

The price to be paid for paper, however, was left to the individual publisher and no action was taken on the Canadian Newsprint Institute's proposal gradually to increase paper prices $5 a ton over a three-year period.

Radio Report Heard.

Discussion on the convention floor brought out that the publishers generally are opposed to any immediate increase in newsprint but the institute's stabilization program would continue in effect throughout 1930 the present rate of $55 per ton.

During a discussion of the radio committee's report, which finally was adopted, the convention touched upon Government control of the air only as a "probable development."

In view of the success of the operation of printing trades schools supported by funds from the A. N. P. A., the convention adopted a resolution advising the board of directors to consider supplying funds for broadening and expanding the school courses and increasing their enrollment.

With the adoption of the report of the standing committee, the publishers went on record opposing efforts of the printing trade unions to establish a five-day week in the newspaper industry.

ONTARIO EXECUTIVE TESTIFIES FOR WETS

COACH ROPER WITNESS

father, he added, he hesitated to send his son to college.

Sir Henry prefaced his testimony with the assertion that he appeared as a disinterested party and sought to answer no one. His views, however, were desired by the antiprohibitionists to counteract testimony given by E. C. Drury, a former Premier of Ontario Province, who recently assailed the control system before the committee.

Mr. Roper's presentation by the wets followed an example that had been set by the drys in calling before the committee Alonzo Stagg, athletic director at the University of Chicago, and Fielding H. Yost, athletic director at the University of Michigan. They indorsed the effects of prohibition upon youth.

Besides Sir Henry and Mr. Roper, two other witnesses were heard in opposition to the dry law. They were Representative Robert A. Clancy, a Michigan Republican who represents a Detroit district, and Dr. F. W. Buck, executive secretary of the Federal Dispensary-Tax Reduction League.

Sir Henry began by saying that Ontario was the driest of all Canadian provinces. He testified that during the war, because of a scarcity of food and a general desire to conserve, prohibition had been enacted.

He then traced its history, saying in 1919 prohibition had been indorsed in an election by 68 per cent of the vote, but in 1923 in another election had obtained only 51 per cent of the vote.

The people of Ontario had changed their views, he contended, because of the things that followed peacetime prohibition. He said that "swamp whisky," other substitutes, a growing use of flasks and of strong liquor had been some of the things that prompted a reversal of view on prohibition in Ontario.

The Canadian said the greater majority of American tourists crossing the border were "decent and law abiding;" that he as head of the control board sought in every way possible to prevent issuing of licenses to persons who would take liquor into the United States and, under questioning by committee members, he said the underlying principle of the Ontario law was no drinking in public.

Replying to questions by Representative Stobbs (Republican), Massachusetts, Sir Henry testified that country clubs in Canada were not permitted to serve liquor; that there was no "nineteenth hole," and that big dinners were dry.

Only at private dinners in private homes, he added, could intoxicants legally be served. Since hotels were banned from selling intoxicants, he said, a man's hotel room was regarded as his home.

The Canadian defended the control system as promoting temperance, saying it had accomplished more in this line than prohibition, and asserted that under prohibition he regarded one of the greatest evils the cessation of educational work by temperance societies and a looking to the government to prohibit drinking by law.

Mr. Roper said he was a stanch believer in temperance; that he had toured the country preaching temperance to high school youths, and that he hoped there would be some means of improving the situation.

He testified that he felt the "breakdown" in prohibition had originated with the older people.

"I think that any one is foolish to either drink or smoke," he said, "but young people are impressionable. If you don't give them right ideals, they will get wrong ones."

CLERIC IS CONVICTED ON DEFAMING COUNT

Mr. Stricklett denied as a witness that the "cards were stacked against Velasco."

E. B. Johnson and George Prigge, members of the vestry of St. John's, testified that seven of the vestrymen were loyal to Dr. Velasco, did not wish him to resign, and that in their opinion Dr. Velasco's marriage did not impair his service as a rector.

Mr. Prigge testified that Frank Ort, the only member of the vestry opposed to Dr. Velasco, held that opinion because he was already prejudiced against the Catholic Church. Laughter greeted Mr. Prigge's testimony that Mr. Ort had said that Dr. Velasco's marriage to a Catholic was equivalent to "kissing the Pope's toe."

The trial was the first of its nature in the history of the diocese. Testimony was given that the diocesan committee knew of Dr. Velasco's attachment for Miss Rogers and had him sign the agreement just before he was ordained. The rector admitted he signed, but declared he believed the agreement later had been withdrawn.

He had announced he would appeal to the Episcopal House of Bishops if he were found guilty of the major charges and deprived of his orders. His bride was given special permission to attend the court sessions.

CAPONE TO APPEAR IN U.S. COURT TODAY

Hearing to Be Held on Order to Prohibit His Arrest in Florida Counties.

SHERIFFS WILL ATTEND

Miami, Fla., April 24 (A.P.).—Scarface Al Capone, listed Wednesday as head man of Chicago's gang world, will go into United States Court here tomorrow as one of the principals in a hearing on a Federal order prohibiting his arrest in twenty Florida counties unless he is named in a warrant under a specific charge.

The hearing before Federal Judge Halsted L. Ritter, will be held to determine whether the temporary order shall be made permanent.

Sheriffs of the twenty counties along the northern and eastern boundaries of the State who were served with the prohibitive order have been notified of tomorrow's hearing. The order was issued by Judge Ritter after Gov. Doyle Carlton notified the 67 sheriffs of the State to arrest Capone on sight and escort him to the State line should he attempt to enter Florida en route to his winter residence on exclusive Palm Island at Miami Beach.

J. F. Gordon, Capone's attorney, said here tonight that his client will appear in tomorrow's court session. He declined to say whether he will be in circuit court Saturday morning when a hearing is held on the petition of State's Attorney N. Vernon Hawthorne to padlock the Capone residence on the grounds that it is a haven for gangsters and racketeers and consequently is maintained in violation of the Florida nuisance law.

MURDERER CHOOSES DEATH AS PENALTY

quarry and occupies a prominent place in the prison yard.

The structure is divided into four rooms. One is a guard room, another contains the cells where condemned men spend their last few days, the third is the death cell, and a fourth room contains the apparatus which generates the gas.

In the death chamber, two wooden chairs equipped with traps to hold the condemned man, face the large plate glass windows through which the official witnesses observe the execution. Another window permits the warden and prison physician to watch.

Hydrocyanic gas is piped from the generating machine into the death chamber. One turn of a valve forces the death-dealing gas into the chamber and in the two previous executions its effect was immediate. The first whiff of the gas rendered the men unconscious and death came within the first few minutes, the prison physician believed.

At the previous executions prison officials were unable to clear the old gas cell of the deadly fumes for an hour and it was impossible for physicians to determine how long it took the gas to kill.

The new gas chamber is so constructed that strong blowers will clear the cell of the gas immediately and physicians will be able to pronounce the prisoner officially dead within a few minutes.

Hundred Horse Power and Hundred Cow Power

Power in vehicles and machinery is measured in "horse-power." An automobile with one hundred horse-power is not unusual in these days of fine cars and fine roads.

Do you know that the business power of a country might well be measured in "cow-power?" The milk industry, as a whole, is the largest and most important industry in the world—greater than the steel or automotive industries—so the "cow-power" is all important.

Every cow is a potential income-earner. Five cows have a very considerable income-earning ability. A few years ago a farmer with five cows had a recognized asset—enough for the farm supply of milk and butter and some to take to town—just as his four-horse team was a powerful hook-up.

But today it is the fifty and one hundred "cow-power" that counts. Widely organized effort and a widely and evenly organized market have brought progress and prosperity, commensurate with the hundred horse-power car. Wherever the dairy-product business has been industriously and industrially organized, the cow-income has multiplied.

The effect of Southern Dairies' work in upbuilding the dairy industry is far reaching. It extends through the Southeastern States, involving production, manufacturing and distribution of the best milk products in America.

It does its large part towards encouraging other industries to locate in the Southern section of the country.

Southern Dairies is an organization that is making an organized whole of this industry—working in a modern, scientific way, keeping the wheels of this wonderful cow-industry going round—multiplying five cow-power to a hundred cow-power, and this to a thousand cow-power—constantly widening the market and the demand.

GEOLOGISTS OPEN MEETING FOR 1930

75 Attend Sessions Being Held at University of Virginia.

48 PAPERS TO BE READ

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., April 24.—About 75 prominent American geologists assembled today at the University of Virginia for the ninth annual meeting of the Society of Economic Geologists. In the absence of President Edwin A. Alderman, the visitors were welcomed by Dr. Wilbur A. Nelson, professor of geology.

The convention opened with a technical session in the Geological Building at 2 o'clock this afternoon, and will be concluded with a field trip through adjoining counties Saturday. Papers were read this afternoon by Dr. Nelson, former Virginia State geologist, and by Dr. Joseph K. Roberts, also professor of geology at the university, and Prof. A. A. Peagau, assistant professor in the department. In all, 48 papers will be read before the convention. A number of the tracts will deal with Virginia soapstone deposits, with interesting natural aspects of this State, and with the mining industry throughout the United States. Following this afternoon's session, the visitors were guests of Dr. and Mrs. Nelson at a buffet supper at the Farmington Country Club.

Saturday, all of the members will leave for an extended field trip. The first point on the itinerary is the soapstone deposit at Schuyler, where the scientists will be the guests of officials of the Soapstone Corporation at a luncheon, after a thorough inspection of the quarries.

In the afternoon, the principal feature of the trip will be a visit to the rutile deposits in Nelson County.

The Society of Economic Geologists is considered one of the most important bodies in the field of geology, and the convention here is the first which has ever been held in the South.

The officers of the organization are: Dr. M. R. Campbell, principal geologist, United States Geological Survey, Washington, president; Sydney Ball, New York, vice president and incoming president; Prof. Edward Sampson, of Princeton University, secretary, and C. A. Fisher, Denver, treasurer.

Members of the executive council are: B. S. Butler, Tucson, Ariz.; W. E. Wrather, Texas; H. G. Ferguson, Washington, and Joseph T. Singewald, jr., Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore.

MARRIAGE IS DENIED BY GIRL'S FRIENDS

der car. Neither does he believe that the trinkets and other articles found in a sewer near the culvert where her body was found were not placed there by the friends of the imprisoned Negroes.

Earl Frank, alias Earl Frank White, yesterday was absolved from all connection with the Baker murder when Detective Thomas Sweeney made his report on the man held in Richmond to his superiors. Shelby is satisfied that the man was not in or near Washington on the day of the murder.

Two brothers of the suspect yesterday obtained an affidavit which was given to Richmond and Washington police to the effect that Frank was in Goldsboro on April 11 and 12. Both men are from New Bern, N. C., and at Goldsboro they located Luther Jones, a clerk in a freight office. Jones said that he talked with Frank on Friday afternoon, April 11, and on Saturday, April 12. Palm prints of the Richmond suspect yesterday were contrasted to those taken from the abandoned murder car.

Asylum Inmate Absolved.

Together with the vindication of Frank came the exoneration of a suspect who is now in an insane asylum at Staunton, Va. Inspector Shelby had sent a man to the hospital to interrogate him. He is a salesman and left Washington the day after the murder and went to Norfolk, Va., for four days and later entered a sanitarium near Rockville, Md.

Palm prints of Fred Wilson, Treasury Department architect and friend of Miss Baker, have been placed beside those found on the death car and are dissimilar. Prints of the hands of Frank Smith and James Vollin are also unlike those which the police believe are those of the slayer.

Dellie Clark, who is charged with having assaulted a girl early this week and was arrested the following night after an attempted assault, was questioned yesterday by detectives from the homicide squad. Clark is a light-skinned Negro and police think he may be responsible for the death of Mary Baker. They intend to re-question him.

Place Is Still Mystery.

There has been no definite decision made yet by police regarding the place of the crime or the motive. Inspector Shelby declined yesterday to say what facts have been really determined in the case.

At the present time the police are wading through a mass of information and tips which have arrived in scores since the crime was committed. One letter received yesterday carried the name of a man who was named by the correspondent as the killer.

Inspector Shelby exhibited a batch of letters which he said was only a small percentage of the mail he has received containing information of individuals. Virtually all of the information to date has proved valueless.

Hope is still radiated by operatives that the murderer may be apprehended. Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth has predicted that the slayer will be before a grand jury within 30 days, although he refused to mention the leads upon which he rests the optimism.

Petty Thefts Checked.

Among the theories which the police are still pursuing is that a thief murdered the girl. No tangible results have been engendered of this thought, although police are still checking petty thefts from automobiles in the vicinity of the Monument Grounds.

Since the articles found in the sewer were later discovered to have been pilfered from automobiles in that vicinity, police are inclined to the hypothesis that Miss Baker was surprised by a thief or one surprised her as she entered her automobile. They believe that the assault and murder followed.

Late yesterday investigators sought to ascertain from Fort Myer Army officers whether any men have been away without official leave since the murder. It was learned there that it is not unusual for men to take French leave at an Army post. The exact number of men now away from the post could not be learned by police yesterday.

students, with the United States Navy Band playing under the direction of Lieut. Charles Benter.

The coronation ceremonies distinctly flavored Old World medievalism and were patterned after the first recorded English ritual, the crowning of Alfred the Great at Winchester, England.

The Rev. Dr. S. L. Flickinger, pastor of Centenary Reformed Church, officiated as the Bishop of Winchester, and the Rev. Robert B. Nelson, rector of Christ Episcopal Church, impersonated the Dean of Winchester Cathedral, both wearing richly embroidered vestments.

The fair daughter of the Virginia executive wore an ivory satin gown with a flowing court train of silver cloth 22 feet long.

The crown was borne on a black velvet pillow by Miss Martone Lupton. Maids of honor attending the queen were Misses Mary Virginia Steck and Louise Baker Glass, in apple green georgette dresses with green tulle hats of deeper green shade. They carried arm bouquets of apple blossoms. Forty-five princesses of the apple realms of Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania and the District of Columbia, formed the remainder of the royal party. These girls wore peach colored taffeta bouffant dresses with eggshell lace straw hats and carried apple blossoms.

Guest of the Bakers.

Opening the coronation ceremonies was Miss Georgia Conrad, daughter of Col. Bryant Conrad, in a rhythmic dance. Songs of the ceremony were by the Glee Club of the Harrisonburg State Teachers' College.

Cadets of the Augusta Military Academy, Fort Defiance, Va., in full dress gray uniforms, formed an arch of steel from the porch of the Handley High School Building down the broad stairway leading to the edge of the stadium, where the ceremony took place.

Preceded by four mounted heralds, richly attired and with long, silver trumpets, the queen came in a limousine from the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Baker, who are hosts to her majesty. It was Mrs. Baker, who, in the name of the City of Winchester, greeted and entertained Queen Marie of Roumania on the occasion of her visit here some years ago. The festival queen is occupying the same room Queen Marie had at the Baker residence.

Circus by Marylanders.

The story of development in nature, history and science was the theme of the pageant, "The Bud and Bloom," immediately following the coronation. It was given in costumes of pastel shades under the direction of H. S. Duffey, city school superintendent, and Handley faculty members.

The American fondness for a parade and drum major admiration was strikingly illustrated when a crowd estimated at 60,000 swarmed into town early, despite cold winds of almost gale velocity, and stood shivering on the streets as 10,000 school children of Maryland and Virginia marched along in the parade of human buds. Nearly 2,000 of the children came from Brunswick and Knoxville, Md. The Marylanders presented in the parade an "apple blossom circus" in which a score or more of circus animals were cleverly impersonated, along with side-show freaks and clowns.

Harry K. Thaw Participates.

The Brunswick schools won a capital prize of $100 and two $50 prizes for the best high and elementary school displays. Nearby Virginia schools won second, third and honorable mentions.

In addition to the United States Navy Band, which led the parade, other bands were from the Greenbrier Military School, Lewisburg, W. Va.; Augusta Military Academy, Fort Defiance, Va.; Massanutten Military Academy, Woodstock, Va.; Handley High School, Winchester; Terra Alta, W. Va., High School; Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, Brunswick, Md., and Keyser, W. Va.; Pennsylvania Railroad Co. Band, and Winchester & Western Railroad Band, Wardensville, W. Va.

Visiting bands and firemen from nearby States joined with the four large Winchester volunteer fire companies tonight in a "firemen's frolic," or old-time torchlight procession, in which local organizations introduced numerous comedy and "mummer" features and an exhibition of antiquated fire fighting equipment alongside modern motorized apparatus.

One of the outstanding figures of the Rouss Fire Company, of Winchester, was Lieut. Harry K. Thaw, Broadway playboy and erstwhile Frederick County farmer and dog fancier. Mr. Thaw appeared in regulation red shirt and white trousers, and, being an officer, marched on the sidelines, carrying a brightly polished silver trumpet with a bouquet stuck in the bell. Beaming with the pride of a boy, Thaw acknowledged the cheers of hundreds of visitors who recognized him.

Special to The Washington Post.

Lewisburg, W. Va., April 24.—The Greenbrier Military School Band won first place today in the apple blossom festival in Winchester, Va. This is the third time Greenbrier has won first place and the cadet musicians have been among the three winners on every trip at every festival. The Greenbrier Band was under the direction of Capt. W. H. Beardsworth, bandmaster, and Cadet Henry Grusendorf, drum major.

Today the Greenbrier Band was selected to serenade Queen Shenandoah VII, who is Miss Suzanne Pollard, daughter of Gov. Pollard of Virginia.

GERMANS REGAIN MILWAUKEE LEAD

Immigration Changes Since War Reported; Poles Now Losing.

REVERSE IN TIDE SEEN

Special to The Washington Post.

Milwaukee, April 24.—Milwaukee, once the "German Athens of America," but which since the World War gave promise of becoming as Polish as Warsaw, is now back on its way to becoming predominantly German in the nationality of its new citizens.

The fluctuating tide of immigration which has seen the New England Yankees, the New York Staters and the Irish predominate, only to be submerged by other rising nationalities, has definitely turned from Polish to German. Not until January, 1929, did the swing toward German immigrants become evident, but it has been gaining rapidly since.

The main factor, according to Martin Plehn, naturalization clerk of the circuit court, is the quota law which allows Germany 51,227 immigrants a year to 5,982 for Poland.

Would Reverse Balance.

If President Hoover proclaims effective the new national origins scheme, Poland will benefit and Germany suffer. Under the plan Poland could send about three times as many as the present allotment, but Germany only half as many.

Mr. Plehn has gathered figures to show that in 1927 there were 324 persons of Polish birth admitted to citizenship and only 148 of German birth. In 1928 the Polish naturalizations fell to 230 and the German grew to 171. In 1929 the tide turned, with only 208 Polish naturalizations and 331 German.

The number of aliens called for citizenship hearings shows the trend still more definitely. In July, 1928, there were 24 Polish and 15 Germans. All the remaining months of that year showed Polish predominance but by a narrowing margin. Other nationalities are relatively few.

Germans Take Lead.

In January, 1929, the Polish lead was cut to two, and in February the German lead was eight. By February of this year the Germans had almost a 2 to 1 lead. In the hearings on April 15-16 there were only 14 Polish aliens and 44 Germans.

The wide lead that the Polish nationality has enjoyed for the last ten years has been due in a large measure to the excellent Americanization work which has been done in Milwaukee, Mr. Plehn says. The Polish National Alliance has been active in persuading persons of Polish birth to become American citizens.

Youth Held in Killing Of Man in Lynchburg

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., April 24.—L. O. Jennings, 50, formerly of Hopewell, was shot and killed early last night in the home of Mrs. Otella Gleason, near Winfall, Campbell County, where he had been living since last fall. A coroner's inquest returned a verdict of murder and later, Sam Gleason, 18, son of Mrs. Gleason, told county officials that he shot the man because of alleged misconduct in his home. Jennings was shot under the left arm and probably died instantly. Gleason was lodged in the county jail.

Salesman Is Injured By Hit-Run Motorist

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., April 24.—While sitting alongside the State highway at Concord, D. H. Knight, a Lynchburg traveling salesman, was run over by an automobile which was in collision opposite him with an other car. He was brought to Virginia Baptest Hospital, where it was found he had suffered a fracture of the left leg.

The car which injured Mr. Knight drove on without stopping to offer assistance. Mr. Knight is 60 years of age and has been traveling for 25 years.

William Downey, 5 years old, of 519 Ninth street southeast, suffered a fractured nose yesterday when an automobile operated by his father, Thomas J. Long, of 1706 A street southeast.

Attraction at Alexandria Carnival Equipped for Zero Weather.

Special to The Washington Post.

Alexandria, Va., April 24.—This substandard temperature may seem a little chilly to some people, but there's at least one person in Alexandria who is entirely satisfied with the present status of the mercury.

Hot weather, it was revealed last night, is the bane of her existance to "Priscilla, the monkey girl," who is one of the attractions his week at Pentagon Park, on King street, by the Melville-Reiss Shows, for the firemen's spring festival.

That Priscilla would naturally prefer cool weather is obvious in view of the fact that her entire body, with the exception of the soles of her feet and the palms of her hands, is covered with a thick growth of long, heavy hair, which gies her all the protection of a polar bear.

Letterman Squad Makes Rum Raids

Four Persons Are Seized on Liquor and Gaming Charges.

With the return of Sergt. Oscar J. Letterman as head of the vice squad, after being acquitted on a directed verdict by Judge Hitt on a warrantless raid charge, his squad conducted three raids yesterday, seizing a quantity of liquor and gaming paraphernalia.

The first raid resulted in the arrest of Mary Hill, colored, 40 years old, of U street near Third street northwest, where gaming equipment was found. She was booked at the First Precinct Station on charges of permitting gaming.

More than 68 quarts of alleged liquor was found by the raiders when they descended on a residence at Twenty-sixth street near G street northwest. Hilda Harris, colored, 24 years old, was charged with sale and possession of liquor.

Joseph Bottler, colored, 19 years old, and Edna Anthony, colored, 32 years old, were arrested in a residence on U street near Thirteenth street northwest. Bottler was charged with sale and possession and the woman with possession of liquor.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

DESPITE all the opposition—grand opera and musical comedy—the National Theater Players are jogging along at a fast clip in an old vehicle, Otis Skinner's erstwhile starring fantasy, "The Honor of the Family." Mr. Walter Gilbert is found in the Skinner role, and doing nicely.

• • • •

NEXT week at the National the leading lady, Miss Marion Wells, gets an opportunity to run away with the honors. She will be seen in the Billie Burke role in the play that Miss Burke graced for two solid seasons, "Jerry," a light-confection that calls for clothes and plenty of clothes; which is always something to delight the heart of womanhood. Pink pajamas, they say, play no small part in Jerry's wardrobe.

• • • •

PACKED houses at Poli's Theater attest the theatergoers' love for the revue type of entertainment. Mr. George White's "Scandals," the tenth edition, was created solely for purposes of fun. It contains some of the funniest skits seen in this section these many moons. Also, as goodly a gathering of feminine pulchritude as the boys might see in a year of theatergoing; which is one reason, of course, for the packed houses.

• • • •

AS its final theatrical offering for all time, Poli's Theater presents next week Mr. Walter Hampden in three celebrated plays: "Richelieu," "Caponsacchi" and "Hamlet." After that the United States Government will step in and take over the old playhouse for the purpose of destroying it—making way for a park in front of the new Commerce Building.

• • • •

WORD comes from the other side of the Atlantic that the Stratford-Upon-Avon Festival Company, which delighted lovers of Shakespeare here some time ago, had arrived back in the old home town of the bard. The company is now in the throes of its annual spring season—to extend for five weeks. The American tour was a success; so much so, in fact, that plans are now being made for a return engagement next year with New York as one of the ports of call. The metropolis was left off the list this past season.

• • • •

SLIDING BILLY WATSON, the old-time burlesque comedian, who has delighted many a heart in the Ninth street playhouse, the Gayety, has something to say about the novelty of the all-talkies and the big movie houses. Hear: "They're the big novelty now, and the public always falls for a novelty. Why, a guy goes into one of 'em for 50 cents and it's like he was asked around to visit his rich relations. It's better than his own home. After he's seen the show, he goes down to the lounge and sits around awhile and maybe rolls back in one of those big sofas and picks his teeth. Then he takes a wash, maybe, and then he goes back upstairs and gets another load."

PARITY AND SECURITY.

Advance discussion of the London naval pact indicates that the treaty will be considered on its merits. The hearings in the naval affairs committee are to be conducted in good faith and they will be open to the public.

Senator Hale, chairman of the naval affairs committee, and Senator Johnson can be relied upon to uphold the double-barreled American slogan of parity and security. Senator Borah, chairman of the foreign relations committee, has indicated that he will welcome a fair presentation of all material information. Senator Swanson, ranking Democrat on both the foreign affairs and naval committees, some weeks ago gave his reasons for opposing a three-power pact. Senators Reed and Robinson will doubtless lead the fight for ratification.

Senator Johnson's statement yesterday outlining six specific points upon which he will seek information before judging the treaty gives advance notice of the searching probe to which the document will be subjected. Three of the six points are particularly pertinent. The senator wants to be assured that the treaty navy will be adequate for our national defense and the protection of our commerce. Obviously, if that assurance is lacking after full hearings the treaty will fail of approval. Mr. Johnson wants to be convinced that the promised parity with Great Britain will be found in the terms of the pact and he wants to be assured that the treaty does not make "our future contingent wholly upon another nation's action."

This last point is suggested by the safety clause under which any one of the three powers may exceed the treaty limits by giving notice to the other two. There have been intimations that this safety clause is only for Great Britain's benefit, because the British admiralty foresees the need of exceeding the limitations if the present French naval program is carried out. But by the time this safety clause has been thoroughly discussed in committee hearings and on the Senate floor, there may be found an adequate means of amply protecting America against possible disadvantages resulting from abandonment of the treaty limitations.

Senator Johnson asks whether there is to be a limitation and whether there is to be a reduction and also whether there is to be any real economy or saving to our people under the treaty. There may be a limitation, despite the safety clause, when the Senate prescribes the form in which it will give its advice and consent to the pact. There has never been any chance of real reduction. The economy or saving will depend upon the particular standards of comparison chosen by those who seek to prove or disprove any claim of economy advanced.

UNAIRWORTHY AIRPLANES.

In the face of reports that one of its inspectors had placed the blame for Tuesday's airplane accident at Lyon Park, Va., squarely upon the shoulders of the "inexperienced" pilot who was killed, the aeronautics division of the Department of Commerce has wisely decided to assign another of its agents to investigate the tragedy under the law governing inquiry into airplane accidents. With 150 flying hours to his credit the pilot could scarcely be held inexperienced.

The pilot was undergoing an examination for a limited commercial license when, as required by law, he purposely went into a spin. He succeeded in righting his plane when one of its wings fell off. Why did the wing fall off? In the answer to that question lies the hope of preventing similar tragedies. The wrecked plane was purchased, second-hand, about sixteen months ago. When it fell—dangerously near a score of children—its wooden parts were shattered into thousands of splinters, some no larger than a toothpick. The question arises: Was the plane airworthy?

If the plane was unairworthy, why was it permitted to leave the ground, and why was the pilot allowed to do tail spins and nose dives? Whether Lindbergh himself, in the same plane, could have come out of the spin alive is open to doubt. Yet it is quite possible that had the pilot been in a wholly airworthy machine he could have safely volplaned back to Hoover Field.

In view of announcement by a publishing company, following a six months' national survey, that within fifteen years a million privately owned airplanes will be flown daily in this country, it is well that the Department of Commerce has ordered an inquiry into the cause of the Lyon Park tragedy. No unairworthy plane should be allowed off the ground. No pilot should be allowed to stunt above thickly populated communities.

THE TARIFF COMPROMISE.

Although the tariff conference committee has left the major controversies for settlement on the floors of the Senate and House, it has done good work. Its adjustment of rates was a leveling process which will extend reasonable protection to most of the industries raided by the coalition. Its chief work on the administrative section has been the elimination of radicalism.

Foremost among the extraneous provisions that were grafted onto the tariff bill when it left the Senate was the Norris amendment designed to suspend tariff protection on all commodities dealt in by monopolies. Whether the conferees were afraid that this cumbersome weapon against trusts would cut down all companies engaged in an industry whenever one of them succeeded in establishing a monopoly, or whether they gave heed to the impracticability of trying to preserve domestic competition through a tariff law, is immaterial. The Norris amendment was eliminated along with other monstrosities.

The stroke of genius which created a consumer's counsel goes for naught. Fear that the Tariff Commission would ignore the interests of the public led the coalition to vote for an attorney to keep the commission in the straight and narrow path. It is not difficult to see why the conferees agreed to dispense with the services of this agent of the people, whose duty would have been to advise another agency of the people as to how it should advise the duly elected servants of the people.

Censorship has been retailed, but rationalized. The committee accepted the Senate amendment providing that questions of obscenity and sedition in connection with imported books and pictures will be decided by the courts instead of customs officials.

The foundation has been laid for conversion of all tariff rates to a basis of domestic valuation. A Senate amendment instructing the Tariff Commission to work out a table of domestic valuation rates comparable in effect to the foreign value rates now in force was accepted. Congress will then be in a position to put up a bar against the importer who values his goods at a fraction of their cost to diminish the duty. In all these instances the conferees have demonstrated a high degree of common sense which was often lacking in consideration of the tariff bill on the floors.

Eight points of controversy remain undecided. They include the export debenture plan, the flexible provision and the rates on sugar, lumber, cement, shingles and silver. The conferees also failed to agree on the House provision seeking to establish a nonpartisan Tariff Commission of seven members.

Congressional leaders have wisely decided that the conference report shall be considered in the House first. The two remaining monstrosities in the bill—the debenture and the Senate's "inflexible" clause—should be eliminated by that body. Some of the Senate rates will no doubt be accepted. The bill can then be returned to the Senate with the full onus of its success or failure upon that body. With election day in the offing the Senate can ill afford to send the measure to the White House in a form that would draw a presidential veto.

CHINA'S WARS AND FAMINE.

Paul O. Nyhus, American agricultural commissioner stationed at Shanghai, reports that the famine that has been stalking through the northwestern provinces will be defeated only if the spring and summer harvests are satisfactory and if peace is maintained. The situation has been aggravated, he reports, by the almost incessant brigandage and war operations. Everywhere in northwestern China the people are starving to death. Missionaries and relief workers tell tales of whole villages wiped out, with the dead unburied because none are left with strength sufficient to dig graves.

Meanwhile, the war lords move. Spring carries first warnings of a resumption of the hostilities that were halted with the coming of winter. Fighting is reported between Nanking forces and northern detachments in the vicinity of the Lunghai railroad. Yen Hsi-shan, defying treaty stipulations and disregarding the Nanking Government's arrangements with tobacco companies in regard to taxation, has imposed a tobacco monopoly in Shansi. In Peking, the week-end witnessed a fiery demonstration against Chiang Kai-shek. Feng Yu-hsiang's troops are massed at Chengchow. Reports of preparation for war fill the air.

What can be done for China? A large part of the population is starving to death. The great majority are, at best, underfed. But peace seems impossible of attainment. Every truce is regarded as affording no more than a breathing spell to prepare for a resumption of hostilities. The war lords grow fat. They do not want for food. They confiscate recklessly and ruthlessly. Their followers ravage the countryside while women and children starve to death.

The Chinese war lords are working greater havoc in China than could be wrought by foreign war.

RUNNING WILD.

The Senate is running wild on the immigration question. A few days ago Senator Norbeck threw a wrench into the machinery that was grinding out a new immigration policy to be applied to the Western Hemisphere. Since then the Senate has deviated from its original purpose of restricting the influx of aliens from neighboring countries, and is holding open session for all kinds of radical proposals.

The Norbeck amendment, which was adopted by the Senate, called for repeal of the national origins method of alloting immigration quotas to European countries. It had no place in the bill under consideration. It was merely a grandiose gesture on the part of the insurgents to remind the Republican regulars that they disagree with President Hoover on this subject. Their escapade came to an end on Thursday when the Senate recovered its equilibrium and reversed its vote on the Norbeck amendment.

At the same time, however, the Senate went off on another tangent and voted to reduce European immigration to this country to 80,000 per year. Senator Norbeck had set the pace by proposing that the quotas now allowing 150,000 to enter be reduced by 30,000. But the new amendment would cut the quotas virtually in half. This is an attempt at reducing unemployment, but it will probably fail because the provision is not germane to the question before Congress and the House will not accept these radical amendments.

Before Congress takes any action on immigration it must investigate the subject thoroughly. It is inexcusable to decide such matters on the spur of the moment when a quite different issue is under debate. When further restrictions are put upon European immigrants they should be based on a method of selection that will bring to America the kind of workmen that can be absorbed into the economic system.

Extraneous amendments tend to obscure the important question of Mexican immigration. It is apparent that the Senate does not wish to meet the issue squarely, and that the country must look to the House for a suitable measure.

RETAIN DR. TINDALL.

When Commissioners Reichelderfer and Crosby appeared before the Senate District committee the other day in support of the bill that would effect the exemption of Dr. William Tindall from the retirement regulations, they gave voice to the wide public interest in this veteran. Since 1869, Dr. Tindall has been in the District service. Today he is in charge of the information bureau where his vast knowledge of the history and the affairs of the local government can be drawn upon easily by the public and by local officials. Dr. Tindall's long and faithful service entitle him to unusual treatment with respect to his retirement, and his value as a walking encyclopedia of local affairs more than justifies his retention.

A rider should have been attached to the appropriation bill making special provision for Dr. Tindall. Since the appropriation bill was enacted without such a clause, the substitute bill that has been prepared should receive early attention. There is no justification for speaking of the precedent that such a measure would set. In all likelihood a similar case will not arise for several generations.

THE LONDON TREATY

By Commander HOLLOWAY H. FROST, U. S. N.

When ratified by the United States, Great Britain and Japan the treaty comes into force. It so remains until December 31, 1936. A conference will be held in 1935 to determine subsequent developments.

Twenty-four months after coming into force we must scrap one battleship. Six months later we must scrap two more. If desired, one of the latter may be converted into a training ship under a pledge that it shall never be used for any combatant purposes. We give up the right to lay down the ten capital ships which the Washington conference authorized from 1931 to 1936. Of the fifteen battleships retained seven have been modernized. We retain the right to modernize the other eight.

The tonnage limitation for aircraft carriers remains at 135,000, as specified at the Washington conference. We may build 69,000 tons of carriers any time we desire. Should any be less than 10,000 standard tons, 6-inch guns are the largest they can carry.

According to the table in the treaty we may not exceed 180,000 tons of completed 8-inch cruisers by December 31, 1936. But this provision is further modified by Article XVIII. This says that we can have fifteen of these cruisers completed by 1935, the sixteenth in 1936, the seventeenth in 1937 and the eighteenth in 1938. Assuming that each of these three vessels will be completed in the middle of the year mentioned—which, considering our rate of building, is highly optimistic—it is evident that on December 31, 1936, the seventeenth ship will be five-sixths completed and the eighteenth only one-half completed. Thus our maximum 8-inch cruiser tonnage when the treaty expires is not 180,000 tons—but 173,300. As we have 100,000 tons of this type built or building, we are permitted to lay down 80,000 more tons during the life of the treaty. Of these eight cruisers five can be laid down immediately, one in 1933, one in 1934 and one in 1935. The two latter will still be under construction when the treaty goes out of force.

In 6-inch cruisers we are permitted 143,500 tons. As we now have 70,500 tons of this type, we may complete 73,000 tons of new ships during the treaty's life. Should we so desire, 15,166 tons of 6-inch cruisers may be substituted for each of the last three 10,000-ton 8-inch cruisers. It appears that this option may be used for one, two or three cruisers. Also, that the substitute 6-inch cruiser tonnage may be laid down as quickly as we desire. Therefore, we might lay down the sixteenth 8-inch cruiser in 1933 and complete it in 1936, but substitute for the seventeenth and eighteenth ships 30,333 tons of 6-inch cruisers—to be built immediately. In this way all our cruiser tonnage would be completed before the expiration of the treaty. If the next conference the status quo of December 31, 1936, is going to be nine points of the law.

The destroyer allotment is 150,000 tons. We have more than that tonnage now, but every destroyer we have today will be over the age limit of twelve years before the treaty expires. We will, therefore, have to build our entire allotment of 150,000 tons. Should we so desire, 15,000 tons of 6-inch cruisers can be allotted to the destroyer category. Conversely, 14,350 tons of destroyer tonnage can be transferred to the 6-inch cruiser allotment.

In submarines, the maximum tonnage of 52,700 may not be exceeded by December 31, 1936. By that time all but seventeen of this type will have become overage. We must complete 30,000 tons of new submarines during the treaty and have about 15,000 tons more under construction when it expires, to replace those which reach the age limit of 13 years in 1937 and 1938.

If we are to exercise our full rights under the treaty—as every other nation is certain to do—we will be required to lay down and complete the construction of the following vessels during the life of the treaty:

Battleships—None, but modernization of eight ships should be accomplished.

Aircraft carriers—69,000 tons, of which 10,286 is to replace the experimental carrier Langley.

Eight-inch cruisers—60,000 tons. This is additional to 80,000 tons now building.

Six-inch cruisers—103,000 tons. This exercises the option to replace the last two 8-inch cruisers with 30,000 tons of 6-inch cruisers.

Destroyers—150,000 tons.

Submarines—30,000 tons. This is additional to 5,500 tons now building.

Total—439,000 tons, plus 15,000 tons of submarines laid down but not completed.

Our failure to maintain an adequate program of naval construction during the last ten years is responsible for the large number of ships we must build during the life of the London treaty. Much of the construction will replace vessels which reach the age limits assigned by the treaty. As both Great Britain and Japan have received special permission to replace certain vessels before they reach their age limits, it follows that an additional disadvantage should not be imposed on our Navy by failure to replace vessels when their age limits are reached.

In order that we may not have to rush into quantity production without adequate preparation, we should commence work immediately on "pilot models" of 6-inch cruisers, destroyers, submarines and aircraft carriers. The construction and operation of these vessels will develop their weak points and permit us to begin mass production with the very best designs and methods of construction.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

BUSINESS POLICY.

There was a very wise old man who kept a little store
And people rich and people poor came often to his door,
But now and then a proud man came who felt the old man should Dismiss his poorer customers as quickly as he could.
He'd rap the counter nervously and cry: "I am in haste!
Come, sell me what I wish to buy,
for I've no time to waste."
The old man said: "One moment, sir, I'll serve you in your turn.
I'm waiting on a customer." Her cheeks began to burn.
"I'll wait," she timidly replied. "Oh, no, you won't," said he.
"The great and low who pass my door all look alike to me.
'Tis not the proud alone I'd please,
one price I have for all;
And one thought for the customer, be his purchase large or small."
The proud man cried: "I buy with cash." The old man said: "That's true,
And with the self-same coins you use the others purchase, too.
Your dime is not a larger dime than that the child may spend.
If I have four good customers, which one must I offend?
"First come, first served;" that is my rule. No other way I know.
If you are not disposed to wait then elsewhere you must go."
I like the old man's policy, I like the old man's sense,
The pride that has no patience is of little consequence,
And though there is a need for tact
in every shop and store,
"First come, first served," should be the rule for all who pass the door.
Since dimes and dollars are the things which business strives to win
The merchant should remain the friend to all who bring them in.

The Real Vote Will Be Revealing.

The Child's Throat Is Whittled to Satisfy the Parents' Sense of Duty

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MOST of us who are thirty years old or more still have our tonsils.

Yet our children and our neighbors' children, almost without exception, have had their tonsils removed, or expect to have their tonsils removed, or cause parental anxiety because poverty prevents having their tonsils removed.

Try to find a reasonable explanation of the change effected by three decades and you will come inevitably to one of three conclusions. That the old-fashioned doctor wasn't intelligent enough to operate when necessity demanded it; that infected tonsils requiring operation have become epidemic since our childhood, or that the present plague of tonsilectomy is prompted by a fad and not by necessity.

The first conclusion is manifestly unsound, and the second as patently absurd.

In our childhood we had as many "colds," as many sore throats and as much tonsilitis as children have now.

If operations had been necessary, our failure to endure them would have ended our days or at least ruined our health, and thus the fact that we are hale and hearty still is sufficient proof that they weren't necessary.

In explanation of a similar increase in the number of appendix operations, surgeons may contend that our fathers needed operating also and died of peritonitis or cramp colic because they were neglected.

But no such argument will hold in the case of tonsils, for we survived without operations; and since there has been no change in human flesh, it is obvious that our children also would survive without being operated.

There isn't a reputable physician in American who will dispute the statement that from 50 to 70 per cent of present-day tonsil operations are unnecessary.

Various investigators, examining thousands of tonsils after their removal by specialists and finding them free of disease, have reported their work in the medical journals without being rebuked or questioned.

Medical men know the truth.

Yet parents accept as final the first suggestion that their children should be operated, or reach the same conclusion without other counsel than popular opinion or their own imagination, and the removal of tonsils has become a gentile ceremony as orthodox as circumcision.

What insufferable insolence to criticize the illiterate poor who make wage earners of their children while we needlessly whittle our own.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

How to Understand Two-Way Time.

Time flows two ways, not forever onward like a brook, but backward and forward at the same time, says Dr. Gilbert N. Lewis, of the University of California. Events occurring today may have influenced the acts of Caesar, Hannibal and Cleopatra, says the professor who upsets the theory of cause and effect by holding that the effect may come first.

* * * *

Now let's see if it's all quite clear to you. Tomorrow, you understand, may not be ahead of you at all; it may be some place in the middle of last week.

* * * *

Do you get it? Well, then let's illustrate: Take "A" and "B." "A" denotes a boy, "B," a girl. "A" falls in love with "B." He assumes he fell in love because of an impression she made five weeks ago Friday at a young people's ball. This is due to the fact that he has the wrong slant on time. The events that caused him to fall in love will really not occur until a week from next Tuesday. See?

* * * *

"A" proposes to "B" and the marriage is set for two weeks ago last June. They notify her parents tomorrow by a telegram, which will reach them some time between last Thanksgiving and apple week, 1930. The happy pair start on a honeymoon to Niagara Falls for three weeks. They get to Niagara and discover that their honeymoon is over and that they checked out January 8.

* * * *

Well, they argue with the hotel clerk for a spell, but then get all mixed up and go to another hotel. Here the clerk, one Ramsey P. Dinkle, has never heard of Prof. Lewis, so they get accomodations and remain ten days. Hardly have they unpacked when a sheriff arrives, saying that they have been missing from home four years.

* * * *

By this time things have become pretty complicated. They decide to return home. At the station they are met by three strangers who insist they are their three children, Eddie, Luke and Martha, aged 11, 16 and 26, respectively.

* * * *

They doubt this at first, but run across a more detailed explanation of Prof. Lewis' two-way time, accompanied by a chart. This chart, read from right to left instead of from left to right, shows that they are not really "A" and "B" at all, but a couple named "D" and "W" who were married in South Bend 30 years ago.

* * * *

They solve everything by throwing away their watches.

* * * *

Of course, the Lewis theory of time might be illustrated in other ways, but this will give you the gist of what he's driving at. Even if it doesn't, it won't make any difference.

SOCIAL NOTE.

Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh spent Easter in Los Angeles, Wichita and New York.

Traffic being what it was, the colonel and his wife were the only two people in the country to start on an Easter Sunday trip and even hold their own.

Whatever else the flight does it should put to shame the millions of men who can't even make a 20-mile trip on a Sunday with their wives without battling all the way.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

During Be Kind to Animals Week Thought Should Turn to the Value of Mankind's Dumb Friends.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: This is be kind to animals anniversary week. More and more should our thoughts turn to the realization of all that the lower creation means to us. In what state would man's civilization be today without the patient toiling through the years of the so-called "beasts" of burden who have helped build his cities and plow the hard land which has produced his very food and clothing; the guardianship and friendship of the faithful dog; the check upon insect invasion by the feathered songsters, and the aid of the friends among the insects who fertilize so many of our food plants, besides the companionship and love of many creatures we call pets, and the help our souls derive from sympathetic observance of the lives of wild things of forest and field.

We are becoming in some respects kinder every year, yet the goal is still very far away. Before it can be reached such gross cruelties as child labor and the animal torture of the steel trap, hunting, circuses, bullfights, rodeos, many zoos and the bloody shambles must go. The natural spark of kindness in childish and youthful hearts must be fanned into a flame by humane education, until finally the long-prophesied millennium will dawn, and a little child, through the power of love shall lead in peace all the creatures, no longer fearful of their enemy, man, nor of each other. VIRGINIA W. SARGENT.

Bronze Buffalo Stand Symbolic of the West of Yesterday.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Here in Washington one of the most striking features of the fascinating story of the conquest of the West is represented by the fine group of bison in their inclosure on the slope of Buffalo Hill in the Zoo Park.

I never come within sight of these animals that I do not think of the far West of the first half of the nineteenth century. In the vast extent of the prairie wilderness they alone of all the wild life were conspicuous. Today none are to be seen except in captivity, although as late as 1871 an observer, Col. R. I. Dodge, wrote:

"From the top of Pawnee Rock I could see from 6 to 10 miles in almost every direction. The whole vast space was covered with buffalo, looking like one compact mass."

I think the buffalo might well stand as a symbol of the West in its heroic development. In keeping with my suggestion in a former letter that statues of native American animals should adorn our streets and parks, the so-called Q street buffalo present a very pleasing appearance. As their bulky forms loom up, especially when approached at nightfall, the mind may easily be stirred as in a dream to recall the early progress of the West, with its hardy home-seekers and intrepid adventurers, Kit Carson, Jim Bridger, "Buffalo Bill" and the rest.

"OKLAHOMA."

Washington, the Social and Political Metropolis, Is Becoming the Patriotic Center of the Nation.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: At the recent convention of the National Society of the United Daughters of 1812 one of the speakers was Francis S. Key-Smith, great-grandson of the author of "The Star-Spangled Banner." As reported in a newspaper summary, he "made an impassioned appeal for a more tenacious adherence to the ideals of patriotism erected by the builders of this Nation."

In such incidents as this I discern one of the brightest attractions of the National Capital of the future. Its educational advantages are more widely recognized from year to year, and the great patriotic organizations of the country naturally turn to Washington as their most appropriate meeting place. This is true also of public-spirited Americans of wealth and leisure.

The time is coming when, not only as a social and political metropolis, but as a center of patriotic sentiment, the Capital of the Republic will outshine all other cities. J. A. L.

Old-Time American Citizenship Requires Old-Time American Family Life.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: At the good fellowship dinner of the Parents and Teachers Congress at the Washington Hotel Tuesday night, Representative Maas, of Minnesota, said: "We need more character education, and you mothers and teachers must see that we get it." He laid particular stress on the idea that home training is the basis of good government.

Let us hope that the school administrators accept this idea without mental reservation. What they are doing and propose to do in the matter of character building in the schools is absolutely necessary. But it will fall short of the best results if the full value of home training is not recognized. The more I think about it the more I am convinced that in firmly fixing the spirit of old-time American citizenship there is nothing to take the place of old-time American home life. CHARLES QUICK.

Endorses Plan to Increase District Commissioners' Salaries to $10,000 a Year—They're Worth It.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I hope Senator Capper's bill raising the pay of the District Commissioners from $9,000 to $10,000 a year will become a law. I have always been in favor of paying high salaries to administrative officials, even when the idea was more unpopular than it is now.

The Commissioner who is not really worth a great deal more than $9,000 yearly is not worth having at any salary. If he sizes up fully to the requirements of his position the community should be extremely grateful that it can secure his services for a mere $10,000.

CURRAN EXPLAINS LETTERS TO JUSTICE

Dry Law Opponent States That Phillips Wrote "To Old Friends."

TAFT PRECEDENT CITED

(Associated Press.)

Defending the action of Thomas W. Phillips, candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania, in writing letters on prohibition to two members in the United States Supreme Court, Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, told the Senate lobby committee yesterday that the correspondence was "not lobbying in even the least sense of the word."

The letters, read Wednesday before the lobby committee, were written last year to Justice Stone and the late Justice Sanford. They consisted largely of an attack on prohibition and drew a charge from Senator Robinson (Republican), Indiana, that the Antiprohibition Association, of which Phillips is a director, was "lobbying directly with the Supreme Court."

Mr. Curran said the letters consisted merely of "correspondence between old friends" and cited a letter written by the late Chief Justice Taft to Irving Fisher, of Yale University, which discussed prohibition, as evidence that lobbying was not intended.

The Taft letter, which has been made public at the prohibition hearings before the House judiciary committee, was written, Mr. Curran said, when Prof. Fisher sent the Chief Justice a book by himself which favored prohibition.

The letter was placed in the lobby committee record.

Letter Called Reprehensible.

Senator Robinson, however, was not satisfied with Mr. Curran's explanation and described the letter writing as "indefensible" and "reprehensible." He said he was surprised that Mr. Phillips had not been "haled before the court."

It also was brought out that Walter G. Hooke, assistant to Curran, had been active in Illinois and New York Legislatures last year in opposition to dry laws. Questioned by Mr. Robinson, Mr. Curran said the association had "lobbied" in Illinois.

The resignation of Secretary Lamont as a director of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment when he became head of the Commerce Department was brought out in a letter read before the committee from Benedict Crowell, of Cleveland, to Mr. Curran.

Worked for Walsh's Election.

Mr. Curran testified that the association had paid the expenses of F. G. R. Gordon, of Haverhill, Mass., to work for reelection of Senator Walsh (Democrat), Massacrusetts, in 1928.

Questioned by the committee he said the association was not ready for prohibition referenda in California and Colorado.

"We have not so much to do this fall," he said, "in helping to elect representatives and senators opposed to prohibition that if we get all cluttered up with a lot of referenda we get scattered about too thin."

Mr. Curran was directed to appear again today for his seventh day's examination.

The committee would be directed to report back before March 1, 1931. It also goes to the Senate.

Brickbats & Bouquets

By JAMES HAY, JR.

SAD news, my countrymen! Heartbreaking stuff, this description of the plumbless depths to which American political strategy has sunk.

For the benefit of the man in the street, both Democratic and Republican leaders are industriously building up a picture of highbrowed, sagacious and resourceful statesmen betaking themselves to the council chamber, there to decide in a fog of fact, fallacy and cigar smoke whether the congressional elections are to be won on the issue of the tariff, foreign entanglements, industrial conditions or what have you?

* * * *

BUT as a matter of fact, the party strategists, press agents and spellbinders admit that the one thing which is going to determine the outcome of those same elections is liquor.

John Barleycorn, the execrated gentleman at whose obsequies the populace made merry ten years ago, is just now the livest cadaver who ever romped forth from a legislative grave.

To this regrettable level is congressional politics reduced; that it matters little or nothing how a candidate may stand on the World Court, the tariff or any other weighty problem of statecraft; the thing on which his campaign and his official life depend is how he stands—wet or dry.

* * * *

BEHOLD the sovereign State of Illinois, engaged in the solemn duty of choosing a senator! Mrs. McCormick, an ark of feminine ambition perched high on the Ararat of prohibition, opposed by Mr. Lewis, a corkscrew of masculine resoluteness rampant on a platform labeled "P. L."—which, in the vernacular, may mean Personal Liberty or Plenteous Liquor!

And regard Connecticut, one of whose Republican representatives recently died. Did her governor, Mr. Coolidge's John's father-in-law, call a special election to choose a successor as he was authorized by law to do? He did not!

Fearing a wet Democrat might run away with this normally Republican district, as was done by the surprising Mr. Grandfield in Mr. Coolidge's own Vermont, the canny Republican governor has let the thing drift, trusting to luck and the vote-geting proclivities of his party when up and at 'em in battle array to keep the wet Democrat at home next November.

* * * *

SO it goes all over the country—this hark, from the tomb a doleful sound!—the sound of old John Barleycorn calling on the candidates to guess whether lining up with or against his Impertinent Highness in an off-year congressional campaign will elect 'em or lambast 'em.

Occasionally a tremendous man like dry Senator Walsh in wet Montana is big enough to ignore and despise liquor as the yardstick of his statesmanship; but for the average laborers in the vineyard of politics their answers to the blood-curdling query, "Wet or dry?" will mean traveling on to Washington or treading the winepress of private life.

MRS. R. Q. LEE SEEKS HUSBAND'S POSITION

then seek the office in the next regular election.

Both Mrs. Lee and Mr. Blanton are Democrats.

In seeking to have Mrs. Lee enter the campaign her friends said she was well qualified in that she had always taken an interest in Mr. Lee's business and political affairs. She accompanied him on most of his business trips, and during his tenure of service in Washington became so familiar with his work that during his last illness she took charge of his office and managed it.

The representative, friends said, valued his wife's advice highly and consulted her on many important matters. During their residence in Washington Mrs. Lee took a great interest in parliamentary procedure and studied House rules.

Before her husband was elected to Congress, she accompanied him on trips aggregating 10,000 miles in a campaign for diversified farming which he sponsored while president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Lee was born at Wallhill, Miss., April 15, 1883. She was educated in Mississippi and Tennessee, and came to Texas in 1902 as the bride of Mr. Lee. They settled at Caddo and in 1913 moved to Cisco. She is the mother of two children. She also reared three children of Mr. Lee's by a previous marriage.

Mrs. Lee has been prominent in club work in Texas for a number of years. For two years she was treasurer of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs and later served as parliamentarian of the organization. She also has been active in church work, having served as district president and State chairman of education for the Texas Baptist general convention.

Mrs. Lee lived with the late representative and their children at 1851 Irving street, the home they bought of former Representative Thomas Blanton.

Governor to Enter Race For Seat Against Norris

Omaha, April 24 (A.P.).—The Omaha News says that it learned from an authoritative source at Lincoln today that Gov. Arthur J. Weaver is expected to file for the Republican nomination for United States senator within the next few weeks.

The governor, the newspaper says, has definitely made up his mind to enter the race for senator against George W. Norris. He refused to comment on the report, the News says.

Hearings Finished On Railroad Issue

Couzens to Urge Committee Action on 2 Proposals on Consolidations.

(Associated Press.)

With two modification proposals before it the Senate interstate commerce committee yesterday completed hearings on the Couzens resolution to suspend all railroad consolidations until Congress enacts additional regulation.

Both suggestions will be submitted in executive session Monday. Senator Couzens (Republican), Michigan, will urge action by the committee next week on one of them.

One modification proposal would suspend consolidations which are now exempted from the Sherman and Clayton antitrust laws, as well as make holding companies' joint control illegal. The other would prohibit only consolidations through holding company stock pooling, along with specific suspension of the proposed unification of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific Railroads until a reapplication is made and heard before the interstate commerce committee.

Correcting An Impression

We have sometimes found the impression prevailing that we will not accept anything but a used Ford car in trade for a new Ford. That is not a fact. Many cars—in both high and low price classes—are being constantly traded in for the new Ford.

Why did over 42% of the purchasers of new passenger cars in Washington during the month of March buy new Ford automobiles?

Because the new Ford car has value far above its price.

We are glad to handle salable cars of all makes. Appraisal Week gives every owner an opportunity of knowing the value of his present car and permits him to consider now the advisability of changing to Ford.

Woman Says Detective Set Her Auto Afire

Inspector Albert J. Headley yesterday began an investigation of charges made against Detective James Mostyn, of the police vice squad, by Mrs. Kate Knighton, who charged the detective had set her automobile afire in the course of a raid on her home on G street near Sixth southeast.

The raid was made April 17, Mrs. Knighton said, and she said she had two witnesses who said they saw the detective go to her garage and shortly after he left smoke was seen coming from the garage and the automobile was burned. Mostyn, when questioned by Inspector Headley, denied the accusation, saying that he did not go to the garage until after he saw the smoke of the fire. He suggested a short circuit of electric wiring as the apparent cause of the blaze.

Good Judgment

Our troops had advanced and I, a member of the scout section, was back with the cooker, bumming a ride and hoping for a handout. We came to piles of crushed stone which was once a town. Fismes!

Here is a place where the coroner of a building is left standing. Let's investigate. Perhaps we'll find some souvenirs or maybe a stray, unbroken bottle of vin rouge, for C-A-F-E is still on what is left of the walls. Don't bother with rifles or side-arms the front lines are far ahead, and what's the use of carrying anything anyway when you can always pick up what you want from some convenient salvage pile. Then too, the "moppers up" have been through ahead of us.

Up over the rock pile we go, through a hole that was once a window, and come face to face with "Jerry" the Boche.

Unarmed, we do not apologize for the intrusion but take to our heels, even though "Jerry" is also running in the opposite direction.

TOM FRANKLIN,
Voiture 174, 40 Hommes, 8 Cheveaux.

Did You

The writer "fell" in the battle of Paris in February, 1919, an old molar deciding his otherwise blissful assignment in that city. Back from 9 days in Base Hospital, No. 57, he drew a lucky number in the assignment of Class "A" leaves and elected Grenoble in the south of France. He had heard of a famous staircase in a school building in that city, which was famous for its decoration showing the sun, moon and stars and ideas of astronomy which prevailed hundreds of years ago.

He reached the building only to find "Ferme" (closed) on every entrance, but armed with American curiosity and the universal passport—cigarettes and chocolates of well-known brands—he got in with two companions after much cajoling of the concierge who begged us to "go only to the third floor—and very quietly." Arriving at the third floor, the decorations on the stairway above tempted us and we went on to the fifth floor and looked into a hospital ward, where 15 or 16 young girls were in bed. The nurse—a sister—turned and seeing us, cried "Merci de Dieu—allez—allez—les Rougeoles (God's mercy—go—go—the measles) and through another door, swept the mother superior—sternly demanding: Pourquoi ici messieurs. (Why are you here, sirs?)

I thought at once of a picture in the back of my watch—my little daughter's, which I showed to her and explained that we meant no harm. She would not be bribed with chocolates and led us to the door where she dismissed us with a hope we had taken away none of the measles.

RALPH D. CLEVERLEY,
Chief Purchasing Office, Q. M. C.,
Paris, France, April 15, 1930.

Reminiscences

In the latter part of July, 1918, I was on duty in a French dressing station, located between the railway and the main highroad, where we could see the troops going forward and care for the wounded coming back. As Senlis was in the path of German bombing squadrons attempting to attack Paris, they would often drop some of their "eggs" here, on which occasions it was mandatory that every one stay in the various "abris" or shelters, regardless of their inclination to go out and at least try to fight back.

On one such occasion several American boys sought the protection of the wooden structure where we had carried some wounded, and while waiting for the planes to disperse we listened to some of their yarns of various experiences and consequently felt quite well acquainted.

During the summer of 1923, while on duty at the Washington office of the Veterans' Bureau, I was requested to call upon a former service man and give some routine instructions pertaining to his health. About a month later I returned for a second visit and the boy said, "Ever since your previous visit I have been wondering where I saw you before, and now I am going to tell you where you were on July 24, 1918."

He then recalled the incident of the air raid and said, "I was one of those boys and you were one of the nurses who pulled us into the abri."

I did not remember him, personally, but I did remember the occasion.

No Guardian Needed

While waiting in Brest, anxious to get home, late in April, 1919, another nurse and myself were watching the passing crowd. A soldier, an American doughboy, came along singing at the top of his voice. Evidently he had enjoyed more than his share of vin rouge or cognac; at any rate, he was gloriously happy. An old French beggar woman stopped him. The boy dug down into his pocket bringing out a big fist full of change. The old woman's eyes lit up as the boy, picking out a small coin, said, "See that?" "Oui, oui, merci, Monsieur, merci," said the old woman. The soldier took up a larger coin and again said, "See that?" the old woman's "merci, merci!" showing her great anticipation. This was repeated several times, the eager exitement of the old beggar getting greater and greater. Finally, when he had collected quite a large amount, the same dialogue continuing, we felt that we should go to the rescue of the boy. But he needed no guardian or rescuer. Gathering up the whole amount, he held it before the old woman and said "See that, see all that, well, you think you are going to get it, don't you? Well, I'll de d——d if you are," whereupon he put it all back in his pocket and swaggered on. Those of you who know the French beggar well know what she said.

New Kind of Salts Taking Country By Storm
They Revitalize the System—Induce Youthful Activity—Keep Body in Splendid Condition—Free From Fat.
It doesn't take long for Americans to wake up to a good thing—only a few months ago Kruschen Salts were introduced into this country and the welcome news of their superior goodness and swift rejuvenating power traveled so fast that at one time the supply was many carloads behind the demand.
All of which goes to prove that Americans know good salts when they take them and want their friends to benefit also.
Kruschen Salts are taken for their health building value all over the world—they are the largest selling medicinal salts in Great Britain today.
Kruschen Salts are different from other salts—Kruschen is six salts in one—the very same six salts that nature put into the human body at the beginning of creation and demands you keep them there or your health won't be as good as it should be.
Unlike most salts Kruschen isn't simply a laxative—if that's all you want any old kind of salts with any kind of a label will do—but is that all you want?
When you take Kruschen Salts you not only stimulate your bowels, liver and kidneys to function naturally and perfectly, but you supply every internal organ, gland, nerve and fiber in the body with nature's own revitalizing and rejuvenating minerals.
A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts 4 weeks costs but 85c at Peoples Drug Stores, or any drug store in America—take one-half a teaspoon in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast—in just a few days indolence changes to activity and life grows brighter.
Before the bottle is empty you'll feel years younger—eyes will brighten—step grow sprightlier—nerves steadier—you'll sleep sound, enjoy your meals and after a hard day's work you'll be ready for wholesome recreation—one million Americans know all this—ask your druggist.

WILD WOMEN—GORILLAS—JUNGLE SECRETS—UNBELIEVABLE!
'INGAGI'
WITH SOUND (GORILLA)
Savage Women of the Jungle
Photographed in the Secret Lairs of the GORILLA
Myths and legends of darkest Africa reduced to reality through astounding camera records secured by the distinguished English scientist, Sir Hubert Winstead, F. A. S. and the American Hunter Captain Daniel Swayne
SEE an enraged lioness charge the camera, smash it, and tear the photographer's clothes to shreds in the struggle!
SEE the daring natives surround and battle with a huge gorilla, finally netting the maddened man-ape alive!
SEE the charge of the elephants, the rhino attack, the capture of a 60-foot python!
And See—Above All Else

The famous group by the sculptor Fremiet depicted a gorilla carrying off a helpless woman. The artist's conception was based on legend, but in the picture "Ingagi" the camera shows in actual photography the truth of these reports that have long emanated from the jungle.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

THE GORGEOUS AURATUM LILY.

LILIES are indeed the aristocrats of our garden families, and no garden is quite complete without them. They are tall and stately and above all else, easily raised, seeming most happy when left alone. All garden borders should have a few of these flowers scattered through them.

The gold-banded lily of Japan is undoubtedly one of the very finest varieties for the ordinary garden. It attains a height of from 3 to 5 feet and blossoms continually from July until September.

Hardy lilies do best in a herbaceous border, as they derive benefit from the shade of the surrounding plants, which is so necessary to their welfare. They will also do well in plots that are more or less shaded by buildings, walls or trees.

The auratum should be planted in the early spring. Plant the bulb where you mean it to remain permanently, for, as I have said, lilies do not take kindly to change. When you transplant a lily you can expect few if any blossoms for several months.

The auratum must be planted in well-drained, sandy soil which must also be fairly rich. S. the bulb quite deep (twelve inches). Shallow planting seems to be the reason why so many people fail with this variety. During a prolonged drought, which we so often have in August, the auratum should be watered once a day. As soon as the flowers fade, cut them off. By doing this, you will cause other buds to develop and those already developed to unfold.

Auratums will not stand for any encroachment of weeds about their roots. If weeds are permitted within one foot of this bulb, it will soon show signs of deterioration. The auratum is a heavy feeder and refuses to share its food, derived from the soil, with other plants or weeds. Therefore, it is wise to turn over the top soil about its roots at least once a week during its blooming season. This may seem like work to some people, but the large, perfectly-formed blossoms which will surely result from this treatment are ample repayment for the necessary labor.

After a rain, while the flower buds are still damp, it is a good thing to dust some finely ground or powdered tobacco over the tops of the auratum. This prevents the attack of any red spiders or aphis, either of which insects may at any time attack this lily.

The auratum is the most gorgeous and reliable of all hardy lilies. When selecting bulbs of this variety, choose heavy ones, as they are usually the ones with the strongest constitutions.

Baby Mine

Dare INTERPRETS the MODE

This is what I mean by the "fine pleating" incrustations being so fashionable now. A smart dotted navy blue suit-dress. (Courtesy of Doeuillet-Doucet, Paris.)

Paris, April 24.

IF a miss has any bows at all this season, she is sure to have lots and lots of them, because they come in severals—on many of the frocks and blouses for summer.

Perhaps they'll appear on the hips, five or six or seven of them tying tightly on the sides to make the top of the skirt smooth fitting. Perhaps there'll be ten little bows in a row in the middle or on the side of the blouse, tempting one to play such games as "Rich man, poor man, beggar man," or "This little pig went to market."

Scarfs often tie in a bow, especially those modish flat fur scarfs on sport coats of light weight wool. They are ever so smart.

And don't be too despondent over large shoulders or a plump neck, you still may have a bow! For the neckline of a crepe afternoon dress often ends in a flat bowknot effect of not too shiny silver beading. Even the black decolletage of an evening dress can be fetchingly finished in one of these flat strass bows.

• • • •

And Jenny put a pique bow at the front of a tweed sport dress, a stiff, stand-out-ish white one!

• • • •

It just seemed too glad to be true when I woke up the next morning after the night before and found that the night gown I had designed was every bit as lovely as I had dreamed it was! And I simply can't wait for you to send me your stamped, self-addressed envelope, to the Dare Department of the Washington Post, to get the illustrated leaflet, make the gorgeous thing, and put it on! You'll positively want to hug me for it—or else you'll want to make another and send it to me for my birthday present. No, I don't have a birthday soon, but I can always do with one!

• • • •

An awful lot of little neckties have died to make "cravat cloth" afternoon dresses for smart wear. And even if we can't help feeling sorry for the little neckties of dotted navy blue that went to make this Doeuillet-Doucet model, we're secretly longing to own one like it, and have an adorable pique blouse like this one I have sketched in the corner to go with it.

Remember I told you that incrustation of fine pleating is so-o-o fashionable? You can see for yourself!

• • • •

Lest you think that beaded things for evening wear are quite, quite, positively and absolutely demode, be informed that none other than Molyneux shows beaded evening dresses! But, and this is the point, they are beaded so very, very discreetly—just a little soft discreet handful of glitter here and there and all over, that they are indeed a far cry from the beaded evening gown of yesteryear.

We'er sure you'll enjoy the Dare weekly fashion letter. Look for it each Sunday in the big Sunday Post.

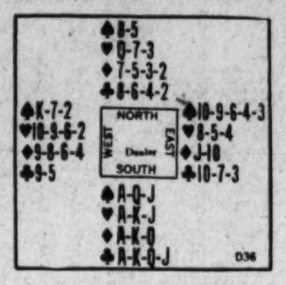
WORK ON BRIDGE



CONTRACT BRIDGE.

I am describing today an unusual situation which came up recently in a deal in Contract. The cards were distributed as follows:

South with a count of 34, only three less than the maximum, bid six No Trumps. Of course, it was possible that he would take only eleven tricks. That would be all he would win if a Diamond or Clubs was led and North failed to render any assistance whatever. Should the opening lead happen to be a Heart, South's hand would yield a slam even if North's highest card were a Five.

A count of 34 is the conservative minimum for an initial bid of six No Trumps; but an expert would be able to take a chance with many hands counting 33. The six-bid on a 33 count is justified at times because there are many 33 hands that will produce a slam when aided by nothing better than a Queen or Jack in partner's hand; and partner would not jump a bid of five No Trumps to six unless he had a King or the equivalent.

When the above hand was played, West's opening lead was a Heart; but Declarer's small slam was assured no matter what West led, as North had the Queen of Hearts. One Spade was all that he had to lose and he could have led the Ace and then the Queen of Spades, conceding one Spade trick to the adversaries and thus cinching his slam contract.

It happened, however, that the Declarer in this particular hand was a bit grasping and risked his contract, his game and his small slam premium trying for an extra trick worth 50 points. He won the first trick in the South hand with the Heart Ace and led three Diamonds, hoping that the adverse Diamonds would be evenly divided and that a thirteener would be set up in dummy on which South could discard the Jack of Spades. Then dummy would lead a Spade and South would finesse; and this would produce thirteen tricks if East held the King.

But when East refused the third Diamond, West was left with command of that suit; as West also had the Spade King, and as Declarer finessed the Spade instead of eliminating and placing the lead, the adversaries made a Spade and a Diamond and Declarer was set. A sad ending for one of the biggest hands ever held.

GOOD NEWS, BRIDGERS.

We are pleased to announce we can now renew the offer of Milton C. Work's great Contract and Auction booklet entitled "THE PLAYING PROBLEMS." Bridgers who received copies from previous offers are most enthusiastic over it.

"PLAYING PROBLEMS" presents eighteen hands, the complete auction and contract bidding for each hand with reasons for each bid, the answers to every question and the reason for each answer in complete detail.

"PLAYING PROBLEMS," which will be of much greater value to the auction and contract player than many high-priced textbooks, is not for sale. It has been prepared exclusively for readers of this newspaper by special arrangement with Mr. Work. One copy will be mailed to you upon request if you send self-addressed stamped return envelope, together with 6 cents in stamps to defray part of the cost of printing and handling this 48-page booklet. Requests not complying with these conditions will be ignored.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

"Seeking Man's Favor."

WHEN woman in her present highly developed state does not know her own power, will she ever know it? Woman rules the world today in spite of herself, but she does not even know that she rules. Beautiful, intelligent, informed to a degree never before attained, she has less confidence in her powers than woman has ever had. Surely it should be part of a girl's education to understand her own importance, psychologically and biologically. When girls are made to understand the significance of their relation to the future there will be fewer of them asking "how far" they must go to be "popular."

Alice and Terry, whose letter is offered in evidence, represent the results of education that does not educate.

"We are two girls, 17, and second year high. We are not going to be old maids if we can help it, but we are beginning to wonder how far we must go to have a chance around here. The boys look all right, but there are only about three real decent ones in our whole crowd. The rest are fresh, rude and cheap. My mother says when she was 17 no girl would even look at such ignorant fellows. We had a party last night, about 20, and only four even bade mother good night after a lovely supper of sandwiches, coffee and ice cream served by mother. They just ate, yelled and got their things and went home in a bunch. The girls were lovely, told mother how much they enjoyed everything. But the fellows! Three of them never even asked me to dance, and one of the three is the fellow I love.

My girl friend and I are so disgusted we thought we would tell you so you could comfort or at least advise us. We have both petted and gone about as far as any girl should and just to escape being treated like we were at the party, ignored, although we two were giving it at my house. They just acted as if they paid admission or something. Mother says they are beneath our notice and to forget it, but Mrs. McDonald, how can you forget it when you have done things you just hated and then are treated like that?

"ALICE and TERRY."

And there you have Alice and Terry! Two girls who do not know that they were born to reign and not to serve; that they are important as no man ever could be, just because of their birthright of womanhood. It is quite true as their mothers state that a few years ago no society would have tolerated this type that today is invited about, uncouth barbarians.

If Alice and Terry would begin to ignore these atavistic creatures and concentrate upon developing their own personalities and their own charms, they would find themselves sought by better types, and no longer driven to such cheap and tawdry measures as "pettin'" some yelling baboon to gain his passing notice. What a commentary upon our "educational" system is the attitude of the present day high school girl toward men! We might still be back in the Stone Age!

What Today Means to You

"TAURUS."

IF April 25 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 5:30 a. m. to 7 a. m., from 1:30 p. m. to 3 p. m., and from 7 p. m. to 8 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m., and from 10 p. m. to 11 p. m.

The astrological packet for this date is a good one and contains happiness and success in those things which are earned through honest effort and wit. Tendency to pleasures and travel. Good socially.

The child born on this April 25 will be quick in thought and a determined worker. It will have no outstanding talents, but will be able to turn its hand to a number of things and do them well.

You have a most attractive character, one that fascinates, and commands both respect and admiration. Its chief charm probably lies in its absolute simplicity, naturalness and gentleness. Your strength lies in your honesty and sincerity, for you are as straight as a die and absolutely open and above board. You are exceedingly charitable about other people, and your tongue does not get you or others into trouble. There is nothing you loathe more than the necessity of having to say unpleasant things, but if they have to be said, you deliver them straight.

You are full of pluck, and it is not often that anything gets you down. You can see the funny side in most things and most people, including yourself. When duty calls, you do not hang back, but answer its demands to the best of your ability—and cheerfully. You shine most in some sphere of action, where you feel your responsibilities for others. You have organizing ability, and you can handle people with diplomacy, for you are not a hard taskmaster.

You have a great deal of sentiment, a high degree of loyalty, and are constant in your affections. You make an excellent companion—you know when to talk, and when to be quiet. The men born on this date are more robust in health than the women.

Successful people born April 25:

1. James S. W. Stranahan, financier.
2. William Deering, manufacturer.
3. Felix Morris, actor.
4. Thomas S. Clarke, sculptor and painter.
5. Edwin R. A. Seligman, political economist.
6. Princess Mary, of England.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

A CHILD'S FIRST FIVE YEARS.

(Children's Bureau, Department of Labor.)

First, there is no more important period in the life of the individual than the first five years. During this period many of the physical and mental defects which handicap the individual in adult life can be recognized, and it is during this period that they can be most easily understood and treated. Frequently this will prevent the personality from becoming twisted and distorted to the extent of rendering the individual unhappy and inefficient. But the very nature of things as they exist today the responsibility of child training must be assumed by parents, teachers, nurses and general practioners, and not by specialists. The psychiatrists and psychologists have a very important function to perform in presenting the knowledge at hand regarding mental hygiene in such a way that it can be utilized by various groups with whom the child comes in intimate contact. The problems of mental health are brought about frequently by undesirable factors in the environment and by physical defects, both of which can and should be recognized by intelligent laymen as soon as they appreciate their importance.

How to Keep Well

DIET AND THE TEETH.

THE discovery that the gums can be kept in good condition and the teeth can be prevented from decaying by eating an antiscorbutic diet each and every day has renewed interest in vitamin C. The latest and best book on the subject is that by Hess, but this work is more than ten years old. It needs to be revised because, meanwhile, new facts about the harm done by vitamin C deficiency have been discovered; new methods of proving the existence of mild scurvy have been worked out, and new procedures for measuring the vitamin C content of foods are being used.

The scientists now say that if the daily diet contains one pint of orange juice or its equivalent in vitamin C the teeth and gums will be kept in good condition. This fact as a basis is liable to be acepted. A long time ago the British naval authorities taught the world the advantage of requiring a basic antiscorbutic diet, and we are trained to follow directions on that point.

The new discoveries prove that the only requirement was too low, only about one-half what it should have been. At the present stage the teaching throws too much of a burden on orange juice. Vitamin C is widespread. Fresh fruits and vegetables, in fact, most fresh foods, contain it. It should be an easy matter to work out diets containing the vitamin C equivalent of one pint of orange juice and avoid the expense and monotony of the orange juice requirement. For that, experimentation is urgently needed. We know the quantity of vitamin C in only a few foods and this new rule is based on quantity as well as quality.

Dr. Hanke says tomato juice is equal in value to orange juice, but children will not drink a pint a day of it. A good plan is to use as much tomato juice as they will take, and make up the difference with something else.

Dr. Eddy's experiments indicate that bananas are valable sources of vitamin C. One hundred and fifty grams of banana a day will protect the teeth of a 10-ounce guinea pig. A man weighing 150 pounds should require about 240 times as much banana as a 10-ounce guinea pig. In sufficient quantity, banana is as good as orange juice. If a person will not eat the required amount he should have a mixed diet, bringing up the quantity of vitamin C to the required level. Lettuce is rich in vitamin C, but how much is needed has not been worked out. We need to know the quantities supplied by lettuce, cabbage, sauerkraut, apples, cider, grapefruit and many other appealing foods. Especially do we need this information as spring vegetables and fruits come into market. We should also know the requirements per pound of weight of children compared with that of adults.

PROFITS ARE TAKEN; STOCK MARKET SAGS

List Heavy Although Pools Send Some Favorites to High Levels.

R. K. O. HITS NEW PEAK

New York, April 24 (A.P.).—An increasing inclination to take profits on advances, together with a revival of large-scale bear selling, turned the stock market conspicuously heavy before the close of today's session, although pools made powerful efforts to retain control of the price movement and succeeded in sending some of their favorites among the amusement and specialty shares to new high levels. Trading was active, although sales of 5,232,640 shares fell about 230,000 short of yesterday. The index of 90 leading stocks showed a net loss of 1.4 points.

For the most part, the market moved independently of the day's news, which contained little in the way of surprises. A reduction in Chile Copper's annual dividend from $3.50 to $3, the first such reduction since the slash in red metal prices, and reports of reduced first quarter earnings for such companies as A. M Byers, National Cash Register and Electric Auto Lite probably contributed to the selling, although these were in keeping with expectations.

A few first quarter statements showed gains over the like period of last year, however, notably those of Air Reduction and Kraft Phenix. First quarter net of $2.60 a share for Bethlehem, announced after the close, bore out the more optimistic forecasts.

Sentiment More Bearish.

Speculative sentiment was increasingly bearish, and most commission houses advised their customers that the best that can be looked for until the current selling movement definitely subsides is an irregular market. It was pointed out, however, that increasingly heavy short selling is rapidly improving the market's technical position.

The weekly brokerage figures, published after the close, were not encouraging. Loans increased $92,000,000 in a trading week in which the price index of 90 leading stocks lost about 2 points, tending to indicate that stock has been passing from strong to weak hands. Credit conditions were unchanged, with call loans again ranging from 3 to 3½ per cent.

The Federal Reserve condition statements indicated only that credit put out to stabilize conditions during the midmonth settlement period had been withdrawn.

Radio Strong Feature.

Radio was again a strong feature, rising 3½ points to a new 1930 high at 69¾, while Radio-Keith mounted about 2 to a record for all time at 50, but about half these gains were lost before the close. Pathe and Shubert sold up about 3 and 6 points in response to rumors that they would be taken over by Radio-Keith and Warner Bros., respectively. Diamond Match shot up 10 points to another peak level at 237, making a gain of nearly 100 points this year, and Worthington Pump and Vanadium, normally fast movers, were sent up a few points.

J. I. Case reached 15 points, and closed off 10. Allied Chemical lost 7, and American Water Works, Byers, Canada Dry, Colorado Fuel, du Pont, Eastman Kodak, Lambert, Marmon, Nash, McKeesport, Tinplate, United Aircraft, Union Carbide and Western Union lost 2 to 5 points.

Motors were under pronounced pressure, Studebaker and Hudson selling at new lows for the year. Gillette, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Julius Kayser and National Cash Register also touched new 1930 lows.

Commodities were irregular. Wheat lost ⅝ to ¾ of a cent reflecting bearish weather, and corn lost ¼ to ½ cent. Cotton futures advanced sharply in short covering, only to react later, and close $1 a bale higher to 25 cents lower.

Foreign exchanges were steady to firm, with Sterling Cables moving up ⅛ to $4.86 7-16.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, April 24 (A.P.).—Indications that Government-sponsored agencies were selling wheat on price bulges led to a maximum setback of 2⅞ cents a bushel at one time today.

Generally favorable crop reports from the Northwest, as well as forecasts of showers in drought district of Southwest, counted also as a bearish influence. Meanwhile estimates were current that the Grain Stabilization Corporation now possesses ownership of as much as 50,000,000 bushels of wheat and Secretary of Agriculture Hyde was quoted as acknowledging that the Federal Farm Board had made a mistake in following economists' figures on world supply and demand.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, 7/8 cents to 1⅛ cents a bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed ¼ to ⅝ cent off, oats ⅛ to ¼ cent lower and provisions unchanged to 10 cents drop.

At first the wheat market here had an upward trend, responsive to the fact that Liverpool quotations were higher than looked for and because of large North American export business in the last few days. However, a notable increase of selling orders quickly changed the course of values here, with considerable pressure coming both from the Northwest and Southwest. Subsequent downturns were in the face of fresh export business in North American wheat totaling 1,000,000 bushels, half of it from the United States.

Wheat had some recovery in the final hour as compared with the day's bottom figures. The chief reason apparent was profit-taking purchases for previous speculative sellers. A stimulating circumstance, however, was that exporters were said to have cleaned up practically all the available stocks of wheat at the Atlantic seaboard. On the other hand, more or less trade uncertainty continued based on a statement credited to Secretary Hyde that the Federal Farm Board has not had any intention of pegging prices of farm products. Liverpool price advances today were ascribed largely to smallness of shipments by Argentina and Australia as well.

Corn and oats sympathized with downturns in wheat values. Besides, corn offerings from the country were somewhat larger.

IRREGULARITY HITS BONDS IN NEW YORK

Many Rails Dip Slightly as Utilities and Industrials Remain Quiet.

CHILEANS MOST ACTIVE

New York, April 24 (A.P.).—Irregularity prevailed in listed bond trading again today. Many of the prime rails found that the easiest course was downward, although declines generally were limited to about a quarter of a point. United States Governments firmed in dull trading, while utilities and industrials, in small demand, remained quiet.

Call money followed its familiar path, from 4 per cent to 8½. Term loans were very dull, but some dealers made slight reductions in the longer maturities.

Amusement bonds were popular. Pathe Exchange 7s, climbed to 75, 5 points above the previous high, closing 2 points below the top for a net improvement of 3¾. Shubert Theaters 6s, touched 68, a new peak, finishing at 67, or 3 points above the Wednesday final. General Theaters 6s, and Loew's 6s, traded in a narrower range and showed small variations on the day.

Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron convertible pushed into new high ground for the second successive day, reaching 107¾. The last quotation was 106, a half point net rise. American Telephone 4½s, were comparatively dull, for the turnover fell below $1,000,000 par value and the debentures sold off half a point net. Atchison 4½s, were heavy, dropping 4 points. New Haven 6s, lost 1.

The most active listings of the day were the Chile 6s, whose prices were reflective of the offering figure of 91½ on the new $25,000,000 issue. The foreign group in general steadied somewhat, although interest in the more stable obligations was at a low ebb.

Most of the rails were extremely dull. There was a flurry in Erie Improvement 5s, when issued, but the bonds failed to move. New York Central 4s, Pennsylvania Gold 5s, Southern Pacific refunding 4s, and Southern Railway general 4s, averaged slightly off. Union Pacific first 4s hardened.

Foreign sugars improved, but the buying was of odd lot proportions.

New financing scheduled for tomorrow includes a 22,000,000 issue of McKesson & Robbins 20-year convertible 5½s, priced at 96.

Bethlehem Net Income Increases for Period

New York, April 24 (A.P.).—Net income of $10,077,486 for the first quarter of 1930, surpassing that of both the previous quarter and the first three months of 1929, was reported today by the Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

The earnings compared with $10,046,197 for the closing quarter of 1929, and $9,045,590 in the initial quarter of that year. The earnings for the first 1930 quarter were equal to $2.60 a common share as compared with $2.59 in the previous quarter. Earnings for the first quarter of 1929 were $4.05 a share on a smaller capitalization.

New Type of Diner Put in Service.

For the first time in history a railroad car has its weather "made to order" in regular train service, when, after a week of scientific "refinements" by the mechanical and electrical engineers, the air-cooled, air-cleaned colonial dining car Martha Washington, which was tested out last week, became part of the train Columbian of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad between Washington and New York, beginning Wednesday.

Not only can the temperature and humidity in the car be controlled at all seasons of the year, especially in hot weather, but the air can also be kept free of soot, smoke and cinders.

Matt C. Smith, Eastern supervisor of Fidelity Investment Association, is in Washington this week to inspect the new quarters of the association, which are in the Shoreham Building. He will also confer with the local directors of the association who are Howard Sutherland, Alien Property Custodian; John Marshall, of Covington, Burlin & Rublee, formerly Assistant Attorney General of the United States, and Robert V. Fleming, president of the Riggs National Bank, who took the place on the board of late Secretary of War Good.

Resources of the association have gained more than $1,000,000 since the first of the year. On January 1 they had reached $20,151,567 and on March 31 they had passed $21,240,000.

WASHINGTON: FRIDAY, APRIL 25, 1930. 15

TESTS FACE NATS AS MACKS OPEN INVASION TODAY

Pegler

NEW YORK, April 24.—This is the eve of the Pennsylvania relay carnival at Philadelphia and I assume that Mr. Joe Labrum, the director of public relations at the university, has been writing interesting releases for the papers again about a field of some 3,000-odd athletes who will face the starters.

Mr. Labrum is fond of large numbers, as befits a director of public relations; and I would not go so far as to suggest that there is a catch in the publicity, although it might be closer to the reality to say that some 2,000-odd of the 3,000-odd athletes are little spindly-legged lads from the grammar schools around Philadelphia enjoying their first glorious moments of athletic drama in the presence of paying customers.

Run for Glory of Good Old 6-B.

Of course, there will be a lot of college athletes, including some with temporarily famous names and a stimulating procession of colts from the prep schools including some whose names will be set in 36-point type across the tops of the sport pages many times before they finish their athletic careers in college four or five or six years hence. But as I recall these Penn relays, having seen a long succession of them, the majority of the 3,000-odd athletics are juveniles, young enough to forget which is the right way of the track sometimes or fall down heroically in the mud like dying football martyrs sometimes, for the glory of good old grade 6-B.

They come onto the track in shoals as the traffic managers of the relay carnival run off the long succession of relays in bang-bang succession. A gun pops somewhere off the rim of the field and away they go, in common two-piece summer underwear or old swimming suits with moth holes glaring pink where their hides show through, splashing through the puddles, for the weather is always awful at the relay carnival, and throwing their arms and legs in wild motions.

Another Gun Pops, Another Relay Starts.

One trips over the toes of his soggy canvas sneakers—his big brother's sneakers, maybe—and flops in a black puddle, piling up two or three more. They get up, fish their batons out of the muck and dash on again to the place where the relay awaits them, fidgeting and screaming "Come awn, Butch!" As they hand over the batons they stagger against the wall or into the infield, limp and floppety, like Fred Stone in his scarecrow number, or dive into the mud again, done up. Meanwhile, another batch of them are falling in on the far side of the track for the next relay and another gun pops, starting another relay race before the announcers get around to saying which team won the last one.

There isn't much reward for these relay athletes. The members of the winning teams get some trifling mementoes to sustain their ambition; but probably the real prize is a clipping from the Philadelphia papers stating that such-and-such a schoolboy race was won by the team from the seventh grade of the William Penn Public School and giving the names, but spelling them altogether wrong. There must be thousands of those newspaper items, years old now, stuffed away in the household catchalls of those rows of red-brick flat houses which line so many of the Philadelphia streets with Peeping Tom mirrors set at the front windows so that the inmates may spot the installment collector on the stoop.

One sees those Peeping Tom things, the original of the periscope, in no other city, although their appeal should be universal.

They Are Amateurs of Purest Motives.

These young athletes are guilty of no style, no polish. They run all over the track and their little wishbones heave and fall in agony, especially if they are running way behind. But they are amateurs of the purest motives and one always knows that they are out yonder in the rain—for it always rains on relay days—running for a little screaming acclaim from the class sitting in the stands and the glory of old 6-B.

I hope I don't seem to be running down the show they give at the Pennsylvania relay carnival for it is the most colorful pageant of sport on the calendar, and the more colorful of recent years since the college and prep school teams went in for showy uniforms. It was a happy idea to equip the boys with flannel zephyr suits done in their respective college colors, with the cuffs and piping and shoulder straps picked out in bright contrasting shades.

They used to wear common pants and skin them off with some show of embrassed modesty, hiding behind one another, for there seems to be something delicate about a young

Hunter, Lott Defeated in Upsets

Cup Veteran Loses to Van Ryn in Mason-Dixon Play.

Allison Goes to Finals by Downing Lott in Five Sets.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., April 24 (A.P.).—Francis T. Hunter, of New Rochelle, and George M. Lott, jr., of Chicago, Davis Cup stars, saw their hopes of gaining permanent possession of the Plaza Bowl, emblematic of the Mason and Dixon tennis championship, crushed this afternoon in the singles semifinals round of the tournament.

They were defeated by the youthful Davis Cup doubles combination of John Van Ryn, of South Orange, N. J., and Wilmer Allison, jr., of Austin, Tex. Both Hunter and Lott hold two legs on the trophy. Van Ryn defeated Hunter in the first contest, 6—2, 4—6, 6—2, 2—6, 6—4. In the other semifinal contest, Lott, after winning the first two sets, lost to Allison, 4—6, 6—8, 6—3, 6—3, 6—4.

Hunter-Van Ryn Provide Drama.

The drama of the day's play was furnished in the Hunter-Van Ryn contest. Van Ryn started swiftly, and ran out the first set at 62 by scoring a remarkable series of aces on his brilliant service. Hunter recovered in the second set and for the first time this season commenced to score with his terrific forehand. He broke through Van Ryn's service twice with thundering placements off Van Ryn's serve. Van Ryn failed to weaken, however, and took the third set at 6—2, and they went to the locker room with Hunter apparently badly defeated.

The same gameness and tenacity of spirit which has won for Hunter in other years over famous internationalists with a much finer game showed itself on their return to the courts. With his back to the wall he drove shot after shot to the corners of the court that Van Ryn was unable to handle. But Hunter had given his best, however, in the fiercely contested sets, and was no longer able to stave off defeat.

Allison on Defense At Start.

The Lott-Allison contest was no less thrilling than the other match. Lott flashed brilliantly behind a powerful service with which he was scoring repeatedly early in the match to win the first two sets with comparative ease. This success enabled him to go to the net for repeated placements while Allison was playing defensively on the base line.

In the third set Lott lessened his speed noticeably, and he went to the clubhouse confidently after allowing Allison to take the third set at 6-3.

The start of the fourth set saw an inspired Allison, however, and instead of carrying the fight, Lott found himself frequently deep in the back court, his confidence shaken, attempting to save points from the flashing racquet of an unerring opponent. Both played beautiful tennis in every other respect and gave the gallery thrill after thrill as they made killing placements.

Professional Offer Declined by De Mar

Montreal, April 24 (A.P.).—Clarence De Mar, 41-year-old Melrose, Mass., runner, who won the Boston Marathon last Saturday for the seventh time, has declined an offer from Armand Vincent, local sports promoter, to turn professional.

De Mar has hopes of entering the Olympic Marathon at Los Angeles in 1932, it was indicated. He is employed as a teacher in a Keene, N. H., normal school.

Pick of U. S. and British Track Stars Will Clash

Chicago, April 24 (A.P.).—The pick of the British Empire's track and field stars, and an American team of Olympic caliber will meet in international competition on Soldiers Field, the night of August 27.

The meet was obtained for Chicago by Avery Brundage, president of the National A. A. U., against the bidding of Boston, New York and Philadelphia, and will be Chicago's first night track and field meet.

Fifty-five members of the British Team, including stars from Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and Ireland, will come to Chicago from Hamilton, Ont., where the empire games will be held August 16 to 23. The National A. A. U. games will be decided at Pittsburgh August 21, and winners will be held together to make a powerful team to oppose the invaders.

Decathlon at Penn, Feature of Carnival Today, to Be Abandoned as Annual Event

All-Around Test to Be Held Only in Olympic Years.

PHILADELPHIA, April 24 (A.P.).—The decathlon, which has been a feature of the first day of the annual two-day relay carnival of the University of Pennsylvania, will not be held again after tomorrow until 1932, the year of the Olympic games, Lawson Robertson, coach of the Pennsylvania track teams, announced today. It will be held every four years thereafter in connection with the Pennsylvania relays.

The decathlon will start at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning when ten entrants for the all-round championship will toe the mark in the 100-meter dash. Five of the events will be run off in the forenoon and the remaining five in the afternoon. Last year the event was spread over two days.

Defends Title. Berlinger, of Penn,

"Barney" Berlinger, of Pennsylvania, last year's winner, will defend his title. Others entered include Robert Todd, of Indiana, who finished third last year; Clarion Cash, Georgetown, who won fourth place in 1929; Everett Utterback, Pittsburgh, fifth last year; George Wilczewski, Boston College, and Lewellyn Parlette, Georgetown.

Boston College, Bowdoin, Hamilton Institute and several Pennsylvania athletes drilled today. Leo Lermond, who runs three-quarters of a mile tomorrow and 1 mile on Saturday against Ray Conger, was on the field, but he did not work out.

More than 3,000 athletes from more than 500 institutions are entered in the meet.

George Simpson, the Ohio State speedster, who runs in the 100-yard special on Saturday, will compete twice tomorrow.

SCHOLASTIC SPORTS PROGRAM FOR WEEK

TODAY.

Business vs. Devitt, at Monument Lot.

Eastern vs. Maryland Freshmen (track) at College Park.

Central, Tech and Eastern in Penn relays at Philadelphia.

TOMORROW.

Central vs. Princeton Freshmen, at Princeton, N. J.

Central, Tech and Eastern, in Penn relays, at Philadelphia.

St. Alban's vs. Forest Park High, at St. Alban's.

Emerson vs. Navy Plebes, at Annapolis.

Simpson to Run on Two Ohio Quartets in Races Today.

He will run on two Ohio State sprint relay teams. Last year Simpson won the 100 yards in 9 6-10 seconds which was a world's record until he did 9 4-10 a few weeks later.

A feature of the program tomorrow will be the 3,000-meter steeplechase. There are 31 runners entered in this event. It will be run just inside the cinderpath, but the way will be strewn with obstacles and water jumps.

Fast College Teams In Sprint Medley.

There are also fast teams in the sprint medley relay race tomorrow, such as Georgetown, Syracuse, Chicago and Ohio State.

Coach Robertson's reason for dropping the decathlon all around special feature is that competition was lacking, especially in years between the Olympic games.

"There does not seem to be enough competition in the decathlon in between Olympic years," he said. "Pennsylvania will hold the event in 1932 and every Olympic year after that in order to give the athletes in this country a chance to receive competition before the international games."

Moe Berg, White Sox, Out With Knee Injury

Chicago, April 24 (A.P.).—Moe Berg, White Sox catcher, will be forced out of the line-up for two more weeks, and probably a month, because of an injured right knee.

An examination today revealed the injury, suffered in an exhibition game three weeks ago, was more serious than believed. The ligaments below the knee were badly ruptured.

LIONELS TO MEET.

An important meeeting of the Lionel Seniors is booked for tonight atFisher's Hall in Georgetown at 8:15 o'clock. Sunday the Lionels meet the Wolverines.

Bobby Jones Leaves On Long Trip Today

Atlanta, Ga., April 24 (A.P.).—Bobby Jones, national open champion and captain of the American Walker Cup Team this year, is to leave here at noon tomorrow by train on the first link of his long trip to England and participation in tournaments there.

Bobby, who will be accompanied by Mrs. Jones, plans to stop off in Washington for a couple of days before continuing Monday to New York, where he will join the other members of the cup squad.

Before returning home Jones will have played in the three and probably four tournaments of international prominence, including the Walker Cup. He plans to lead the American players in their defense of the Walker Cup at Sandwich, England, on May 15 and 16. Shortly afterward he will enter the British amateur championship—the only major title he had not captured—at St. Andrews. Play in the British open at Hoylake in June will mark his last tournament appearance in England, but he may participate in the German open before returning to this country to defend his open national title at Minneapolis.

Johnston Practices On U. S. Amateur Links

Philadelphia, April 24 (A.P.).—Harrison R. (Jimmy) Johnston, of St. Paul, Minn., who will defend his national amateur golf championship at Merion, Pa., starting September 25, tested the east course of the Merion Cricket Club there today in a practice round.

Johnston played around in a threesome with Redman E. Griscom and Dr. Arthur E. Billings, of Merion. It was Johnston's first opportunity to look over the links where his title will be up for competition. In today's practice his driving was not unusually lengthy, but was consistently straight despite high winds. No scores were announced.

WOLVERINES PLAY TWO.

Detroit Drops 5th Game In Row

Browns Hit 3 Hurlers for 7 Runs in 6th to Win, 12-4.

Homers by McManus, Gehringer Score All Tiger Runs.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 24 (A.P.).—The combination of a powerful batting attack, which reached its height in the sixth inning, and some fine relief pitching by Kimsey gave the St. Louis Browns a 12-to-4 victory over the Detroit Tigers today in the only American League game that survived the cold weather.

It was the third straight victory for the Browns and the fifth straight defeat of the Tigers. Kimsey went to the mound after Herman Holshauser had been nicked for home runs by Gehringer and McManus to send the Tigers off to a 4-1 lead. He turned Detroit back without a hit in four innings.

After five innings of failure the Browns fell on Hogsett in the sixth and continued against Carroll and Sullivan for a seven-run rally. They got four more off Phil Page in the eighth. Fred Schulte had a perfect day, with three hits in three times at bat, driving in four runs.

Cardinals Rout Cubs, 9-2; Fisher Drives in 4 Runs

Chicago, April 24 (A.P.).—George Fisher, young St. Louis outfielder, continued his sensational hitting streak today and led the Cardinals to a 9 to 2 victory over the Chicago Cubs in the odd game of the seven the teams have played this season. Only about 3,000 chilly fans watched the one National League game of the day.

Fisher hit two doubles and a single in three official trips to the plate and sacrificed on one other occasion, driving in four of the Cards' runs. One of his doubles cleared the loaded bases to give the ards the lead.

In the seventh St. Louis scored five runs to make the victory safe. Another double let Fisher score the first ardinal tally

Sheriff Fred Blake was driven from the mound in the seventh and was charged with his first defeat of the season. Moss, Osborn and Nelson followed him Sylvester Johnson was nicked for nine hits, but kept them scattered.

Mills Denies G.U. Sought Students Of Notre Dame

South Bend, Ind., April 24 (A.P.).—The South Bend Tribune today said that reports are current here that football coaches from Georgetown University, Washington, D. C., have made two visits to Notre Dame University this year with a view to inducing several Notre Dame freshmen to enroll at Georgetown.

The first alleged visit of a Georgetown coach for this purpose is reported to have been made last January, while the second visit was said to have been made within the last two weeks.

Knute Rockne, Notre Dame athletic director, now ill in a Mayo Hospital at Rochester, Minn., was instrumental in obtaining coaching positions for some members of the Georgetown athletic staff.

Coach "Red" Smith of the Georgetown Baseball Team, speaking for Tom Mills, athletic head, who is in New York, said there was no desire on the part of Georgetown to enlist the services of Notre Dame students.

Both Smith and Mills are former members of the Notre Dame coaching staff. Mills is patterning Georgetown football tactics after those of his former chief, Knute Rockne.

Mississippi Demands Athletic Head Resign

Birmingham, Ala., April 24 (A.P.).—Dave Birmingham, president, today announced that the Birmingham Alumni Association of Mississippi A. and M. College at Starksville, Miss., had adopted resolutions asking W. D. Chadwick, athletic director, to resign.

Action of the club, Birmingham said, followed a similar movement of other alumni organizations.

The resolution declared that the college is "rapidly sinking into athletic oblivion" under the administration of Chadwick, who has been connected with the institution for two decades, either as coach or athletic director.

Brown Slated To Oppose Athletics

Immediate Games to Reveal Power of Johnson's Club.

Cold Again Prevents Renewal of Series With Red Sox.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

ALTHOUGH Manager Walter Johnson's Nationals have won five of the seven games played, four of these contests have been against the Boston Red Sox, annual cellar champions, so that fans are still wondering just how strong the Washington team really is. The answer should be learned within the next month when the Nats entertain every entrant in the American League, with the Athletics and Red Sox due for two visits.

A second game with the Beaneaters was called on account of cold weather yesterday, meaning that one doubleheader will be added to the Nats' test when Wagner brings his men back May 21 to 24, inclusive. May 23 is an open date, and it will be used, thus saving a second twin bill.

On what they have shown to date, there is no doubt but what the world's champion Athletics again appear to be the class of the league. Last season they obtained the bulk of their big early season lead by trouncing the Nationals practically every time the two teams met, ending up with a record of sixteen beatings administered to Johnson's men in twenty starts.

A's Jumped on Thomas.

In Philadelphia last Saturday the A's jumped on Myles Thomas and the Nats for a 9-to-0 victory, every indication being that they were picking up where they left off in 1929. However, the Nats came back with an impressive 6-to-3 victory Monday, after spotting the Macks to a two-run lead, and the two start from scratch in the three-game series which opens in the Griffith Stadium this afternoon. It will be the first "ladies' day" of the season.

Manager Johnson has decided that the best way to develop his pitching staff is to keep those who have shown they are ready at top form and to let the others come along as best they can. Consequently, he has decided to turn his box assignment over to Lloyd Brown this afternoon, with Irving Hadley probably getting the call tomorrow. Both of these youngsters have gone the route and turned in victories in both of their previous starts.

Brown Faces Test In Today's Game.

Brown opened the season in Boston last week by holding the Red Sox to three scattered hits and then came back with a well-earned victory over the Yankees last Sunday, in which he allowed eight hits. If he can hold the heavy-hitting Mackmen in check this afternoon, he will remove any doubt as to whether or not he finally has "arrived."

Losing so many opportunities to play is making it difficult for Johnson to keep his men on edge. Last week, one game was rained out in Boston and another was frozen off the card in Philadelphia. Since the team returned home this week, two more idle days have been necessary because of frigid breezes. The Nats did not work out on Tuesday, for fear of several pulling up with bad colds, but Johnson had them on the job yesterday morning, when all of the pitchers took a shift on the mound, giving the batters some needed stick practice.

Following the Philadelphia series, which ends with a Sabbath game, the Nationals will entertain the Yankees in a three-game set and then will open up against the West, with the invaders appearing in this order: St. Louis, Detroit, Chicago and Cleveland. After this latter series with the Tribe, the Nats jump to Philadelphia for a double-header on May 16, and then the Mackmen and Red Sox return here to end the Nats' home stay.

Other Clubs Have Added Power.

Naturally, how the Nats finish depends largely upon the extent that the other teams in the league either have slipped or improved. In addi-

FINITA OUTRUNS MY SIS BY HEAD IN GRAW FEATURE

Widener Filly Triumphs in Drive

Eaby Also Wins With Shield, Phillip, Riding 3 Winners.

Belli Casus Defeats Princess Henry by Head in Opener.

By J. B. SNODGRASS
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 24.—George D. Widener's Finita, 3-year-old dark daughter of St. James—Last Straw, proved her class today before 12,000 fans by winning the Princess Handicap, the day's 6-furlong feature, by a head from William F. Scheid's My Sis. The Rancocas Stable's Zida was a head farther back.

My Sis outran the field of seven from the break. Halfway down the back lane she was joined by Young Kitty. They set a dizzy clip around the turns.

In the meantime Eaby was moving up fast with Finita, while Zida, who had been left standing in the stalls, was running very fast, although back in last position.

Finita circled her field at the far turn to be second at the turn into the home stretch, while Zida, who was running very swiftly along the inside rail, had worked her way into third place at this point.

At the eighth pole My Sis had a head over Finita, with Zida three-quarters of a length farther away.

The fans, who had turned the contest over to My Sis and Finita, then became fearful as Zida charged madly along the rail, but the short distance to the wire, although enabling Finita to win by a head, kept Zida two heads away from the top money. My Sis, due to Workman's energetic booting, was able to save the place from Zida.

The Rancocas Stable's Miss ran a powerful race and with an equal break in luck would certainly have taken down the purse instead of having to be satisfied with third money.

My Scoop Repeats In Fifth Race.

Samuel Ross, of Washington, who put My Scoop over several days ago at odds of $48.30, came right back to win the fifth, a mile and 70 yards affair, this time taking down $13.40 for every $2 invested.

Frank C. Coltiletti, who had the mount, restrained Mr. Scoop back of the pace made by Blue John, Calome and Naylor until straightened out in the stretch, where he made his bid to get up in the last 70 yards to win by a half length from Calome. Baked Apple was third.

J. Eaby, contract rider for G. W. Wiedener, of Philadelphia, registered a trio of victories today. He now is five winning mounts back of Sonny Workman in the race for the gold stop watch offered to the leading winning rider here. Workman, who hails from Washington, has registered thirteen wins to date.

Belli Casus Scores For Form Players.

The form players installed Edward Kane's Belli Casus as the favorite in the opener and the Baltimore-owned colt justified that confidence by leading home J. C. Cremen's Princess Henry, a long shot, with H. P. Whitney's Angry third.

When the field of twelve entered the stall gates, Angry lunged twice and a nose rope had to be placed on him before he would stand quiet enough to permit a start. At the break, Coltiletti rushed Gunman on top and he led until the turn for home, where Belli Casus took command to win handily. Angry came from far back and weaving his way through the field in the home lane, was up in time to take third money, but could not get close to Belli Casus and Princess Henry, the latter a 105-to-1 shot.

Eaby Gets Shield Home For Widener.

George D. Widener, who scored four victories here earlier in the week, took down the purse in the four and one-half furlongs of the second, when J. Eaby drove Shield home ahead of fourteen other 2-year-olds. When the field broke Shield rushed to the top, with Prince Zeus, a field horse, a length back. They raced as named until the turn for home where Shield went into a long lead to win as his rider pleased. Zebra closed gamely in the stretch to outlast Prince Zeus for the place.

Eaby Repeats With Phillip in Third.

W. E. Caskey, jr., sprung a good thing on the boys in the third race when he brought Phillip over from Pimlico today to take down the Pathfinder, the day's secondary feature, at six furlongs.

J. Eaby, who had the mount, kept Phillip right on top of the early pace made by H. P. Whitney's Flimsy. At the turn for home, Eaby sent Phillip on top and the 3-year-old son of Peter Pan—Washoe Belle rushed into a four-length lead and thus enabled Eaby to chalk up his seventh victory of the meeting. Flimsy easily saved the place from E. K. Bryson's Jimmy Moran.

Sonny Workman and Prickly Heat proved a formidable combination in the last race, the China Cock gelding running away with the mile and one-eighth contest. Prickly heat broke on top, but Workman held the gelding under restraint until the turn into the stretch, where Prickly Heat took the lead and was drawing far away at the end. The margin of victory was three lengths. Fair Albert came fast to beat out Blue Darter for second money. The latter set a swift pace on the back stretch, but had little left when the real test came.

PRINCESS HENRY, slow to begin and going gamely under urging, improved her position on the back stretch, swung to the outside in the final drive and closed stoutly. ANGRY, blocked directly after the break, was allowed to settle in his stride, fought his way between horses through the stretch and finished fastest of all.

ZEBRA, hurried hard all the way, closed with good energy and outfinished PRINCE ZEUS. Latter, going forwardly and stoutly urged, weakened slightly when nearing the finish. WHILE AWAY	110	6	6	7	7	7	7	7	McGinnis	21.20

Two-dollar mutuels paid—PHILLIP, $25.80, $11.30, $3.00; FLIMSY, $4.10, $2.40; JIMMY MORAN, $2.20.

PHILLIP, moving into a short lead in the early stages under slight restraint, was shaken up when approaching stretch and thereafter drew out into a long lead to win with speed to spare. FLIMSY broke slowly, secured racing room on the inside to reach contention, made a game effort at the turn, but was held safe in the final drive. JIMMY MORAN broke fast, but lacked early speed, made up ground slowly after a quarter mile, but could not threaten the first two. FORTUATE YOUTH tired.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200. The Princess Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward, fillies and mares. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:11. Off at 4:16. Winner, G. D. Widener's b. f. (3), by St. James—Last Straw. Trained by W. F. Mulholland. Value to winner, $1,000; second, $300; third, $150; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:47 2-5, 1:13 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FINITA, $9.60, $4.50, $3.60; MY SIS, $6.10, $4.70; ZIDA, $9.90.

FINITA, placed within striking distance of the leaders, responded to severe punishment when the final drive came and finished determinedly on the outside of the leaders, and was up in the last twenty yards. MY SIS began fast, set a rapid pace, shook off persistent bids from YOUNG KITTY and held on resolutely. ZIDA, unable to keep up in early contention, slipped through on the inside at the stretch turn and finished full of run. ON HER TOES, in trouble for the first half mile, secured racing room in the stretch run and finished with good speed.

FIFTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:46. Off at 4:47. Winner, Samuel Ross' ch. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MY SCOOP, $13.40, $6.40, $4.60; CALOME, $7.90, 4.70; BAKED APPLE, $4.70.

MY SCOOP, a slow beginner and forced to race wide to secure racing room, reached his field steadily after passing the half-mile pole, continued with good courage under a stout drive, wore CALOME down to get up right at the finish. CALOME, in early striking distance of JOE JOHN when ready, gained a good lead, but weakened in the last sixteenth. BAKED APPLE, always a factor and going gamely throughout, lasted to outstay NAYLOR. Latter offered good contention until reaching the home stretch, where he hung under a drive. FLASHING was never troublesome.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:17. Off at 5:21. Winner, C. Gobdel's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—VOWED VENGEANCE, $5.10, $3.30, $2.90; MULATTO, $7.50, $5.70; ERA, $6.20.

SOMERSET BEN VENGEANCE outran his field to the first turn, went into a winning lead when midway of the back stretch, was saved until entering the home stretch, placed to severe pressure and withstood the rush of MULATTO. Latter was reserved until the last three furlongs, came stoutly in the final issue and was moving to the winner steadily. ERA, compared for the first six furlongs, closed full of run.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 5:50. Off at 5:50. Winner, P. B. Codd's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—PRICKLY HEAT, $3.50, $2.70, $2.30; FAIR ALBERT, $4.40, $3.10; BLUE DARTER, $3.00.

PRICKLY HEAT, assuming a brief lead at the first turn, was not hurried to keep pace with BLUE DARTER, when settled on the back stretch Workman waited until the far turn before challenging, regained command when reaching the home stretch and drew out at will thereafter. FAIR ALBERT, always in a forward position, made several efforts and held on well. BLUE DARTER, hurried to gain an early lead, had little left when collared. FOREST LORE was tiring during the final furlong.

Boots and Saddle's

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office.)

—Havre De Grace Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 24.—Seven eligibles for the $25,000 added Dixie Handicap, which will feature the opening day program at Pimlico next Monday, are among the eight horses named overnight to start in the Dixie Trial Purse here tomorrow. STRONGHEART is the only one in the Dixie Trial that isn't in Pimlico's big stake.

Tomorrow's feature will be decided over the mile and a furlong route and run as the fifth event. It will serve as a final conditioner for the Dixie Handicap candidates.

FEATURE RACE.

The Trial winner will not be penalized for Monday's stake, so you may rest assured every horse will be doing his best. DR. FREELAND'S excellent trials at Belmont Park before coming here were evidence that he is in great shape. He is nicely weighted in the Dixie Trial and there is a chance he may be returned the winner of the race.

INCEPTION ran a very good race to win the Philadelphia Handicap last Saturday. That effort was over a fast track, however. TORO is the class of the Dixie Trial field, but the McLean horses haven't been showing much speed in their races this spring. TORO was said to have pulled up sore after his last work here. He must pack 126 pounds and it is his first start of the year. BEACON HILL has only to race to his good trials to be a dangerous factor. DONNAY didn't run his race in the Philadelphia Handicap. He may show sudden improvement.

FIRST RACE—Two youngsters, SUMMER DAY and TOTEM, from the H. P. Whitney Stable, are listed to make their debuts in the opener. SUMMER DAY is a bay daughter of Chile and Maud Muller. TOTEM is a chestnut son of Broomstick and Indian Rose. We understand they are both very fsat and both have drawn favorable post positions.

SERGT. DONALDSON is held in high regard by the Glen Riddle Farm Stable. In fact, they say he is one of the best youngsters in the Samuel Riddle barn. He has a bad post position. HIAWAY has started and he gave fair promise.

SECOND RACE—FAIR BOB may be hard to beat in the second race, which will bring together a limit field of cheap platers to travel 6 furlongs. He was third to Malolo and Folamile at this track last out. Both MALOLO and FOLAMILE have won since that race and so has DREANA LEE and NAE BREEKS, two which finished back of Fair Bob. TORRENTIAL beat a large field of maiden 3-year-olds last Tuesday. She may be hard to beat tomorrow. George D. Widener evidently wants to make room for better horses in his stable. He may lose Torrential via the claiming route. SPORTING FOOL has been working in a manner that would suggest he is a fit horse. CHARLEY J. S. should hold the others safe if he starts.

THIRD RACE—MURKY CLOUD received a good tightener back of Her Grace the third day of the current meeting. Her Grace had condition on the H. P. Whitney filly that day. The daughter of Mad Hatter and Meadow Mist should be up in time to whip the 3-year-old fillies she meets in the Havre de Grace Elks Purse, third number, which is a 6-furlong dash. LOST AGNES also raced with Her Grace and Murky Cloud. She was no match for the last two named, but with two races under her belt and racing over a fast track she'll be closer up than she was last Wednesday a week. St. Prisca may be stepping out of her class. Nevertheless she should be able to hold SHADY LADY, MERRY MACK and CHATTERWOOD safe.

FOURTH RACE—Mrs. A. L. Austin's SUNNY SAINT looks like the most probable winner of the day. The son of Sunbriar and St. Fey is meeting the same class of platers in the fourth event he ran so well with last Thursday. He needed that race. BOUNDING DEEP was no match for Sunny Saint, but he did show a lot of foot before stopping. He may hang on longer tomorrow. REJUVENATION was right back of Bounding Deep and he was full of run at the end. He's going a sixteenth of a mile farther this time. SLICKAWAY beat SUNNY SAINT, BOUNDING DEEP and REJUVENATION, but he pulled up very sore after the race. We have to eliminate him.

SIXTH RACE — DUBLIN SHOW raced well with better platers than he meets in the sixth race, the only time he started at Bowie, and his stable thought he had an excellent chance that day. That was his only start this spring. He has been showing nice speed in his Havre de Grace trials. This may be the spot where he can earn brackets. MARY M'NEIL was in a little over her head last Friday. She may be able to outlast the faint-hearted HARVARD. The latter will doubtless set the early pace. He figures to hang on longer than he did Tuesday because he won't be pressed as hard. LAURIE should hold the others safe.

SEVENTH RACE—Bert Michell, who recently claimed OLD TIMES, shot rather high with the son of Archaic last Tuesday. Forget OLD TIMES' last two races. He'll about smother the cheap ones he'll meet in the nightcap for speed. VILLAGER failed to run his race last Saturday. He stopped badly after gaining the lead. He can do better than that. VOYAGE, on Bowie form, figures to hold ONE CENT safe. BOYISH BOB was a good second to PRICKLY HEAT the other day. She evidently has reached top form.

BURROUGHS INSECTS PLAY.

The Burroughs Athletic Club and Good Humor Insect Nines will clash Saturday at 2 o'clock on Burroughs Field.

BERWYN A. C. BACK.

Berwyn A. C. will have an unlimited nine in the field again. Manager Culbertson wishes all candidates to report on Berwyn Field Sunday at 2 o'clock. Games are being sought at Berwyn 108, between 6 and 7 p. m.

GEORGETOWN NINE WINS FROM PRINCETON, 7 TO 4

Double-Plays Aid Hilltop In Victory

G. U. Not Headed After 3-Run Attack in 2d Inning.

5 of 14 Hilltop Hits Are Bunts; 800 See Contest.

By JACK ESPEY.

GEORGETOWN got out of the red and came back to the winning side of the ledger yesterday, defeating Princeton by a score of 7 to 4 at Washington Barracks, but the Hilltop Team, like the unseasonable temperature, was not hot.

In fact, the situation was cold all around. More than 800 spectators, or real enthusiasts as they proved by their utter disregard for the weather, occupied the stands throughout the 2 hours and 35 minutes of play, while the Princeton boys demonstrated they were colder than anybody present. They did nothing that indicated baseball class.

Among the spectators, and probably the shiveringest one, was Byrd Douglas, coach of Princeton, who, in keeping with the new policy instituted by the president of his school, kept out of contact with the Tigers during the course of the game. Mr. Douglas must have felt terrible.

G. U. Defense Good.

Only in Spots.

Georgetown appeared not to have recovered from its loss to New York University last Monday, although at times there was brilliance in its performance, particularly on defense. Neither Hal Poole, starting pitcher, nor Packy White, who went in as a relief man in the fifth inning, showed his usual control of the ball, the result being that Princeton received seven free tickets to first base. Donovan had an off day behind the bat, failing to hold up his battery mates steadily, while four fielding errors found their way into the Hilltop record.

On the other hand, the right one, if you will, Georgetown made four double plays, collected fourteen hits and stole eight bases.

Two of the twin killings were engineered by the White-to-Scalzi-to-Evers combination in the late innings, and both erased Princeton's hopes of eventually overhauling Georgetown through White's lack of control. Preceding each of these plays a Tiger batter had walked.

Slim Sid Waud, Princeton's 6-foot-3 pitcher, proved an easy target for Georgetown's bunting tactics, no less than five safe bunts being registered at his expense.

Three Bunts Aid Hilltop.

Three bunts figured prominently in Georgetown's second-inning attack which netted three runs and a lead that never changed hands. Wholey, Evers and Morris filled the bases with successive bunts and Donovan followed with a single to score the first two.

Georgetown increased its lead to five runs in the third, a wild pitch and Scalzi's theft of home being the direct scoring means. Two hits, one a double by Scalzi, combined with two walks and an error also contributed.

Poole started weakening in the fourth inning, Princeton counting a pair of runs on a walk, a wild throw by Poole, a passed ball by Donovan and a sacrifice fly. The Tigers added another run in the fifth when Poole was taken out of the box, and tallied their fourth and last run in the seventh when Bennett made one of their total of four safe hits to register O'Toole, who had gotten life on Evers' error.

The Blue and Gray finished its scoring in the fifth frame aided by Waud's balk and wildness.

Maryland and Army Foes In Two Sports Tomorrow

Baseball and Lacrosse Hold Attention at Dedication of New Field; Army and Old Liners' Bands to Be Out.

THE Army Band, of 50 pieces from the War College will provide tuneful melodies when the West Point and University of Maryland Baseball and Lacrosse Teams clash in their colorful double bill at College Park tomorrow afternoon.

The West Point Teams will have plenty of support among the fans, as more than 300 officers stationed in Washington and vicinity already have banded to root for the success of the Cadet teams, and there also will be a wealth of other Army backers on hand.

Maryland's student band will vie for honors with the soldier musicians and urge the Old Line rooters to their best efforts.

One of the biggest crowds ever to see a sport card in this section is expected to be on hand when the ball game, that will dedicate Maryland's handsome new diamond, starts at 2 o'clock. Then the fans will have to step the short distance over to Byrd Stadium at 4 o'clock to take in the lacrosse tilt that promises to be a testing, hard-fought duel. One ticket is good for both contests.

The Army athletic entourage was due to arrive in Washington this evening to make their headquarters at the Wardman Park Hotel.

Maryland's Baseball Team was to tune up for the Army game in a clash with Washington and Lee today at College Park at 4 o'clock, while the stickmen were to have a light drill as their final preparation.

Coach Shipley, of the Maryland Nine, is likely to use Batson against Washington and Lee today and Milburn against the Cadets. Coach Faber, of the Terp lacrosse squad, was to marke a lone change over Is-2 Saturday's line-up. Lee is to be in one of the attacking positions, taking the place of either Ronkin or Wilson.

LEAGUE ADDS 5 COUNTY CLUBS

Prince Georges Nines Form 4th Capital City Division.

THE fourth suburban section of the Capital City League was organized last night by clubs of Prince Georges County in a meeting at the American Legion Club at Hyattsville. Five Prince Georges County teams, Mount Rainier, Bowie Motor Co., Berwyn A. C., Hyattsville All-Stars and the Dixie Pigs, were represented and voted to affiliate the annual county series with the Capital City League.

Capital City League plans provide that the winners of the four sections now comprised of Montgomery County, Prince Georges County, northern Virginia and District of Columbia meet in a play-off for the unlimited championship of this vicinity.

May 18 was set as the date of the start of the Prince Georges series with the franchise fees of $25 due on May 8. At a meeting next Thursday to be held at Hyattsville, it is likely that several more teams will enter competition in the Prince Georges series. It was voted to invite the Brentwood Hawks, Laurel National Guards, Capitol A. C., Clinton A. C., and the Lanham Team to enter the series.

Representatives at last night's meeting enthusiastically received the plans for allying with the Capital City League and adopted the Capital City League rules virtually intact.

All teams thus far entered in the series have playing fields.

Hand to Hand Scores By Head at Jamaica

Jamaica, N. Y., April 24 (A.P.).—Gifford A. Cochran's good fortune continues and he added another stake to his already long list when Hand to Hand, black filly by Coventry, scored by a small margin in the Highland Claiming Stakes here today. On Tap, racing for J. H. Louchheim, was second, and Mrs. R. T. Wilson's Barn Dance third.

Twelve 3-year-olds started, with On Tap a hot favorite, due to some fast work. Ellis, who had the mount, got the filly away and sent her to the front, leading Bourbon Maid by a head for the first half mile. Bourbon Maid found the pace too hot and dropped back beaten at the stretch, while On Tap drew clear of the field. However, in the final sixteenth she tired fast and Hand to Hand, closing gamely, won by a head. The race was worth $3,600.

C. U. BEATEN BY BOSTON COLLEGE

Cardinals Bow, 10-3, as Hurley Fails to Hold Eagles.

INSERTING ten hits at timely intervals between eight bases on balls and a pair of errors, the Boston College Nine yesterday routed Catholic University on the Brookland diamond, 10 to 3. Lou Hurley, the Cardinal mound ace, was off form and had trouble locating the plate. When he succeeded in finding the rubber his slants were favorably, or unfavorably (pending upon the point of view) received.

The Eagle batsmen took an immediate liking to the offerings of Hurley and counted three times in the first round. Two more were added in the second to clinch the decision.

Catholic U. Hits Scattered.

Curtin and O'Connor kept eight Catholic University hits well scattered. The former showed signs of weakening in the sixth and seventh and was replaced. Hurley worked well from the second to the seventh, but encountered difficulties again in that frame.

Four more runs were credited the invaders in that session. Dunn and Kelly toted the only effective bludgeons in the Cardinal attack. Kelly drove over the first run in the fourth. Creedon played the most prominent role in the Boston College attack.

RELAYS' PUBLICITY IS BIT MISLEADING

gentleman removing his pants in full view of a crowd including, perhaps, his girl, even though he has a track suit underneath and intends to put them on again promptly his race is run. But a flannel zephyr outfit is something quite different. There are pants, to be sure, but one may shuck them with complete nonchalance and the colors not only improve the spectacle, but stimulate the ambition of the little leggedy kids in the old swimming suits. It is something to aspire to, a scarlet zipper outfit with Harvard across the front, but there wasn't much inspiration in common pants, which are every man's ordinary due.

Most Sporting Episode Produced at Relays.

The most sporting episode that I have ever seen occurred in one of the college distance races in the Penn relays a few years ago, in which one runner knocked down the leading man, trying to pass him on a turn, then stopped instinctively, helped him up and gave him a 5-yard lead before he would move another step. These two were out in front of their field and the boy who passed the other one bumped him down by accident trying to go around him. The young man who went down plodded on and the boy who had fouled him now passed him again to beat him to the tape where the officials had to disqualify him.

The coaches in their social evening at one of the hotels that night had much to say about the incident, not quarreling with the verdict, which was fair enough, but admiring the instinctive conduct of the young man who stopped to wait. If he had gone on five yards they said, then thought it over and turned back, that would have been premeditation and possibly a play to the stands. But his heels came down and he stopped dead on the instant and that, I heard them say that night, was as fine a show of decency as they had ever seen in athletic competition.

Special to The Washington Post.

Orange, Va., April 24.—The Woodberry Forest Nine slugged its way to a 17-1 victory over Millar School here this afternoon. John Weaver, pitching his first full game for the locals, kept the visitors well in hand and at all stages received good support from his teammates. Millar used two pitchers, neither of whom proved effective to any marked degree. The visitors were likewise ragged in the field throughout the afternoon.

St. Bonaventure Bows To Marine Nine, 11-5

Special to The Washington Post.

Quantico, Va., April 24.—The All-Marine Baseball Team won its third straight game here today, beating St. Bonaventure College of Olean, N. Y., by a score of 11 to 5. The Sea Soldiers collected fourteen hits for eighteen bases, including a circuit smash by Gorman with two mates on the sacks in the fourth.

The visitors made seven errors, helping the Devil Dogs pile up their score. St. Bonaventure slapped "Lefty" Smith's offerings for ten safeties, including homers by Skierkowski and Galbo, both coming with the sacks bare. Tolan, Munari and Sullivan, for the home team, and Skierkowski, for the visitors, helped their pitchers to keep the scores down by good fielding.

Weather Batting .354 In Major League Games

New York, April 24 (A.P.).—A second successive day of near-freezing temperatures today caused the postponement of all but two of the eight scheduled major league baseball games and sent the clubs farther along the road toward a record of some sort for early season postponements.

In the National League today, only the St. Louis Cardinals and Chicago Cubs played their game at Chicago. Only 3,000 shivering fans attended this game. The crowd at St. Louis, where the Browns entertained the Detroit Tigers in the only American League game, hardly reached the 1,000 mark.

So far this season the weather man has been batting .354 against the two major leagues. Forty American League games have been scheduled and rain or cold has caused 15 of them to be postponed. The National League has lost 13 out of 39.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

ALEXANDRIA, Va., April 24.—Episcopal High School Track Team, after being defeated decisively by Eastern High School, will face another formidable foe tomorrow afternoon when it meets Western High School on Hoxton Field beginning at 3:30 o'clock.

Coach Tompkins has been drilling his boys at top speed. He has placed stress on the running events, the department in which the Episcopalians are the weakest. Along with drilling his entire team he has been trying to get his five boys in shape for the Penn relays on Saturday afternoon.

Robert McCauley was elected captain of the George Mason High School Track Team at a meeting of the track squad held yesterday afternoon. The team left the city this afternoon to compete in a triangular track meet with Washington and Lee and Fredericksburg High Schools, to be held in Fredericksburg, Va. This will be the first meet that the Potomac boys have entered this season and Coach Prex Wilson states that his team is in excellent shape. Tomorrow afternoon the strong Washington and Lee High School will come to Edmund Duncan Field for their clash with the fast George Mason High School Baseball Team. This will be the first game that the local boys have played in the third district race.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

MONTGOMERY'S JAIL PLANS GET SANCTION

Dormitories Are Provided for Persons Guilty of Minor Infractions.

SCHOOL DEDICATION DUE

Considering the county jail a house of correction rather than a prison, the courthouse building committee has approved plans for the new Montgomery County Jail which will provide large dormitories for women and dormitories for men who commit minor infractions of the law

The jail, which is to be located on top of the new county courthouse, is planned to obscure the humiliating atmosphere of incarceration as much as possible. For this reason, no cells are provided for women, with the exception of a small room which has been provided for the care of mentally unbalanced women awaiting removal to the State institutions.

In conning the plans for the jail, the committee took into consideration the suggestions toward betterment of county jail conditions of Gov. Albert C. Ritchie and other high officials who have made a study of criminology. It was brought to the attention of the committee by Preston B. Ray, clerk of the circuit court, that the State favors large dormitories rather than individual cells in prisons.

Two Cell Tiers for Men.

Two cell tiers are provided for men, one for white and one for colored, together with two rooms which each contain four cots. Prisoners held for minor infractions will be placed in these rooms. Woman prisoners also will be segregated, one large dormitory being provided for white women and another for colored. The jail is planned for the accomodation of 30 prisoners. Three small rooms are provided for witnesses held by the State and can be utilized as dormitories if needed.

It was suggested that the cell rooms be planned high enough so that an additional floor of cells can be built over the original cells if it is found necessary to enlarge the jail facilities. Wings are to be added to the courthouse and jail in about five years.

Mayor J. Roger Spates of Rockville, a member of the committee, informed the body that the town plans to increase the capacity of the sewer in the rear of the new courthouse on Jefferson street.

Final Plans Are Drawn.

Delos H. Smith, architect in charge, reported that final definite plans have been drawn and that it will require about a month to get them in workable shape.

An elevator is to be provided which will be located next to the incinerator in the basement and will provide a means of bringing prisoners to the jail from the basement, as well as carrying refuse from the jail. Two large boilers are provided for the basement with room for a third which will furnish enough heat for the courthouse and the two wings when they are built later. The ventilating system in the county commissioners' office and the circuit courtroom will be forced air and for the other sections of the building will be gravity.

The entrance hall will be of marble with tile floors of a special design depicting some outstanding historical features of the county. Floors in the county commissioners' office and courtroom are to be of cork and the other floors of asphaltum or mosaic in design.

Vapor Heating System.

Woodwork is to be of birch with mahogany finish. The woodwork in the courtroom is to be of walnut or other fine wood. The heating system is to be a vapor system, with the pump in the basement. The courtroom is to have three concealed radiators, with other radiators being visible. Electric connections will be provided for 20 clocks, and waterproof floors outlets every 10 feet will be provided for special lights and for fans and telephones. A private branch exchange switchboard is to be provided in the courthouse.

The exterior design is to be limestone, preferably buff, and monolithic columns will be preferred to those cut in three sections. Windows and screening are to be of metal.

Members of the courthouse committee which is functioning for the general courthouse building committee are: Capt. Chester Wells, chairman; George P. Sacks, Berry E. Clark, Preston B. Ray, George E. Hamilton, Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, County Commissioner Lacy Shaw, Otho H. W. Talbott, H. F. Taff and Mayor Spates.

The new Colesville School Building will be dedicated tonight at exercises held under the auspices of the Colesville Parent-Teacher Association. United States Senator Millard Tydings will be the principal speaker. Other speakers scheduled are Maj. E. Brooke Lee, speaker of the Maryland House of Delegates; County Commissioner Lacy Shaw, Superintendent of Schools Edwin W. Broome, and Dr. George W. Lewis, county supervisor of school property.

The building was completed recently at a cost of $20,000. It is a three-room brick structure. Classes have been held in the building for nearly a month. Mrs. Frank Dunnington, president of the parent-teacher association, will preside.

The Fred-Mont Epworth League Union will ho'd its second annual banquet tonight in Epworth Hall, Gaithersburg. The union is composed of the Epworth Leagues of Montgomery and Frederick Counties. Election of officers will be one of the important items of business.

The Montgomery County Social Service League dinner will be held tonight at 6:45 o'clock at the Manor Club, near Norbeck. The members of the program committee include Miss Estelle T. Moore, Miss Irma E Mohr and Robert E. Bondy.

Petitions Circulated For Tucker Candidacy

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., April 24.—Five petitions are now in circulation in various sections of the Tenth district, urging Representative Henry St. George Tucker, of Lexington, to announce his candidacy for reelection, subject to the Democratic primary in August. The law requires that a candidate must present a petition signed by at least 250 voters in his district.

A petition calling for 50 names was quickly signed here yesterday. It was circulated by Taylor McCoy. Apparently Mr. Tucker, if he becomes a candidate for reelection, will have no opposition within his own party. Republicans have not met to name their candidate from this district.

COLESVILLE SCHOOL DEDICATION TONIGHT

20 CONVICTS SLATED FOR RITCHIE PAROLE

Two Serving Sentences for Murder Will Receive Governor's Clemency.

WILL BE FREED TUESDAY

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., April 24.—Among twenty prisoners to be paroled from Maryland penal institutions by Gov. Ritchie next Tuesday is William E. Curren, convicted before the Circuit Court of Montgomery County of housebreaking and sentenced to a term of four years in the House of Correction. Fifteen months of his term remains.

Curren stole a number of shoes, kocketknives and similar articles. The governor has been advised that Curren was only 18 years old at the time of the act and never had proper rearing. He is now recovering from pneumonia. He has been a good prisoner, and another reason that moved the governor to extend clemency is that Curren has planned to make his abode with his stepmother and for the first time will be under good home influence.

Joseph Ford, Negro, convicted in the Prince Georges County Circuit Court of assault and battery and sentenced to one year at the "cut," also will be granted parole. He has served all but four months of his term.

Two men serving fifteen years in the penitentiary for second-degree murder also will be given their release. They are Frank Fielding and Thomas S. Jones, convicted in Anne Arundel County Circuit Court and have served half of their terms. They attended a football game in Baltimore nearly eight years ago and later went on a party in this county, got into a quarrel with a taxicab driver over the fare, and in the fight the driver was struck over the head and fatally injured.

Fielding is from Pennsylvania and Jones from North Carolina. The governor has been advised that both are of respectable families and many representative citizens urged clemency. Both have given assurance they will return to their homes. The convicting judge recommended parole.

400 Chickens Killed When Store Is Burned

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., April 24.—Two separate fires early Thursday morning damaged a combination store, filling station and a home at Windewald, near here, and killed 400 one-pound chickens and several turkeys on eggs when an overheated brooder set fire to the chicken house.

The damaged store-filling station belonged to James Boyer, the blaze starting in the store. The home of Lee Tobin, adjoining, was damaged. Firemen were hampered in their fire fighting by lack of water facilities. The damage will amount to several thousand dollars.

VIRGINIA ORCHARDS HARD HIT BY COLD

Timberville Section Grower Believes Peach Crop Is Wholly Wiped Out.

FREEZE HURTS APPLES

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., April 24.—With the thermometer dropping last night to 23 degrees above zero in the valley sections and 10 degrees above in the mountainous section, fruit growers in the Central Shenandoah Valley are alarmed today over the fate of the apple and peach crops which bring millions of dollars annually into Virginia.

Yesterday thousands of apple trees were clothed in healthy pink blossoms. Today many of these trees are brown-coated, indicating last night's cold wave had done heavy damage. Apple growers went into their orchards this morning and brought to Harrisonburg branches of apple blossoms burnt by the freeze of last night.

Just how much damage has been done is unknown tonight. County Agent S. M. Cox, of Rockingham County, after a trip through the apple belt today, expressed the opinion there will be a fair-sized crop of this fruit. His view, however, is not shared by apple growers, who fear the crop has been greatly damaged, and only a small yield will be harvested. Walter N. Sprinkel, Dr. Gilbert Rostem and others in west Rockingham County, said their apple crops had been ruined.

Zigler Is Pessimistic.

Howard Zigler, owner and manager of a large fruit area in the Timberville section, said what was left of the peach crop had been almost entirely wiped out, but that there would be a fair apple crop if no more cold weather hit the blossoms.

"The Yorks variety pulled through the night fairly well, as they are more backward than others," said Mr. Zigler, "but the Black Twigs, the Staymans, the Winesaps and the Delicious are hard hit. The clean-up of the peach crop came as a surprise to us. This fruit was damaged heavily from winter freeze about a month ago. My investigation of the peach orchards today indicate this crop has been entirely wiped out."

Taken by Surprise.

The cold wave descended upon the fruit belt in the Shenandoah Valley as a thief in the night. Chilly weather, but not extremely cold, prevailed yesterday, but no alarm was felt by the fruit growers. When early risers went outdoors today and found ice, owners of fruit orchards became panic-stricken. They went to their orchards and returned with reports that the crop had been suddenly damaged if not almost entirely wiped out.

More conservative observers of fruit conditions in the Central Valley district still feel there will be enough apples to pull the growers through in good shape. Fruit growers, like all other classes engaged in agriculture, it is pointed out, become greatly alarmed with a sudden cold snap in blossom time and later reap good crops.

$4,000,000 Plant For Virginia.

Richmond, Va., April 24 (A.P.).—Officials of the Du Pont Cellophane Co., announced here today that plans were completed for the construction of a $4,000,000 plant at Ampthill, Va., adjacent to the $8,000,000 Rayon plant now in operation there.

ATTACKS ON LIBEL INDICTMENTS SET

Pleas in Abatement of Four Editors to Be Heard by Full Bench.

QUASHING IS SOUGHT

Arguments on the pleas in abatement, filed last week by attorneys for the Rockville Independent editors who were indicted for libel by the Montgomery County grand jury, will be heard May 5, it was announced yesterday by Judge Robert B. Peter.

Defense attorneys contend in the pleas that the grand jury indictments are faulty in that more than one witness was permitted to be in the hearing room while testifying, and that Capt. Joseph C. Cissel, counsel to the county commissioners, and Maj. E. Brooke Lee, county Democratic leader, read portions of the law regarding libel to the members of the grand jury.

The pleas in abatement seek to have three indictments against Walter S. Casey, present managing editor of the paper, and an indictment against Harrison B. French, former editor, quashed. Casey has elected to stand trial on one indictment. The other former editors, Morris A. Bealle and Walter W. Liggett, also were indicted. The indictments charge criminal libel in connection with attacks on the county commissioners and Maj. Lee, which were published in the paper.

The arguments will be heard by a full bench, in accordance with the wish of the defendants. Chief Judge Hammond Urner, Judge John S. Newman and Judge Peter will consider the arguments.

Defense attorneys are F. Barnard Welsh, Edward Peter, Miss Vivian V. Simpson, John E. Oxley and E. Barrett Prettyman.

Additions and improvements to the telephone system in Virginia, involving expenditures of $200,870 have been authorized by the board of directors of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. of Virginia, it was announced yesterday.

The projects authorized include additional trunk lines connecting Harrisonburg, Winchester, Stasburg, Warrenton, and Marshall with Washington, and Staunton and Winchester, Roanoke and Staunton, Lexington and Lynchburg. Construction of a new pole line between Oakton and Centerville, Fairfax County, was also arthorized.

Baber Gets U. S. Bank Post.

VIRGINIA HIGHWAYS ATTACKED IN STUDY

In Spite of 7,000 Miles of Roads, Need for County Work Is Stressed.

CONSULTANT AID URGED

Charlottesville, Va., April 24 (A.P.). Reviewing Virginia's road progress in recent years, a new social science study of contemporary county government problems by Dr. Wylie Kilpatrick, associate research professor of government in the Institute for Research in the Social Sciences at the University of Virginia, declares that, nevertheless, "an adequate and permanent system of highways for Virginia remains to be constructed."

Despite the building of a system stretching 7,000 miles over Virginia, and the fact that no county has failed to build "at least the beginning of acceptable county roads," the distinctively rural problem is not yet solved, says the report. It declares that the 1925 compilation of the United States Census of Agriculture, showing that of 119,575 Virginia farms nearly 62 per cent were located on unimproved dirt roads, continues applicable today only slightly diminished.

Establishment of the office of county engineer is suggested as the prime requisite for development of county planning, "for the engineer is the technical consultant upon the most important of the planning tasks of the county, road building. That duty does not encompass all the field of county planning, which, to be made definite, may require the institution of a special planning agency.

"The planning agency may be constituted either as a committee of the board of supervisors or as a special board named by the supervisors. In either case, the engineer will be an active officer of the planning board, furnishing the major part of the data upon which it will proceed and supervising the physical construction performed as a result of the planning recommendations."

As a result of the 1928 road code enactment, says the report, in order to set in motion the machinery for State-county cooperation it is necessary for the board of supervisors only to request assistance "which is rendered in so diverse ways that the entire process of road construction can be completed with State cooperation." It adds that "previous statutes had forecast the grant of power, and previous practice had anticipated it."

Martinsburg Freeze Hurts Apple Blossoms

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., April 24.—A minimum temperature of 30 here last night did heavy damage to fruit buds now approaching full opening, apple men agreed today, but they added their belief that sufficient live buds survived to produce a good crop if they are not injured later.

Growers were more disturbed over the promise of a heavy frost tonight than the subfreezing weather last night, believing the continued cold will do heavy harm. Peach buds were believed sufficiently advanced to resist the cold snap without damage, examination of the buds today showing little injury. Snow squalls, rain and wind added to the unfavorable weather last night.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.

The quarterly meeting of the Fairfax County Pomona Grange was held in the auditorium of the Oakton School. The feasibility and possibilities of establishing a grange market in Washington, for sale of surplus products of grange members, was discussed. The grange decided to refer the question to a committee consisting of G. Bentley Mason, master of Mount Vernon Grange, and one member from each subordinate grange, to act with the executive committee to consider the project. They were given power to establish the market if they believe it worth while, and report to the next quarterly meeting.

The meeting was well attended. Worthy Master J. Oswald Carper, of McLean, presided at the round table discussion. Chicken raising methods featured the discussion led by A. C. Spaight, of Floris, who explained the methods of handling baby chicks, and F. H. Wilkerson explained the difference of incubator hatching and hatching by hens.

Several projects for the grange program this summer were also discussed. It was decided to hold a grange field day May 5 at Oakton. State Grand Grange Master J. H. Hursley and State Secretary Harry Caton will be present. A basket luncheon will be served. The meeting will be exclusive for grange members, when the Vivian lecture, illustrated by slides and pictures from various parts of the world, will be given. A committee was named to take charge and make arrangements for that day.

The last Tuesday in July was selected as the date for observing "Kelly Day," in honor of the founding of the grange. Mrs. A. Harmon Roberts, of Mount Vernon Grange, was instructed to prepare a special program for that day.
